THE VALUATION OF FEEDING STUFFS BY MEANS OF CHEMICAL ANALYSIS

BY

MERID SMITHAM, FIC, ICS

AND

F. ROBERTSON DODD, FIC, ICS

Since the publication by one of us in the Journal for 1914 of an article bearing the same title as above many changes have taken place not only in the general economic conditions of the world, but also to a very considerable extent at home. These changed conditions have affected the farmer to a very marked degree, and he has found it necessary to modify his methods and to sixe in labour and in every other possible way.

The enormous increase in the cost of feeding materials, during the period of the war, and since led to a much diminished use of concentrated foods, and the increased employment of home-grown crops for feeding and fattening purposes

These changes in the cost of feeding materials and the alterations in the nature and volume of the imports, while not diffecting the general principles underlying the valuation and successful use of Leeding Stuffs render in some respects a revision of the paper desirable, if not indeed necessary, if the article is still to serve a useful purpose

Moreover, during the war, efforts were made to discover new feeding stuffs to be used in addition to, or as a substitute for, those already in use, and as a number of these seeds and materials have been sent to us for analysis and examination, we have thought that the time is opportune to place on record the results which have been obtained

There were also in the original article a number of statements which were quite applicable at the time of writing, but which, by the exigencies of time, are now, if not misleading, liable to be misconstrued. In these circumstances it needs no apology on our part for reproducing, so far as the bulk of the text is concerned, the paper of seven years ago, but with such alterations and emendations as are necessary for present day conditions.

During the latter half of last century, when the concentrated foods purchased by farmers consisted chiefly of Linseed and Cotton-seed cakes, little or no attempt was made by manufacturers or dealers to base the value of the foods they sold upon the composition of the articles, and in so far as the current prices of feeding stuffs varied on the same market, the differences were due to physical rather than chemical considerations. It is true that a few of the more enlightened and better educated of the farming community took advantage of this state of things by sending such samples as were offered to them to be analysed before making a choice; but the vast bulk of the Agriculturalists of the country had regard only to the soundness or otherwise of the various foods so far as these could be determined by the senses of sight, taste and smell.

In the last two decades of the century, educational agencies were at work to spread the results of scientific investigations in matters agricultural, and the increasing effect which such education had upon the minds of farmers at large, prepared the way for the passing of the first Fertilisers and Feeding Stuffs Act in 1893. With the advent of this Act a gradual improvement in the relations of Agriculturalists and manufacturers and dealers was observable. On the one hand it was no longer regarded a sin or an impertinence for the farmer to ask the manufacturer or dealer to give an exact guarantee for the article he was selling, and on the other hand most of the manufacturers honestly set themselves to comply not only technically, but with the spirit of the Act.

As time went on, however, it was found that there were imperfections in the Act which in the interests of honest trading required amending, and in 1906 a new Act was passed, which on the whole has certainly been an improvement on the earlier one.

One of the chief additions to the new Act was a clause requiring manufacturers of, and dealers in, feeding stuffs to state, within certain prescribed limits, the amounts of Oil and Albuminoids in all cattle foods which have been artificially prepared. This was a new departure which had the effect of bringing before the minds of the Agricultural public the special value of these two constituents of foods and the important part they play in animal nutrition. On the other hand the manufacturers of feeding stuffs being compelled to give the guarantees when selling, based their bids for the various commodities when buying to a large extent upon the contents of Oil and Albuminoids as ascertained by chemical analysis, and it is now quite a common practice to fix prices for forward delivery upon a fixed basis for Oil and Albuminoids, with specified allowances if the delivery should fall below the standard. Speaking generally, it may be said that up to the passing of the Fertilisers and Feeding Stuffs Act, 1906, such analyses as were made were, for the most part, for the private guidance of purchasers, but since the passing of the Act there is an increasing tendency for both buyers and sellers to regulate the price by the quality of the article as revealed by chemical analysis.

That this is in the main the proper course to pursue will be our endeavour to show; but the subject is surrounded by so many details that what at first blush would seem to be an obvious proposition, becomes a subject requiring close attention and study if the full advantages of the method are to be obtained.

It is a matter of common experience, quite apart from scientific investigations, that foods from different sources differ in dietetic values, and it is obvious that such variations must be due to differences in the quantity or quality of the various constituents of which they are composed.

Before, therefore, any intelligent survey of the subject can be made, it is necessary to understand something about animal nutrition, and the functions which the various constituents of the food play in the animal economy. How to state the case with sufficient accuracy to render the subject intelligible, and without becoming too prolix for an article such as this, is a matter of no little difficulty; but we must ask our readers to bear with us while we endeavour to expound in the briefest possible manner the different points which must be kept in mind when making purchases of feeding stuffs, and determining what mixture of these with the home grown produce is most likely to yield satisfactory results in feeding with particular animals, and for particular purposes.

With this object in view it will be desirable to consider in detail : --

THE COMPOSITION OF FEEDING STUFFS.

By chemical analysis it is possible to resolve any given food into its proximate constituents, and to determine within narrow limits the exact percentage of each ingredient present; but to do this in every case would entail an immense amount of work, and render the cost of the analysis prohibitive for practical purposes. Fortunately for the purposes of comparison it is not necessary to enter into any such detail, and, as we hope presently to show, the resolution of a food into certain general broad classes indicates the nature and the approximate feeding value of the material with sufficient accuracy to meet the requirements of the case.

That foods are not all of equal value is so obvious a proposition that it needs no demonstrating, but the causes of such differences in feeding value are by no means so self-evident, and in order to understand them properly it will be necessary to consider in detail not only the nature of the many constituents of foods but the relative proportions in which these substances are present.

But quite apart from the nutritive value of the food itself, it is evident that the presence of any extraneous substances which are without feeding value, such as water or dirt, will diminish the feeding value by at least the amount to which they are present; while any poisonous seeds or other poisonous substances in injurious quantities, render otherwise valuable foods quite unfit for feeding purposes. One of the first objects of chemical analysis is to determine the fitness or otherwise of the substance in question to be used as food, and if the quantities of extraneous matters are sufficiently small to render it safe for feeding purposes, and the seed or substance from which it is prepared has no deleterious properties, the analyst would pass it as fit for feeding purposes, but would have to carry the analysis further, in order to determine its relative value as compared with other foods upon the market. In order to make the comparison, it is necessary to consider first the nature of the substances in foods which are utilised by animals; because it is only those portions of the foods which are digested which can be used for the maintenance of the body, or the production of Hesh and fat, milk, &c. The undigested portion may, and does, have a residual value as manure, and must be taken into account when the purchasing price of foods is considered; but for the present purposes it is not necessary to complicate the subject with such details.

In every food upon the market, water is present to a greater or less extent, and up to a point must be regarded as a natural and necessary ingredient. The extent to which it is present in seeds, depends, to a large extent, upon the conditions of larvesting and subsequent storing. In Maize, for instance, the percentage of water may vary from 17 per cent. or even 18 per cent. in a new or badly harvested crop, to about 10 per cent. in well matured seed, while in oleaginous seeds such as Linseed, the moisture may drop to 7 per cent., or even under that amount. In the process of seed crushing, and some other forms of manufacture, it is necessary to raise the temperature of the ground seeds or meal to a point approaching that of boiling water, and to do this it is a common practice to use "live" steam in a vessel known as a "Kettle." The resulting cakes, in such instances, contain not only the moisture natural to the seed, but a varying quantity of added water, and as water is of no value as a food, it is evident that a consideration of the amount present in a given food is of importance, inasmuch as the value of a food is depreciated in proportion to the amount of water present; and if the amount of water exceeds 13 per cent. or so, it is objectionable on account of the tendency of wet foods to "heat" and become musty on and generally in conjunction with other foods, so as to bring the total sand in the ration well within the 2 per cent. limit.

Very few of the grains, or seeds, or other foods, as offered on the market, are free from chaff or dirt. In some cases the dirt can be, for the most part, removed by washing, screening, &c., but in the case of imported cakes and meals, such treatment is practically impossible, and they must be bought on their merits. Although there is no legal standard for the percentage of sand or dirt in feeding stuffs, there is a pretty general concensus of opinion that so long as the sand present does not exceed 2 per cent., little or no risk is involved in the ordinary use of such foods; but if it exceeds that amount, the food should be used with caution.

In addition to mineral matters in the form of dirt, &c., there are present in all foods, mineral matters which are an integral part of seeds or plants, and are necessary for healthy growth. These mineral matters consist chiefly of Phosphates of Lime and Potash, the proportions and quantities varying in different plants, but being substantially constant for one and the same kind of plant.

In some respects these mineral matters must be regarded as foods, since they are essential to the formation of Bone, &c., but as most foods contain more than sufficient phosphate of lime to meet the requirements even of growing animals, no special attention in purchasing has to be given to the relative amounts present, except so far as the residual value for manurial purposes is concerned.

With the exception of the water and mineral matters, natural and extraneous, all foods without exception consist of organic matters, i.e., compounds of Carbon with Hydrogen, Oxygen, and in some cases Nitrogen, which are capable of being burnt in the air and to some extent after digestion in the animal economy. Just as the quantity and quality of the fuel used in the furnace of the steam boiler determines the amount of energy produced in the steam engine, so is the successful feeding of animals for work, or the production of body weight or milk, determined by the quantity and quality of the food supplied. Perhaps a better example would be that of an internal combustion engine fed with producer gas. In that case the gas which is effective in the cylinders is analogous to the digestible portion of the food, while the unconsumed carbon, clinker, &c., the refuse from the gas producer, resembles the undigested portion of the food.

But just as the producer gas is composed of a number of gases, each capable of giving different amounts of heat or energy, so the digested portions of foods perform different functions and have different values in the animal economy.

While always, therefore, keeping in mind the fact that it is only the digested portions of food which are of direct value to an animal, it is necessary to consider the general nature of the organic part of foods.

When examining the analyses of feeding stuffs as very generally reported, it will be found that the constituents are divided up under the following six headings:--

Water or Moisture.
 Oil or fatty matters.

(3) Albuminous Compounds—sometimes stated as Albuminoids or Proteids.

(4) Digestible or Soluble Carbo-hydrates.

(5) Woody fibre.

(6) Mineral matters, including Sand.

It will probably tend to simplify matters if we discuss the nature of the compounds coming under the respective heads and their general functions as food in the order above given.

(1) WATER OR MOISTURE.—A necessary constituent of foods, but of no feeding value.

(2) Oil or Fatty Matters.—All animals and most vegetable substances contain more or less oil or lat, the exact character of which varies with the source from which it is obtained. Thus there is a wide difference in consistency, appearance and taste between, say, Mutton Suet and Linseed Oil; but notwithstanding the wide physical differences, there is a close family likeness between all true fats or oils, whether derived from the animal or vegetable Chemical investigations show that when split up kingdom. by super-heated steam or other suitable means, all fats are resolved into Glycerine and different fatty acids, of which there are a large number. The exact nature of a fat depends upon the proportions and character of the constituent parts which yield these fatty acids, the more solid fats usually yielding considerable quantities of Stearic and Palmitic Acid, while with liquid oils Oleic Acid generally predominates.

All oils contain a relatively large percentage of Carbon and Hydrogen, and only comparatively small quantities of Oxygen, and in their ultimate composition do not vary to any marked extent. When burnt, most of the Carbon and Hydrogen are free to combine with the Oxygen of the air, and will produce, therefore, more heat than other organic compounds containing less Carbon and more Oxygen.

From direct experiments it has been found that when completely burnt the heat produced by one part of Fat is about equal to that produced by 2.4 parts of Starch, or 2.5 parts of Sugar.

As will be seen later when treating of the Albuminoids, fats and oils, being quite devoid of Nitrogen, are unable to form any part whatever of the muscular system of animals, but they are able to supply the heat necessary for the maintenance of the body, and the energy required for work, and after these requirements have been satisfied, any portion not so utilised, can be stored up in the body in the form of fat. Whether utilised for maintenance, employed as energy, or stored up in the form of fat, it may fairly be assumed that the fats are worth approximately two-and-a-half times their weight of Starch and Sugar.

(3) ALBUMINOUS COMPOUNDS, variously described as Albuminoids, Proteids, and sometimes Flesh-forming or Nitrogenous compounds.

The term Albuminous is derived from Albumen, the white of an egg, one of the most familiar bodies of that class to which it has given its name. Like the fats or oils, there are a considerable number of compounds differing in physical and chemical constitution included under this head; but they all resemble one another in one respect, viz., that in addition to Carbon, Hydrogen, and Oxygen, they all contain Nitrogen in approximately the same proportion. Subject to some slight modifications, to be considered subsequently, it may be assumed for practical purposes, that from whatever source the Albuminoids are derived, those portions of them which are digested and assimilated by animals, are of equal value.

On analysing the different parts of an animal, it is found that muscle, nerve, and the greater part of the solid matter of blood consist of Albuminoids, while horn, hair, wool, cartilage, bone, the casein of milk, and some other animal products contain Nitrogenous compounds which have to be produced from the digested Albuminoids of the foods consumed.

Any food, therefore, to be a complete one, must contain sufficient digestible Albuminoids to build up the various parts of a growing animal enumerated above, and in addition, must supply sufficient Albuminoids to repair the waste in the body of the Nitrogen compounds, which by exercise and respiration are burnt in the body and transformed chiefly into a much simpler Nitrogenous compound, Urea or Uric Acid, which is chiefly eliminated by the kidneys in the form of urine. The special relations which the digestible Albuminoids must bear to the non-nitrogenous tats and carbo-hydrates in rations for different purposes, will be treated later on, under the heading "Albuminoid ratio:" but it may be permissible to point out here that if the proportion of Albuminoids to fats and carbo-hydrates drops below a certain well-recognised point, a partial starvation of the animal will occur. and feeding cannot be profitably carried on. From this it follows that whatever advantages particular feeding stuffs may have, and however cheap they may be in relation to other foods on the market, it would be bad economy to buy these cheap foods, unless in the mixed ration used the proportion of Albuminoids is raised to the required standard.

But in addition to building up the frame of animals, and repairing the waste continually going on, the Albuminoids, both in the digested and the undigested conditions, have a commercial value inasmuch as the Nitrogen not retained in the bodies of animals, or sold in the form of Milk, has a potential value as Manure, and is capable of replacing, to some extent, the high-priced Nitrogenous manures, which, by the exigencies of modern farming, are required on all highly cultivated farms. In this respect, the Albuminoids differ from the fats and carbo-hydrates, which are practically without any manurial value.

By the regulations of the Board of Agriculture and Fisheries, the Albuminoids are to be calculated by multiplying the percentage of Nitrogen by 6½. This is not quite scientifically correct, because in most foods there exist Nitrogenous bodies known as Amides, &c., which are either intermediate bodies formed in plants from the simpler forms in which the Nitrogen is absorbed to its final elaboration as Albuminoids, or formed by the decomposition of the latter after they have been produced. Speaking generally the proportion of Amides, &c., to Albuminoids in home grown fooder and immature plants is greater than in fully-matured seeds, from which most purchased foods are produced, and consequently the effect on the purchasing value in the case of cakes and meals is less than it would be if the home grown foods were under consideration.

Moreover, although the Amides are not themselves able to take the place of Albuminoids in the production of muscle, &c., they have a protective action in diminishing the waste in the body as well as a direct manurial value, and consequently in reckoning them as Albuminoids the error is not great in the case of most purchased foods.

(4) DIGESTIBLE OR SOLUBLE CARBO-HYDRATES, sometimes simply described as Carbo-hydrates. Under this head a large number of chemical substances, varying very much in chemical and physical composition, are included; but with some slight, and for practical purposes, negligible exceptions, the whole of the members of this group resemble one another in so far as they are compounds of Carbon with Hydrogen and Oxygen, the two latter being present in the same proportion as in water, hence the name Carbo-hydrates. Owing to the fact already alluded to that the Oxygen in combination is relatively high, the amount of heat given out on burning is less than in the case of oil; but they are nevertheless very valuable constituents of most foods, and are primarily useful in maintaining the body heat, and when the food given is in excess of what is required for this purpose a portion may be stored up in the body in the form of fat.

The most common examples of Carbo-hydrates in daily life in the pure form are Starch as used in glazing linen, or in the form of arrowroot, tapioca, &c., Sugars as generally used, or in the form of honey, glucose, syrup, &c., and Gums of which ordinary Gum Arabic is a type. In addition to the above are a number of less defined compounds, derived in part from the woody structures of the plants, which owing to their chemical constitution are included under the generic name of pentosans.

The use of the term digestible in stating the results of an analysis is somewhat misleading, and was introduced many years ago on the assumption that those portions of the Carbo-hydrates of plants which became soluble by successive boilings with dilute solutions of acid and alkali were assimilable by the animal; but subsequent research has shown that there is not a necessary relation between the chemical treatment and the natural digestion, and the word as used in an analysis must not be regarded as synonymous with the same word when considering the results of feeding experiments.

(5) WOODY FIBRE, variously described as indigestible woody fibre, cellulose, crude fibre, &c. For the purposes of analysis a portion of the finely ground cake or food under examination is successively boiled with dilute Sulphuric Acid and Caustic Potash and the residue then left, after being deprived of fat and deducting any mineral matters present, is stated as woody fibre, or crude fibre.

Formerly it was assumed that this portion of the food was indigestible; but subsequent research has shown that this is not strictly correct, and that as a matter of fact a portion of the woody fibre is capable of digestion and to some extent can act as a food, but the amount of energy employed in masticating and digesting it is so great that the effective food value of what is digested is very small. As we hope later to show, the amount of energy derived from the digestion in the animal of woody fibre may well, in many instances, be set against the lower value of the pentosans, contained in the Carbo-hydrates, as compared with equal weights of Starch or Sugar.

(6) MINERAL MATTERS.—ASH, INCLUDING SAND.

These are the portions of food which are left behind when the material, is burnt with free access to the air. In the analysis the amount stated is usually the weight directly found, although for scientific purposes the Carbonic Acid and sand are sometimes deducted and the remainder described as pure ash.

As already indicated, the ash of plants consists chiefly of Phosphate of Potash, Lime, and sometimes Magnesia. That portion of the phosphates not retained by animals is voided in the manure in forms which are directly available as plant food.

(7) Accessory Substances.

(a) Many plants contain minute quantities of substances called "Vitamins," which appear to be necessary to the maintenance of health in animals. Animals fed on Polished Rice, for example, may develop Beri-beri, while a water extract of the polishings may be used to cure the disease.

The absence of the Fat-soluble Vitamin found in yolk of egg, animal Fats, the fresh leaves of vegetables, &c., but not in Lard or vegetable oils, will cause sore eyes (Xerophthalmia) in chickens, rats, and mice, and stunt their growth. Similarly fresh vegetables, fruit, meat, &c., contain a Vitamin principle—scarcely ever to be found in dried vegetables and seeds—said to be a preventive of Scurvy.

Our knowledge of these substances is yet in its infancy, and though it is well known that the clovers, for example, contain Water-soluble Vitamins which are not found in Timothy Hay, it is not yet practicable to express our knowledge in figures which would aid us in the valuation of Feeding Stuffs generally.

(b) In some seeds, as was shown in a paper in this Journal, 1909, by A. Smetham, there exist enzymes, which, under suitable conditions, may yield relatively large proportions of Prussic Acid.

In addition to the substances classed under the heads given above there are various pigments, essential oils, poisons, &c., which are characteristic of certain plants, and which may even render the plants or seeds unfit for feeding purposes; but granting the absence of poisonous or irritant constituents, the quantities of such compounds is usually so small that for practical purposes they do not affect the valuation.

THE DIGESTIBILITY OF FEEDING STUFFS

In discussing the composition of Feeding Stuffs, and the part the various constituents play in the animal economy, repeated reference has been made to the fact that it is only those portions of a food which are digested that are of any direct value to the animal, and it must, therefore, follow, that regarded solely from the feeding standpoint, it is more important to ascertain the composition of the digested portions of foods than to know their complete constitution. If the whole of a food were digested, or if the digestible portions of different foods bore the same ratio to one another, or even if the various constituents (Albuminoids, Fat, Carbo-hydrates) had each respectively the same digestion coefficient for all plants and for all animals, it would be possible by taking the analysis of the food to determine what quantities of effective food materials an animal had at its disposal by simply making the proper allowances as determined by the results of practical feeding experiments. But unfortunately no such simple comparison is possible, because it has been found as the result of a very large number of carefully conducted experiments with animals of various kinds, both at home and abroad, that the amount of the constituents of foods digested is determined not only by the special character of the food, but also to a very considerable extent by the kind of animal to which it is fed. Even one and the same food given in different admixture to the same animal and under otherwise similar conditions, may show different degrees of digestibility, and naturally the case is more complicated when comparisons are made with different foods used under varying conditions with animals of different kinds, ages, sex and From this it follows that the reliability of any thriftiness. particular feeding experiment with any given food or combination of foods is limited strictly to the conditions under which the experiment was conducted, and to make one single experiment of general applicability would be to court errors. It is only by taking the average of as large a number as possible of careful experiments under similar conditions, that an approximation to the truth can be arrived at, and then it must be remembered that owing to some unknown or undetected difference in the stock or in the conditions obtaining on the farm, the results in a particular case may vary from the average by as much as, or more than, the differences in the experimental cases from which the average was calculated.

No doubt if it were possible to make feeding experiments with every purchase of cake or meal under the conditions in which the food is to be used, more accurate comparisons of the foods could be obtained than by a comparison of the foods based upon the total feeding constituents as revealed by analysis; but such a course is entirely out of the question both with regard to the time occupied and the cost involved; and in practice it is necessary to rely either upon the chemical analysis, or to disregard the quality altogether, and to base the choice of foods upon their general appearance.

It becomes, therefore, a matter of prime importance to deternine to what extent the amounts of digestible constituents in different foods vary, and if it is found that the digestive co-efficients of different foods and similar foods from different sources, as determined by direct experiments with animals of various kinds do not bear an approximately definite ratio to the total constituents present in the food, then it would have to be admitted that, except for the determination of extraneous and detrimental substances, the analysis as ordinarily made would throw but little light on the relative values of foods from different sources, and would have a limited and doubtful value in the case of foods produced from the same class of seed but from different countries.

In England many experiments have been made to determine the relative feeding values of the more commonly used foods; but these experiments, although exceedingly useful from a practical point of view, throw very little light upon the question now under discussion. In the past it was largely to Germany that we were indebted for the elaborate set of experiments made to determine the amounts of the various constituents of foods which are digested and utilised by animals and the amounts which pass through the digestive tracts without being of direct service as food.

The general method adopted to determine the digestive coefficients of a particular food is to carefully weigh and analyse the whole of the food given to an animal, and also to weigh and in a similar manner to analyse the fæces, being careful to keep these free from the urine, which is a product of the digestible portion of the food. The difference in weight between the total of each constituent ingested and that voided in the fæces represents approximately the amount of such constituent which has been digested, and the relation of such digested portion to the total contained in the food is generally known as the digestive coefficient. Thus, if in a given experiment it was found that only one-tenth of the total weight of a given constituent (fat for instance) was found in the dung, the co-efficient of the digestibility of the fat in that particular ration would be 90 per cent.

The processes of digestion do not quite follow the simple lines indicated above, as in the dung are to be found biliary and other secretions formed from matters previously digested, the presence of which would tend to depress the apparent digestibility of any particular food under examination; but for practical purposes, and even for scientific use, the method is capable of yielding trustworthy results.

At all events, the method is the most accurate we have at our disposal, and is far more reliable than any methods based on artificial digestion.

Before comparing results of published experiments to ascertain what differences in the digestibility of the three most important constituents of foods, Fat, Albuminoids, and Carbo-hydrates, have been observed, we may, perhaps, be permitted to say that the foods used on the farm fall naturally into two classes—(1) those which have to be purchased at a comparatively high price, and which may usually be regarded as concentrated foods, and (2) those foods which are grown on the farm, and which form the basis of all feeding operations. For easy reference, therefore, we propose, in tabulating the results of some of the feeding experiments, taken chiefly from the excellent tables published by Wolff and Kellner, to divide them into the two classes. A casual glance at the two tables suffices to show that, speaking generally, the concentrated purchased foods have high digestive co-efficients, while the coarser, home-grown crops have, in some cases, relatively low digestive co-efficients.

It would not be possible in the space at our disposal to quote one-tenth of the results given in the comprehensive tables published by the authors above mentioned; but we have collected the results so far as they relate to the most commonly occurring foods on the English markets, or grown on English farms. The average and the extreme figures obtained with ruminants are given, the limits found in the different experiments being given in brackets:—

A close inspection of the above tables shows that in the case of Class I. which includes mature grains and typical examples of the foods as usually purchased, the principal nutrients are, for the most part, digestible, although the averages for the different foods show divergencies sufficiently great to have a marked effect upon the relative feeding values of the respective foods. be noticed, however, that the differences in individual experiments with similar foods are usually greater than the average differences between any two of the other foods enumerated. While, therefore, there is a probability that in actual practice, the nutrients of one particular food may have, weight for weight, an enhanced value over another food of different origin, there is, judging from the wide limits observed in the tables given above, by no means a certainty that such will be the case. So far as the Fat and Carbo-hydrates are concerned, any diminished digestibility lowers the value of the food in direct proportion to the amount left undigested; but in the case of the albuminoids, the undigested portion has a direct value as manure.

In the case of Class I., the average differences in the digestibility of the Oil and Albuminoids between the highest and the lowest enumerated, barely exceed the "limits of error" prescribed by the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries as permissible variations in the percentages of the respective constituents as shown by analysis and if such a margin is allowed in a commercial transaction, it seems to us that a farmer is not undertaking unduerisks, if, in calculating the relative values of two foods offered to him, he assumes that the constituents are equally digestible, when the outside error he may make does not exceed, and probably is much less than the short delivery he is bound to accept under the regulations of the Fertilisers and Feeding Stuffs Act.

In case of the foods included in Class II. it would be wrong to value the coarse fodders on the same basis as the concentrated foods; but as these foods when sold at all are rarely, if ever, sold on analysis, little or no practical difficulty arises in this respect.

For scientific investigations, and even for commercial purposes, the depression in value of the nutrients of foods due to the varying digestibility should always be kept in mind; but the point which we want to emphasise is that when dealing with the concentrated foods the ratio of the digestible nutrients to the total contained in the food is sufficiently constant to warrant the use of the total percentages in calculating the comparative values of purchased foods.

In the tables given above the digestible Carbo-hydrates are calculated without any reference to the woody fibre. Digestion experiments have shown that pure woody fibre fed in a very finely divided state is, to a large extent, digestible, and the portion which is assimilated has been found to have about the same value as an equal weight of digestible starch. But it is also found that when fed in a coarse condition the amount of energy expended in mastication and digestion is so considerable that, in the case of sawdust, for instance, the actual feeding value is less than nothing; while in such materials as Earth-nut husks the depressing effect of the woody fibre counterbalances the slight value the other constituents of the materials possess.

When, however, the woody fibre in foods is finely ground, it will generally be found that there is a small balance to the credit of the food due to the digestibility of the fibre; but in the methods of calculation referred to later, no attempt is made to assess the value of the digestible part of the woody fibre.

The effect of disregarding the food value of the digestible woody fibre is to increase the values of the digestive co-efficients of the Carbo-hydrates to an extent equal to the nett food value of the fibre.

ALBUMINOID RATIO OF FEEDING STUFFS.

From the analyses given in the appendix it will be noticed that the home-grown crops as harvested, with the exception of the cereal grains, have a very much lower feeding value than those which are usually purchased; and when allowance is made for the diminished digestibility of the coarser fodders the disparity is still more marked. It will be noticed also that the relation of the Albuminoids to the Carbo-hydrates and fat is less in many of the home-grown crops than in the purchased cakes and meals.

In practice the home-grown crops, both because of their bulky nature and cheapness in production, must form the basis of all feeding operations; but it is very frequently found that the purchase of concentrated foods is an economical proceeding. In the first place, the purchase of feeding stuffs enables more stock to be carried on a given acreage without any increase in rent, rates, or other standing charges; and secondly, the incher character of the concentrated foods enables the farmer to make good by proper admixture any deficiencies in the composition of the mixed home-grown todder which he is compelled to use.

Important as the first of these considerations is, it is somewhat beside the scope of the present paper to consider it in detail, but the second point has a very direct bearing upon the character of the food it is necessary to buy, and the applicability of chemical analysis in deciding such choice.

When dealing with the various constituents of feeding stuffs, it was pointed out that the Albuminoids are absolutely necessary for the production of flesh, and as there is a constant waste in the animal body of the Nitrogenous tissue, a sufficient amount of Albuminoids must be given in the food to make good the loss. In the cases of growing animals and cows in milk, extra quantities of Albuminoids are required to form flesh or the casein of milk.

From theoretical considerations it may fairly be assumed that for any given animal fed for a particular purpose, there must be a fixed quantity of food of a definite composition which will yield the most economical results. What these quantities are, and what the ratio of the different constituents of the food should be, have engaged the attention of many experimenters, with the result that standard rations have been formulated. These rations are based upon the average results of many experiments; but as every feeder knows there are wide differences between individual animals of the same class, and the figures given must, therefore, be regarded as probably giving the most economical results.

In order to determine whether a food is of a proper composition so far as the contents of Albuminoids is concerned, it is customary to find the ratio of the Albuminoids to the other digestible constituents of foods; but in order to make the comparison easy, it is usual to convert the percentage of fat into the quantity of starch which would produce the same amount of heat when digested and to add this to the total amount of digestible Carbo-hydrates.

This is done by multiplying the fat by 21 (more exactly 2.44), and adding the result to the digestible Carbo-hydrates. The ratio of the digestible Albuminoids to the sum thus obtained is known as the nutritive or Albuminoid ratio.

Oil ... ... 4.00 per cent. Carbo-hydrates ... ... 65.00 ,, Albuminoids ... ... 8.00 ,, The oil in terms of Starch is ... 4 \times 2\frac{1}{2} = 10 add the digestible Carbo-hydrates ... 65
```

The Albuminoid ratio is:—
8:75 or 1:9.3.

STANDARD RATIONS.

In the following table the figures given refer to the quantities of food required per day for every 1,000 pounds of live weight, and consequently corrections must be made for the exact weights of the animals in calculating what should be given per head:—

From the above figures it will be seen that cows in milk and fattening sheep require a food somewhat richer in Albuminoids than growing and fattening oxen; but the total amounts of dry matter and other constituents do not vary beyond certain somewhat restricted limits. The chief point to be kept in mind is that the proportion of Albuminoids in the total rations must not drop below one-eighth, or exceed about one-fifth part of the total digestible fat and Carbo-hydrates calculated into equivalents of Starch. If the proportion of Albuminoids falls below the limits just indicated. there will be restricted growth or partial starvation, while if it exceeds the limits, there will be an increased percentage of the Albuminoids unutilised in the body. In the latter case, however, the excess of Albuminoids voided by the animal is of direct value as manure, and in that form would be worth about onethird of the value of the food. It is, therefore, good practice in considering any particular ration to supply rather more than the calculated quantity of Albuminoids.

In grass and root crops generally there are present nitrogenous bodies which are not true Albuminoids, and the relation of the true Albuminoids to the total Nitrogenous substances varies considerably in different years with even one and the same crop. It is, therefore, no easy matter, unless very exhaustive analyses were made, to ascertain the true Albuminoid ratio of the mixed home-grown fodder; but there are some general considerations which, without attempting elaborate calculations, will indicate the direction in which purchased feeding stuffs may be economically used.

Meadow grass and hay have a digestible Albuminoid ratio which does not differ materially from standard rations given in the table; but swedes, mangels, potatoes, and particularly the cereal straws fall below the standards. Any mixture of the last named foods with grass or hay would, therefore, fall below the proper ratio in Albuminoids, and to bring such a mixture to the required strength a quantity of a food rich in Albuminoids sufficient to bring the Albuminoids to the proper amount should be added. But it should be noted that in making the choice of a food for such purposes only those containing high percentages of Albuminoids are admissible. However cheap, for instance, Maize might be, and however desirable it might be to use it in conjunction with other foods, it is useless for the purpose of increasing the Albuminoid ratio, because the Albuminoid ratio is only about 1:9.

Of recent years experiments have been made in the use of Flesh Foods as an addition to the ordinary rations.

Though these foods are high in Albuminoids and generally rich in Phosphate of Lime, it is necessary to exercise caution in their use. They should, of course, be fresh, free from rancidity, and of a wholesome character, and, in general practice, the quantity used should not be allowed to exceed about 10 per cent. of the mixed ration.

Many Fish Meals contain an excessive amount of salt, which is specially injurious to Pigs and Poultry, and, in the case of Pigs, when the meals are of an oily nature, they are said, if used in undue proportions, to impart an objectionable fishy flavour to the flesh of the animal.

As there must, in practice, be considerable doubt as to the exact composition of the home-grown foods, any attempt to make the daily rations conform rigidly with the standards is practically impossible; and while in no way discrediting the value of such rations or suggesting that they should be disregarded, we are of opinion that the quantities of concentrated food necessary to bring the ration to the proper standard can most easily be arrived at by considering each of the constituents of the ration separately. Suppose, for instance, a farmer has some fattening oxen, and has at his disposal on the farm meadow hay, turnips, mangels, and oat straw. The relative quantities of these which he will be able to use will depend upon his stocks; but having decided in what proportions they should be used, it is not a difficult matter to determine without any abstruce mathematical calculation what proportion of any given purchased cake or meal should be added to make good the deficiencies in Albuminoids in the several foods. For fattening cattle the Albuminoid ratio to be aimed at is, say, 1:5.5.

If the hay is of average quality, the probability is that it will approximate very closely to this figure, and in that case there will be neither an excess nor a deficiency of Albuminoids to be allowed for.

If Decorticated Cotton-seed Meal, containing, say 42 per cent. Albuminoids, which, from the appendix, will be seen to have an Albuminoid ratio of 1:1.2, be chosen to make good the deficiency of Albuminoids in the Swedes used, then a simple calculation shows that about 1½b. of cake must be added to the ration per 100lb. of Swedes consumed.

Similarly, if Mangels, having the composition given in the appendix, with an Albuminoid ratio of 1:7, were used, it would be necessary to add 1lb. of Decorticated Cotton-seed Meal for every 100lb. of Mangels consumed.

In the case of Oat Straw, which is shown by experiment to have but a limited digestibility and a digestible Albuminoid ratio of about 1:13, it will be necessary to add about 6lb. of Decorticated Cotton-seed Meal to every 100lb. of Oat Straw consumed.

The quantities of Decorticated Cotton-seed Meal given above represent necessary additions to the home-grown foods, in order to produce a complete ration and ensure the full utilisation of the foods, and such addition of Decorticated Cotton-seed Meal or an equivalent quantity of other food rich in Albuminoids should be made, whatever the stocks of these home-grown foods may be.

If there is a deficiency in the quantities of the home-grown materials at the disposal of the farmer, it may be, and often is, necessary to purchase additional feeding stuffs. When this is done, the proper Albuminoid ration may be maintained by the use of a mixture itself having the proper Albuminoid ratio, as, for instance, a mixture of three parts Maize Meal with one part of Undecorticated Cotton Cake, or foods containing less Albuminoids than Decorticated Cotton-seed Meal may be substituted, wholly or in part, for the purpose of adjusting the deficiency in the home-grown produce. Thus, instead of adding 1½b. of Decorticated Cotton-seed Meal to each 100lb. of Swedes, the balance could equally be maintained by the addition of 2½b. of Undecorticated Cotton-seed Cake.

. In like manner, proportionate quantities of Undecorticated Cotton-seed Cake, or other foods relatively rich in Albuminoids could be used to make good the deficiency in Mangels, Oat Straw, or such other food comprising the ration.

Similar considerations would apply to grazing animals. The grass consumed may be considered to have the proper proportion of Albuminoids, and if it is deemed necessary to purchase other foods, they should be chosen so that the mixture shall have an Albuminoid ratio suitable for the purpose. Subject to the necessity above pointed out of keeping the Albuminoid ratio of the total foods within certain restricted limits, it is evident that the choice of the purchased feeding stuffs should be determined by their relative feeding value and the market price. Although there is an increasing tendency for all recognised feeding materials to approximate to one standard price per "Food Unit," there are still wide differences in the price of foods upon the market, and it is, therefore, very desirable to have some simple system which will enable the purchaser to determine which, of a number of foods, is relatively the cheapest.

With this object in view a number of methods have been suggested, none of which can be regarded as perfect, but since they afford comparisons of the feeding value of foods widely differing in composition and in price, they form a useful means of computing the relative values. The two methods chiefly used are:—

(1) By "Food Units."

(2) By "Starch Equivalents."

VALUATION OF FEEDING STUFFS.

(1) By "Food Units." To estimate the relative values of foods by this means from their chemical analysis it has to be assumed that the valuable constituents of all of the concentrated foods which the farmer usually buys, and to which this method of valuation would be applied, are of equal digestibility; and it is also assumed that the various constituents, Oil, Albuminoids, and Carbo-hydrates have respectively the same value from whatever source they are obtained. It is further assumed that the woody fibre is without feeding value, and that the fat and Albuminoids are both of them equal to 21 times their weight of Carbohydrates. None of the above assumptions can be regarded as scientifically accurate, but, nevertheless, for general use and ready reference, valuation by means of "food units" is the simplest, and, if not the most accurate, at least the most handy, method we possess of comparing the relative values of purchased foods, whether from similar or different sources.

In treating of the Albuminoid ratio of foods, it was shown that fat had the heat-producing capacity of about $2\frac{1}{2}$ times its weight of starch; but no reference was made to the value of Albuminoids as food, except so far as to treat of its value in replacing waste. When burnt in the body Albuminoids are capable of producing heat in precisely the same manner as starch or fat, but to a different degree. Direct feeding experiments have shown that pure Albuminoids have a feeding value equal to about their weight of starch, but in arriving at the "food units" they are assumed to have $2\frac{1}{2}$ times that value. The reason for that is that the manurial value of the cake is also taken into account, so that the total "food units" arrived at by the calculation indicate the relative total value of the food on the farm as food and manure.

In a paper on "Food Units," by A. Smetham, published in this Journal in 1904, it was shown that at the prices then ruling, and basing the value of the manure on Voelcker and Hall's tables, the manurial value of most of the concentrated foods was accurately measured by multiplying the Albuminoids by $2\frac{1}{2}$, instead of the factor which would be necessary if the feeding value only were considered.

In the Journal of the Royal Agricultural Society for 1913, Voelcker and Hall published a revised table of the manurial values of Feeding Stuffs, in which the residual manures were shown to have a somewhat greater value than was given to them in the previous table published in 1902, but the differences were not sufficiently great at that time to necessitate any alteration in the factor of $2\frac{1}{2}$ already adopted.

With the outbreak of war at the latter end of 1914, a set of conditions arose which dislocated all the markets of the world, and interfered with and finally, practically prevented the importation of cattle feeding stuffs. What stocks were available were commandeered by the Government, and rationed by a department of the Ministry of Food, and sold at prices which were entirely During the intervening period the valuation of feeding artificial. stuffs both as foods and residual manures by means of chemical analysis taking any standard for the purpose of calculation would have shown many anomalies, and even to-day, with the restrictions removed, many inconsistencies in prices, due to closed ports, difficulties in exchange, and the many other abnormal conditions which obtain, manifest themselves, and render necessary readjustmonts in the relative values of the feeding stuffs offered for sale in the open markets. Particularly is this the case in regard to the estimation of the manurial values of Feeding Stuffs, as apart from their feeding value.

Although long observation has shown that in pre-war times there was a sympathetic movement in the Fertiliser and Feeding Stuffs Markets, there is no necessary dependence of the one on the other, and consequently different factors must be used for calculating the actual residual manurial values as the prices of manures rise and fall. But in so far as the system now discussed aims only at determining the relative and not the actual values of the feeding stuffs which may be under consideration, alterations in the value of the unit of Nitrogen, as expressed in terms of Albuminoids, make little difference, provided proportionate variations in prices of both Fertilisers and Feeding Stuffs take place simultaneously and in the same direction.

Although the fluctuation in prices of Fertilisers and Feeding Stuffs have been very great, and by no means uniform, there already seems to be more stability in the markets, and the relative values of the two commodities seem to be much more interdependent. This is shown by a comparison of the price of Sulphate of Ammonia, as the standard for Nitrogen, and three of the more commonly used cakes.

Sulphate of Ammonia ... 240 - ... 480 '- ... 480 '- ... 380/- ... 147/- ... 320/- ... 260/-

On comparing present price lists (April, 1921) with those of April, 1914, similar ratios are in almost every case seen, and it appears probable that with the return of more normal conditions in trade and finance will come a closer relationship than now exists.

Since, however, "Food Units" are chiefly employed to compare the values of purchased concentrated foods which, for the most part, contain Albuminoids in considerable and approximately constant proportions, and as only half of the contained Nitrogen is allocated to the manurial value, slight variation in the relative cost, due to market fluctuations in the unit value of Nitrogen, Phosphoric Acid, and Potash, make very little difference in the relative values when expressed as "Food Units."

Although the prices now ruling are about double those which obtained when the factor of 2½ for the valuation of the Albuminoids was first calculated, the relationship to-day is as true as it was then. So far as that half of the Albuminoids utilisable as food is concerned, the factor is arrived at by theoretical considerations and practical experiments without regard to money value.

The other half of the Nitrogen allocated to the Nitrogen of the Albuminoids voided in the excrements was determined primarily by ascertaining the proportion of the Nitrogen in the manure, and, after allowances were made for losses by fermentation, drainage, &c., in the preparation of the manure, the remainder was valued at the then current rates. It is evident, therefore, that wide differences in Fertiliser values would materially affect the manurial value, and to some extent the total value of the food as food and manure, provided there was not a corresponding variation in the cost of foods; but, as indicated above, the errors introduced by the fluctuations in the relative values of the manurial ingredients of Fertilisers and Feeding Stuffs are small, and would not be greater than the errors due to varying degrees of loss in the manufacture of farmyard manure and its utilisation on the farm.

In order to use "Food Units" for the purpose of comparing the value of two foods, it is only necessary to make a simple rule of three sum, when the selling price is known.

Supposing, for example, it was wanted to compare Decorticated Cotton-seed Cake, with 160 "Food Units," with Egyptian Undecorticated Cotton-seed Cake, with 104 "Food Units." If the Decorticated Cotton-seed Cake cost £16, the cost of each "Food Unit" would be 2/-, and consequently Egyptian Undecorticated Cotton-seed Cake, having 104 "Food Units," would be worth 208/-, or £10 4s. 0d. per ton.

Or when the price bears no simple ratio to the number of "Food Units," a rule of three sum will show the relative values:—Thus if the price of Decorticated Cotton-seed Cake were £15 per ton, it is only necessary to multiply that amount by 104 (the "Food Units" of Undecorticated Cake), and divide by 160 (the "Food Units" of the Decorticated Cake)—160: £15:: 104 = £9 15s. 0d.

Units" of the Decorticated Cake)—160: £15:: 104 = £9 15s. 0d.

(2) By "Starch Equivalents." By this method of computation an endeavour is made, as in the case of comparisons by means of "food units," to express by a single figure the relative values of given foods. As pointed out in the earlier part of the paper, feeding stuffs from different sources not only vary in the percentage digestibility of the valuable constituents but the actual value of the digestible portion of Fat, Albuminoids and Carbo-hydrates for the maintenance of the body, or for productive increase may, and as a matter of fact does, in many cases vary also. The experiments which have been made in Germany, Great Britain, the United States, and elsewhere, show clearly that the variations may be so considerable, especially in the case of the coarser homegrown fodders and by-products from certain manufactures, &c., that Kellner was led to devise a method by which corrections could be made for the deviations of such foods from the full value of the various constituents as ascertained by direct experiments with nutrients in a pure form.

Since the relative values of foods may be gauged by the productive increase in fat which is observed when a given weight of food is added to a diet just sufficient for the maintenance of an animal, it was decided by Kellner to take this as a basis of his calculations, and since all the nutrients of the added food contribute directly or indirectly to the increase in body fat, experiments were made first to ascertain the increase produced by pure starch, and then to determine, under similar conditions, the effects of equal weights of the other foods under examination. The general method adopted will be made clear by an example given by Kellner in his book.

"Suppose an experiment with ruminants has shown that 100 Kg. of fairly good meadow hay forms 8 Kg. of body fat when added to the maintenance ration. In a similar experiment where starch was fed instead of meadow hay, it was found that the weight of fat gained was exactly equal to a quarter of the starch given. If the 8 Kg. of fat obtained from the hay be multiplied by 4, the quantity of starch which would have the same effect as 100 Kg. of the hay is obtained, that is, 32. This figure 32 is then the starch equivalent of the meadow hay. This does not in any way mean that the meadow hay contained 32 per cent. of starch, but expresses the food value of the hay as compared with starcl."

There can be no doubt that provided experiments are conducted with sufficient accuracy, the method indicated above is more likely to give a true estimate of the feeding value of the particular food as compared with starch; but it would only be for the particular animal and under given conditions. By multiplying the experiments, the average results will diminish the probable errors in any given case; but there must always be a certain amount of doubt when modifications in the total rations are made.

As a direct feeding experiment is out of the question when making a purchase of a feeding stuff, the farmer has to be content with the analysis as usually given, showing the total amounts of the ingredients. In order to find out from this analysis what would be the "starch equivalent" of the food, it is first of all necessary to compare the analysis with that given in the table of a similar class of tood. If the analysis is practically identical with that given, the "starch equivalent" may be assumed to be that given in the table.

If, however, there is any material variation, it is necessary to calculate the amount of digestible nutrients, using for that purpose the digestibility co-efficients of similar materials, as given in a separate table. As the individual tests for one and the same food vary within very considerable limits, the average must be taken.

It is next necessary to ascertain the amount of pure protein contained in the digestible crude protein. This is done by subtracting the amides from the digestible crude protein, the amides being found by reference to the table, which gives the ratio of pure protein to crude protein.

Having by the means indicated above, ascertained from the analysis the percentages of the digestible pure protein, digestible fat, digestible Carbo-hydrates and digestible woody fibre, the "Starch Equivalents" of the food may be ascertained by using the following factors:—

	"Starch Equivalent."
1 part digestible protein	= 0.94
1 part digestible fat in the coarse fodders, chaff, roots, and their by-1 roducts
In grains and their by-products, exclusive	:
of oily seeds	0.10
In oil seeds and oil cakes	-2.41
1 part digestible Nitrogen-free extract sub-	• stances and crude fibre together	* ^^

By multiplying the digestible constituents as ascertained by calculation from the analysis by these factors, the "starch equivalent" is obtained if the food stuff can be regarded as "full value." If the food stuff is not of "full value" a deduction indicated by the tabular number must be made. For instance, if the value showed an availability of the digestible constituents of only 95 per cent., a deduction of 5 per cent. would have to be made from the sum of the "Starch Equivalents."

In dealing with coarse folders, it is advisable, according to Kellner, not to make use of the value number but to deduct 0.58 for each per cent. of the total crude fibre shown by the analysis.

In the case of chaff 0.29 per cent. is to be deducted for each 1 per cent. of total crude fibre, while in the case of green fodder the factors to be used are:—

4 per cent. total crude fibre 0.29 for each 1 per cent. 6 0.348 0.38,, * * 10 0.43,, 12 0.48,, ,, 14 0.5316 0.58

It will be seen that to arrive at the "Starch Equivalent" of any food a series of rather complicated calculations have to be made, which would prove puzzling to many British farmers; but where it is desirable to check the total rations and to ascertain how nearly the mixture conforms to the standard rations given by the authorities as the results of feeding experiments, it might be well to have analyses made of all the fodder produced on the farm and the concentrated purchased foods, and to calculate from these analyses the "Starch Equivalents" in the manner given above. It must be remembered, however, that the digestible nutrients are calculated from the average of a relatively small number of experiments which have varied very widely between themselves. Thus in the case of Wheat Straw the average digestibility is calculated from the results of ten separate investigations with five different sorts of animals, in which the digestibility of the crude protein varied from 0 — 26 per cent., the crude fat from 17-44 per cent.; the Nitrogen free extract substances from 29-40 per cent., and the crude fibre from 42-59 per cent. Taking the extremes as a basis of calculation, there would be a difference of over twelve "Starch Equivalents" between the highest and the lowest of the recorded results if the correction be made by the use of the factor 0.58 for each per cent. of crude fibre instead of using the value number given in the tables. The figures would range from 4.3 for the minimum to 16.4 for the maximum, and although by taking the average the probability is that the errors would not be great, it is well to keep in mind the possibilities of variations within somewhat wide limits.

Some difficulty may also be experienced in deciding on the proper factor for the oil in such substances as Compound Cakes, but the difficulties in the cases of the concentrated foods are small compared with those met with in the case of the home-grown foods.

Another objection to the use of "Starch Equivalents" from the purchasing point of view is, that the method relates only to the feeding values of different foods, and takes no cognisance of the residual values of the foods as manure, and as these values may range at present prices from practically nothing in the case of, say, Tapioca Meal, to over £6 for each ton of Decorticated Cotton-seed Meal consumed, it is evident that a further calculation would be necessary when valuation by "Starch Equivalents" is adopted, before any comparison can be made between the total values of different foods to the farmer.

In a recent circular letter the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries point out that confusion has arisen in connection with the feeding of animals owing to the existence of different sets of figures relating to the composition and nutritive value of feeding stuffs, and states that it has decided to adopt as standards the figures published by the Animal Nutrition Institute, Cambridge University, in a pamphlet, entitled "Rations of Live Stock," by Professor T. B. Wood, C.B.E., M.A., F.I.C., I.R.S.

In this pamphlet a long list of analyses showing the ciude and digestible nutrients of a large number of teeding stuffs is given, and, following the plan adopted by Kellner in his treatise, "The Scientific Feeding of Animals," referred to above, the starch equivalents are calculated from the digestible nutrients in the following manner.—

It has been found by exact experiments that 1lb. of Oil gives out as much heat when digested as 2 3lb of Starch or Sugar, and 1lb. of Protein (true Albuminoids) as much as 1.25lb of Starch. The Nitrogenous substances which are not Protein have smaller value, 1lb. being equal to 6 Starch Applying these figures to good meadow hay, the analysis of which is given in the tables at the end of the pamphlet, the following results are obtained --

	Digestil	ble 1	Jutricuts
Pure Protein					4.8
Other Nitrogenous substance	s 1.6	\times	.6		1.0
Oil	. 1.0	\times	2.3	=	2.3
Soluble Carbo-hydrates	.25.7	\times	1.0		25.7
Fibre	.15.0	×	1.0		15.0
Total fuel value of 100lb. o	f				-
hay, expressed as Starcl	1				48.8

The meaning of this is that 100lb, of the hay in question has the same feeding value as 48.8lb. of Pure Starch.

In like manner it is found that 100lb. of English-made Linseed Cake have the same feeding value as 83.8lb. of pure Starch.

As pure Starch is not on the market as a commercial product, Professor Wood has worked out the values of average hay and average Linsced Cake in terms of Starch equivalent, and by taking each of these as 100, the equivalent of any other similar food may be compared by a glance at the tables.

The use of a pure chemical substance like Starch as a standard for fattening increase has, from the scientific point of view, a distinct advantage over complex foods of varying quality, such as Hay and Linseed Cake. With regard to the former it has already been shown when discussing the digestibility of Feeding Stuffs that there are wide variations in the digestible nutrients, and although the averages of all the experiments are taken for the purposes of calculation, it by no means follows that the results obtained will give even a near approximation in the case of any given crop. It is well recognised that the quality of hay is dependent upon a large number of conditions, such as the character of the season, the nature of the herbages, the climate, the composition of the soil and methods of cultivation, and many other causes. Even the idiosyncrasies of the animals have a marked effect upon the digestibility, even when the same food is used, while it by no means follows that results obtained in experiments in Germany, with German beasts and German fodder, are entirely applicable to the conditions at home.

With Linseed Cake as a standard for comparing the more concentrated food, less exception can be taken, although even in this case the means of the digestion co-efficients may vary greatly from the extremes. Moreover, there may be a range of something like 10 per cent, in the feeding value of Linseed Cake from different sources.

In order to apply the Hay and Linseed Cake equivalents now to be adopted in the publications of the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries, it is necessary before comparing the feeding values of two or more foods, to deduct from the selling value the manurial value. This has to be done by calculations based upon the last revision of Voelcker and Hall's tables for the valuation of the manurial residues of feeding stuffs, taking the Nitrogen, Phosphoric Acid, and Potash at current prices. How difficult such an adjustment may be becomes evident when the attempt is made with the aid of the price lists published in the Agricultural and other papers. But unless the lists of manure values are constantly revised, the separation of the food values from the manurial values is apt to give fictitious values to the various foods.

The successful conduct of a stock farm depends not merely upon the number of animals which may be fattened or milked n a given year, but upon the means that are taken to keep the farm in a high state of fertility, and not the least important consideration in this respect is the manurial value of the concentrated feeding stuffs imported on to the farm. For this reason, if for no other, any system for the valuation of purchased foods which disregards the manurial value is faulty; and as the question of money value is the one which dominates a farmer's decision in purchasing for general practical purposes, the estimation of the value by "Food Units" is better suited to the needs of the English farmer than the more elaborate system of "Starch Equivalents."

APPENDIX.

The following analyses made in the laboratory show the composition of shipments of feeding stuffs made in the ordinary course of business, or of trial shipments or samples of materials for which a market has been sought.

When a food has been ascertained to have poisonous properties, or is reputed to be unsuitable for feeding purposes, it is marked by an asterisk (*) in the tables; but the absence of such a statement and the inclusion of the "Food Units" does not necessarily imply that the foods are wholesome.

The "Food Units" are calculated on the assumption that Oil and Albuminoids are of equal value, and together are $2\frac{1}{2}$ times as valuable as the Carbo-hydrates.

THE BOLTON SHOW OF 1920

BY

HAROLD HOLDERNESS

During the war years when depleted farm staffs had heavy duties thrown upon them in the effort to increase the home production of foodstuffs, when railways were fully taxed in carrying arms and equipment for the men valiantly holding the "farflung battle line," and fighting in the cause of freedom, Agricultural exhibitions larger than the purely country colt shows were officially banned, and so from 1915 until 1920 the Royal Lancashire Agricultural Society was unable to build up the annual expositions, which for magnitude, quality and perfection of organisation have stood second to none of the County shows for many years. It is not necessary to remind members, though the fact should be placed on record, that during the interregnum the Society preserved a continuity of interest in its work and maintained activities which justified support, especially from tenant farmers, of a membership considerably larger than that already on the books. It took the initiative in formulating prize schemes to stimulate food production made imperatively urgent in consequence of submarine warfare on merchant ships, and its example was commended by the then Minister of Agriculture to kindred bodies throughout the country. Those who in their thousands took up spade husbandry and made fertile the plots acquired under the Cultivation of Lands Order, received encouragement as well as the arable farmers and the stock-keepers, premiums being offered for crops and dual-purpose herds. In the organisation of the farm crop and allotment schemes the Society had the advantage of the co-operation of district War Agricultural Committees, several of which raised funds that handsomely supplemented the prize list, and the competitive spirit being keenly aroused on the plots as well as on the newly-ploughed lands, in districts previously known as the grass areas of the County, undoubtedly focussed attention upon and led to the wider adoption of the best methods of husbandry, and emphasised the importance of the maintenance of the milk supply from the best dairy stocks.

Sufficient has been said in these prefatory notes to make it abundantly clear that during the period in which Agricultural shows of any magnitude were officially banned, the Royal Lancashire Agricultural Society aided stock-breeding and husbandry by compensating activities, and helped to keep Lancashire in the forefront of the counties in educational enterprise for the benefit of Agriculture. There were some who thought that an effort might have been made to revive the exhibition in 1919, and pointed to the success that attended several of the small shows in support of their arguments, but the limited time in which to make arrangements, and the generally unsettled state of both home and foreign affairs, made an undertaking of the magnitude of the Royal Lancashire a most risky proposition. It was, however, unanimously decided to resume operations in 1920, and the Council had every confidence in accepting the invitation of Bolton, where urban and rural interests are mingled in a way that is not often so marked in towns of similar size; where the "powers that be" do not permit things to be done by halves; and where the Society was splendidly supported on the occasion of its previous visit in 1907 Owing to a variety of causes it was not possible to restore the show to its pre-war dimensions. The labour problem, intensified by the demand for shorter hours and repeated calls for higher rates of pay, the cost of transport and materials and the entertainments tax, were amongst the handicaps that, much to the Society's regret, necessitated some curtailment of the show. Bands, tournaments, and even the dog section, which has always been a strong attraction to Bank Holiday crowds, were deleted from the programme, in the belief that the sum that would be claimed by the Commissioners of Customs and Excise would be out of all proportion to the extra income these taxable features would produce. This decision was justified by subsequent experience, for it is doubtful, in view of the threatening weather during the show period, and the overdrawn pictures as to the state of the ground that appeared in some sections of the Press, whether the attendance of the public would have been materially increased had these attractions been included.

A site was found in a picturesque portion of Bolton's suburbia, convenient to the car route, from Bolton and Horwich, and not far distant from Lostock Junction Station The Yard had an area of nearly 50 acres, covering portions of two farms in the occupation of Messrs. Lowe & Gregory. The weather added to a variety of other difficulties in delaying the work o laying out the field and erecting the shedding, for there were 47 successive days on which rain was recorded, and those who know something of the tasks involved in building up a four days' exposition in normal times, condoled with the members of the Council and the Officials in their battle with circumstances without parallel in the Society's long history. At the appointed time, however, the showyard was ready for the reception of exhibits. The planning of the Yard necessitated carrying the main artery or avenue over a wide fissure caused by a water course which was spanned by a substantially built bridge, and in this structure alone some 80 tons of timber were absorbed. The avenue, rom which the exhibitors' stands radiated, had a gentle gradient ascending to a plateau, where the great judging ring was established, the dining and tea pavilions built, the various live stock sections housed, the butter-making and poultry-trussing competitions conducted, and the lectures on bee-keeping delivered. The exhibits in the implement and machinery section were set out on the eastern extremity of the field, parallel with the highway from Bolton to Horwich.

The confidence with which Bolton's invitation had been accepted was more than justified. The Right Hon Lord Leverhulme honoured the Society and the town of his birth by accepting the presidency, taking an active interest in the Show, and making a handsome contribution to the funds. The local committee undertook to raise $\int 5,000$, which is slightly more than double the amount ever contributed by a local auxiliary, and before the close of the show were able to announce that they had achieved their ambitious object Alderman Robert Parkinson, the Mayor of Bolton, was Chairman of the Committee, Sir Knowles Edge, the Deputy Mayor, Vice-Chairman, and Colonel G. Hesketh, an ex-Sherift of the County, and Mr. Sam Parker, the Town Clerk, served the Committee, as they did on the occasion of the Society's last visit to the town in 1907, in the offices of Hon Treasurer and Hon. Secretary respectively. The splendid services of these gentlemen, who had strenuous workers amongst the members of their committee, have been publicly recognised.

THE ROYAL VISIT.

Several months prior to the Show it was the Society's pleasure to be able to announce that the Bolton meeting would be honoured by a Royal visit. It was originally understood that the Prince of Wales would be the distinguished visitor, but meantime His Royal Highness had entered upon his memorable Colonial tour, and was still strengthening the links of Empire and establishing himself in the affections of the peoples of the Overseas Dominions when the Show opened on July 29th. The Duke of York, who graciously filled the breach, received a characteristic Lancashire welcome, and his presence undoubtedly helped the Society to secure a record attendance for the opening day. Prince Albert motored from Worsley Hall, where he had been the guest of the Earl and Countess of Ellesmere, and after unveiling a cenotaph e ected in Bolton to the men of the 3rd East Lancashire Brigade R.F.A., who fell in the war, proceeded to the showground, where he was received by the President, Lord Leverhulme, and Mr. Windham E. Hale, Chairman of the Council, and was introduced to the Hon. W. Hulme Lever and Mrs. Hulme Lever. the main entrance His Royal Highness proceeded on foot along the main avenue to the Royal pavilion, and after lunch visited some of the principal features of interest, witnessed the parades of prize stock from the Royal box on the grand stand, and later

The Prince's party for luncheon included the Earl and Countess of Ellesmere, Earl Grey, Lord Leverhulme, Captain the Hon. Jas. Stuart, Equerry, the Hon. and Mrs. W. Hulme Lever, Lady Enid Vane, Captain the Hon. G. Lambton, and Miss Lambton, Sir J. O. S. Thursby, Bart., Sir Henry F. Hibbert, Colonel G. Hesketh, D.L., Mr. W. Fitzherbert-Brockholes, C.B.E., Mr. Edward Deakin, High Sheriff, the Mayor and Mayoress of Bolton (Alderman and Mrs. Parkinson), Sir Knowles Edge, Mr. Windham E. Hale (Chairman of the Council), and Mr. J. W. Kenworthy, J.P., Chairman of the Showyard Committee.

MACHINERY AND IMPLEMENTS.

In view of transport and labour costs the demand for shedding and ground space in the implement and machinery department was remarkable; but some explanation is to be found in the fact that the Lancashire County Show is now recognised as an excellent business centre. The extent to which mechanical science is applied to farm work was strikingly illustrated in the wide range of inventions. Prominence was given to motor lurries for switt and easy transport of massive loads. There were several types of oil engines, which are in use on many farms, saving the men's time and a great deal of laborious drudgery that was formerly devoted to the chopping and grinding processes. Tractors which can drive the farm machinery, or do haulage work when not required for speeding up the cultivating or harvesting operations, were shown in considerable variety. Improvements were noted in the mechanical milker and a potato planter, the utility of which impressed the judges of the implements is worthy of more than The sprouted sets are spread before the driver passing notice. on an expansive tray, and these he inserts into cups affixed to a revolving band. The tubers are carried to within a very short distance of the trench automatically dug as the machine proceeds, and when they have been carefully deposited, two revolving discs in the rear draw and ridge up the soil over the sets. There was a new knotting device in binders, and for a manure distributor it was claimed that its mechanism would permit the sowing of wet artificials. A combined thresher and engine enclosed in a single case appealed to the men who have a small acreage of arable land in remote districts. The whole framework was less than 30in. wide, and the complete machine weighing only 30cwt., was said to be capable of threshing four to five quarters per hour. self-lift tractor cultivator also commanded attention. Apart from the appliances primarily appealing to the Agriculturist, there were exhibits that catered for an immense variety of industrial as well as domestic needs. A vivid reminder of the housing problem was an attractive bungalow which had been completed within 14 days. The framework was of timber, the walls of slabs of prepared asbestos cement, and the roof of red tiles.

PEDIGREE SHORTHORNS.

The total number of entries, together with an analysis showing the strength of the various sections, are given elsewhere in this volume, so that it would be superfluous to enter into detail here. In general terms, however, it may be said that the main stock departments fell considerably below the pre-war standard in a numerical sense. This experience was not peculiar to Lancashire; in fact it was universal owing to the costs exhibitors had to incur, and to the independent attitude of labour. Shorthorns, both of the beef and dairy type, were perhaps the most representative of the major live-stock sections. There were only three bulls two years old and upwards, but this class brought out the 'Royal" Champion in Mr. O. W. Porritt's "Sanquhar Grand Courtier," one of the handsomest bulls seen in the ring for a He has great depth, width, and substance; a wonderful covering of smooth flesh; a masculine outlook, and a rich, deep, red colour to enhance his physical charms. The Hon. Mrs. Bruce Ward's "Bilsington Imperator," which was second, was extremely neat and symmetrical and well fleshed, but younger and smaller than the leader. The Wallpaper Manufacturers, Ltd., were third with the massive roan "Rockcliffe Warrior," which has done a lot of winning at the Lancashire local shows. There was a smart level lot of bulls from one to two years old, and in this group the winner was Mr. F. B. Wilkinson's "Shenley White Ensign," a very stylish and perfectly level bull. Like "Sanquhar Grand Courtier," "White Ensign" was ineligible for the Derby Challenge Cup which is offered for the best bull bred by the exhibitor. This trophy went to Captain the Hon. E. A. Fitzroy's "John Wild Eyes," a handsome descendant of one of Bates's old families, with lots of substance for a dairy-bred sire. There were only two bull calves, and here Messrs. R. Silcock & Sons had an outstanding winner in the well-bred "Fylde Forester 4th," an attractive red and white, balanced, and evenly fleshed. There is plenty of milk behind this young bull on both sides, his sire being "Fylde Peer 10th," and his dam "Fylde Flower, which gave an average of 10,124lb. with four calves.

In Shorthorn cows above three years old, Mr. J. Taylor, a Yorkshire exhibitor, led with "Settrington Fairy 3rd," a six-year-old Nonpareil cow by "Vanity's Favourite," a deep, thick, white with good head and horn. She was followed by the Hon. Mrs. Bruce Ward's "Bilsington Lady Tarves 16th," a rich dark, good fronted roan, with a remarkably well-sprung rib. There were only two Shorthorn heifers from two to three years old, but they were fit to stand well up in good company. Preference was given to Mr. J. H. Toppin's "Bright Princess," an extremely pretty prize-winning roan, by the noted "Master Key." Mr. G. Mason, who sent some choice young stock from his recently formed herd at Briercliffe, was second with "Yew Cottage Ruby," a very stylish roan, but outclassed in scale. The open class of yearling heifers in which there were 13 entries was the best in the section.

and brought out several gems of Shorthorn form at the most attractive age. The leader was Mr. J. H. Toppin's white heiter "Mischief," another exquisitely modelled daughter of "Master Key," out of the "Baron Fitz Rosebud" cow "Merrie Maid." Wonderfully well grown for her age she has furnished in perfect proportions. The top is straight as a die, the flesh thick and smoothly laid. A handsome head is carried over a wide frame of great depth, and she would have been still more formidable had she worn a coat of another colour. "Mischief" claimed the Derby Challenge Cup as the best cow or heifer in the Shorthorn classes bred by the exhibitor. The Hon. Mrs. Bruce Ward's "Bilsington Alexandrina 5th," which was second, is a richly coloured calf, very gay on parade, and good to meet and to follow, and she was unfortunate in having to compete with such an outstanding heifer as "Mischief." Mr. O. W. Porritt was unopposed in heifer calves with "Hotchley Regal Victoria," a very neat and sweet heifer with capital top and underlines.

In the County classes Mr. Mason had a well-merited win in

In the County classes Mr. Mason had a well-merited win in bulls one to two years old with "Captain Jules," a roan son of "Jules Verne," out of the "White Heart" cow "May Mist" Mr. C. J. Tong's "Shard Empress of Oxford," a very neat roan of the dual-purpose type, led the group of cows three years old and upwards. Second place was taken by Mr. John Almond's "Lady of the Manor," a lengthy, level, red and white, with signs of dairy force. Mr. G. Mason's "Yew Cottage Ruby" ascended to first place in heifers between two and three years old. She is a robust type with promise of a good bag.

PEDIGREE DAIRY SHORTHORNS.

There was a choice lot of females amongst the Pedigree Dairy Shorthorns, but the bull classes fell away from the high standard of former shows. "John Wild Eyes," the Champion Bull in the Show, was an easy winner in his class. Dairy cows in milk made one of the most imposing displays in this section of the Fard on the opening day. The leader was Mr. J. Mottat's "Maude Moore," a four-year-old roan, daughter of "Sedbergh Magic." She was perhaps the smallest in the group, but a model of a dairy Shorthorn with a beautiful udder and every sign of constitution. She gave 27 lb. of milk in the ring. C. & E. Stephenson's "Rosannah VI." which was second, is a good stamp of dairy Shorthorn with deep milking powers, as evidenced by her heavy yield of 37 lb., but youth and beauty told in favour of the winner. Only two prizes were offered in this Class. but the Earl of Derby's roan "Snowstorm X.," which gave 3431b. in the ring, had such merit that the Judge recommended the Society's Council to award a third prize. After a keen contest for first place in cows or heifers in milk, calved in or after 1917. the verdict went to Viscount Wimborne's "Watercrook Rose," a pretty roan cow with a marvellous bag, bred in Mr. J. Moffat's herd. She gave 31lb. of milk in the ring-51lb. more than the second, a "Seraphina" cow shown by Mr. R. Cock of Rossall Grange. The winning heiter under three years old was Capt. Wills's "Newborough Fragrance III," and the second was Mr. W. Bateman's "Beaumont Cran II." The yield in each case was 21 lbs. Viscount Wimborne's "Coral Princess," a very attractive roan with the equipment suggesting possession of great dairy force, was at the head of the in-calf dairy cows, and her nearest challenger was Mr. John Almond's "Lady of the Manor," a red and white with lots of silky skin.

RECORDED STOCK.

In view of the development in Lancashire of milk recording —a method of testing cows for lacteal qualities that is gradually superceding the "rule of thumb" way-it was decided to devote premiums to two classes for recorded cattle, the property of members of the Lancashire Milk Recording Society. Dr. Milburn. the Director of Agriculture, also expressed his interest in this innovation and his belief in the importance of the use of the spring balance by offering a 20 guineas Challenge Cup. The entries were disappointing, but this fact occasioned no surprise when one reflects on the costs and difficulties attending showing at this period. The loss of the services of their men, not to mention the milk from cows in full flow for the greater part of a week, was something that all tenant farmers could not contemplate with equanimity, and owing to arrears in hay harvest the full farm staffs were wanted near at hand to speed up work during the first spell of fine weather. In cows or heifers in milk, Mr. C. J. Tong was first with "Shard Circes X.," and Mr. J. Almond's "Dent III." was second. The latter, a massive roan, had a walk over in the class for cows entered or accepted for entry in the Dairy Shorthorn Association's register as a foundation cow the first step in conjunction with milk recording and the use of approved pedigree sires, to breeding a stock into Coates' herd book. The winner of the in-calf class was Mr. Mark Walker's well-grown, wealthy roan heifer, which was subsequently awarded Dr. Milburn's Cup as the best animal in the recorded classes.

DAIRY CATTLE.

The classes for Dairy Cattle, judged on the second day of the show, brought keen competition, and in one group no fewer than 23 were entered. In the cows in milk, any weight, Mr. Walter Wilson had first for "Dairymaid," a dairy-like roan of Mr. Moffat's breeding. Mr. R. Hall supplied a good second which, like the winner, was brought out for the first time, and the third was Mr. Moffat's "Maude Moore," a cow that was amongst the honours the previous day. Mr. R. Hall led the heavy weight in-calf cows, and Sir J. O. S. Thursby, Bt., was second with a wonderfully neat cow on lesser lines. In the County class for heavy weights in milk, Mr. R. Hall, who had second position in the corresponding class in the open competition, came to the top, and Mr. J. Eadson, Burnley, was equally successful in the light weight milkers with a sweet, balanced roan well hold of a shapely udder. The Wallpaper Manufacturers, Ltd., were second with their Great Harwood and Darwen winner. The leading positions in the in-calf darry cows, limited to the County Palatine, were similar to those in the corresponding class in the open competition. Of the six entries in the County class for dairy heifers, only three came forward to claim the prizes. The winner was Mr. John Almond's "Privet III.," a roan daughter of "Furbelow King," out of a 1,000-gallon cow and carrying all the signs of a rent payer. In the contest for the "James Edward Renshaw" Challenge Cup for the best dairy cow, the judge found it extremely difficult to separate Mr. Wilson's "Dairymaid" and Mr. Hall's red and white in-calf cow, and eventually bestowed his favours on the former which, having calved, had done her work and shown the kind of bag she could make.

FRIESIANS AND JERSEYS.

The Dutch as well as the Channel Island breeds of cattle were catered for this year, but there were only seven entries in the three open classes of British Friesians. The winning bull was Mr. W. C. Jones's "Tarvin Pel Klas II.," the reserve champion at the Royal. This 2½-year-old son of "Tarvin (imported) I'el Klas" was a splendidly topped bull with substance, a good fore-end and masculine outlook, was nicely marked and definite in colouring. Messrs. N. B. and A. B. Hyde of Bowlee, near Middleton, were second with "Felhampton Bonnie Boy," by "Marsh (imported) General," a good type, but at a disadvantage on account of age and scale. Mr. J. A. Hartley, Crossens, was third with "Norton Nigger Boy" by "Norton (imported) Taurus," an older bull lacking condition.

Messrs. W. & R. Wallace, Hertfordshire exhibitors, had first in the cow class with "Dorney Billak," second in the milking trials at the Royal. The second was Mr. G. Woodfield's "Fillongby Queen Mary," third at the Royal, and a frequent winner in the Midlands. Messrs. Wallace's "Knebworth Cæsar's Glady," was unopposed in the class for heifers.

All the first prizes in the Jersey classes were claimed by Mrs. Rudd, East Grinstead, Sussex. In bulls she was represented by "Salamandar," a very attractive yearling son of "Fire King"; in cows by "Noted Fern"; in heifers two to three years old by "Golden Duchess," another of the "Fire King" get, which was third in the open and first in the class for heifers bred by the exhibitor at the "Royal"; and in yearling heifers by "Fair Maiden," also from the loins of "Fire King," and one of the gems of the show. Mr. C. R. Baron's choice herd at Broughton was well represented in the honours list and in three instances prizes went to the Grange-over-Sands district, where more Jerseys are seen on the farms than in any other part of the county.

POINTS FROM THE MILKING TRIALS.

In view of breed rivalries unusual interest centred in the milking trials this year, and there was joy in the Friesian camp when it became known that out of the small sprinkling of black and whites they had one cow capable of scoring over all other In the group limited to pedigree Shorthorns, the first prize and the "Allerton" Challenge Cup went to Messrs. Stephenson's "Rosannah VI," who recorded the largest yield in this section—58lb. 12oz. as against the best pedigree Shorthorn yield of 64lb. 6oz. in the trials at the 1915 show—but lost points in her butter fat average, which was returned at 3.24. The total points were 75.11, so that a very narrow margin separated her from the second in the class, Mr. J. L. Cross's "Catthorpe Seraphina," whose yield was 531lb., butter fat average 3.95, total points 74.35. The Duke of Westminster's "Illington Beauty" was credited with 58lb. 5oz. and a butter fat percentage of 3.26, and the total points allowed were 71.35. Fourth came Mr. R. Cock's "Rossall Bessie," with 51lb. 15oz. of milk, 3.71 fat, and 66.77 total points.

The second contest was for cattle not eligible for the pedigree dairy Shorthorn class, and here the leader, which proved to be the heaviest milker in the trials, was Messis. Wallace's British Friesian "Dorney Billak," which has had distinction both in inspection and milking trials at other shows and was second in the milking trials at the Darlington "Royal." Her total yield was 62lb. 9oz., butter fat average 3.53, and total points 78.18, nearly three points better than the winning dairy Shorthorn. Next came Mr. John Almond's "Dent III.," a non-pedigree Shorthorn with 52lb. 4oz., and 3.35 butter fat. The Wallpaper Manufacturers' "Nancy," another dairy Shorthorn, was third with 44lb. 11oz. of milk, 4.08 of butter fat, and total points amounting to 62.5. The fourth place was occupied by Mr. C. R. Baron's Jersey "Cowslip," whose figures were 37lb. 10oz. milk, 4.37 butter fat, and 59,7 total points.

A striking point revealed by the detailed statistics of the trials was the wide dissimilarity in several instances between the quality of the morning and evening yields. In one instance the morning milk returned a butter fat percentage of 2.6, but in the evening the fat contents rose to 4.6. The poverty of the morning's milk from a cow, which is naturally being encouraged to do her best, suggests that it is an easy matter for a scrupulously honest farmer to deliver to a food inspector a sample of milk below the recognised standard of quality, and to find it difficult to persuade a bench of magistrates that the deficiency was due to causes over which he had no control. It may be argued that this is only an isolated example and that in general practice the mixed milk from the whole herd will show a butter fat percentage equal to and sometimes considerably better than 3 per cent. This, however, is not always the case. Some years ago tests were carried out on a farm belonging to one of the Agricultural Colleges, and on several mornings, the mixed milk fell so far below the standard that, had it been retailed by a farmer, the vendor would have run the risk of conviction for dilution, and of being publicly branded as a dishonest person.

To again return to the subject of the milking trials at the show, another case may be quoted in which a cow gave 25,11b. of milk with the low butter fat percentage of 2.8, and in the evening when the yield fell to 19lb. 3oz., the fat percentage jumped to One of the Jerseys, a breed to which one looks for a rich production, gave at the morning sitting milk which did not reach the requisite standard of fat contents. When the very cattle which farmers are sometimes advised to introduce into their herds to help to raise the quality of the milk in bulk, fail to comply with the Government standard, the question arises whether there is not need for revision of the law in regard to the sale of milk. It seems certain that the retailer cannot offer the morning production of his herd with the same confidence as the evening yield. A series of tests on a number of farms should furnish valuable data and perhaps lead to some modification of the law that will prevent the innocent being punished equally with the guilty.

SHIRE HORSES.

The Shire section fell considerably below the Royal Lancashire standard, and was certainly not representative of the strength and quality of the County studs. The falling off in entries clearly indicated here, as in other main stock departments, that conditions in the show world were far from normal. Only two out of five entries in the class for stallions foaled in or before 1916 were forwarded. These were Mr. W. H. Holdcroft's "Rokeby Clansman," a lofty, balanced, and buoyant moving brown, by "Champion's Clansman," and Mr. T. Simpson's "Quidnunc of Hothfield," a dark brown son of "Royal Sovereign 5th." The stallions were placed in this order. The second had power, weight, a muscular frame, and stallion character, but was hardly so fashionable in his limbs as "Rokeby Clansman," which was fourth in London in the spring. Out of a quartet of three year old stallions the judges selected Messrs. H. & R. Ainscough's "Burscough Ironclad," a beautifully proportioned short-legged brown, by "Claymore," out of the 'Admiral Bosco" mare "Burscough Brittania." This much admired stallion, which was destined for higher honours, has dense, flat shins, a liberal verturing of correctly placed feather, and wonderful feet, and he used himself with great liberty on parade. It was a popular verdict which gave "Ironclad" the 50 guineas Cup presented by Mr. J. W. Kenworthy, J.P., chairman of the Society's showyard and prize list committee, for the best stallion in the Show; and to enchance the value of championship distinction, Messrs. Ainscough were also able to claim the breeders' prize. Second in three year olds came the Earl of Powis's "Welshpool Dray King," a commanding good fronted bay, by "Bramhope Hecla," from a Tatton Dray King mare, and the third was Mr. T. Simpson's "Haynes Conqueror," a dark brown, by "Gaer Conqueror," planted on big, hard feet, but not so well filled out in his top as the two in front. The reserve was Messrs. J. & A. Bond's massive, weighty brown, 'Normanby Secundus," by "Babingley Nulli Secundus," which was not in his best feather form.

The winning two year old and reserve for the male championship was the Earl of Powis's "Welshpool Ruler," a wide, deep, and well-grown masculine bay, and a free and correct mover. These qualities one might expect in a horse of his ancestry, the sire being "Abbots Royal Blood," and the dam an "Eaton Nunsuch" mare. In the second place came Mr. H. E. Higgins's "Headland," a thick, solid, powerfully coupled brown, by "Normanby Future King," exceptionally short and dense in the cannons, and the third was Mr. J. H. Appleby's "Bradgate Champion," a lofty, lashy bay colt, by "Leek Dauntless."

The strongest class was that for yearlings, in which Mr. J. H. Appleby's "Rover of Sunridge," a Champion's Combination bay beat Sir Berkeley Sheffield's "Burn Hall Leo," a Slipton King bay, showing a lot of the width and weight, and the masculine and muscular qualities of his late sire. He was better furnished than "Rover of Sundridge," whose quality of bone and feather, however, the judges were unable to resist. A very close third, on big legs and a good mover, was Mr. E. C. Fairweather's "Avisford Champion," somewhat reminiscent of his sire "Childwick Champion," and out of a "Tandridge Coming King" mare. The reserve was Mr. J. Merritt's "Hadlow Dictator," a son of the Pilling-bred "Dollar Dictator," a balanced, well planted, and freely-feathered colt, but on smaller lines.

Seven brood mares were entered, but only four paraded, and in this small group the well-known Childwick Champion bay "Edgcote Lady Betty" scored for Mr. E. C. Fairweather. This matron, which was fifth in London and third at the Darlington "Royal," spreads a massive top over a lot of ground, and though loss of feather gave her a plain appearance below her size, weight and scope could not be overlooked. Mr. John Bradford's Brook Vale "Dinah," a brown daughter of "Matchless Forest King," stood second to a more spacious mare. The third was Mrs. Higginson's "Union Rose," a Monnow Drayman bay, and the reserve, Messrs. J. & A. Bond's "Catterall Crown Jewel," by "England's Crown," the last-named being in very poor condition. The winning colt foal was Mr. John Bradford's "Bowden Champion," a very fit and well turned brown, by "Ash Champion," out of "Brook Vale Dinah." The second, by "Boro' Draughtsman," had an excellent mother in "Edgcote Lady Betty," but was very backward. She had the frame, however, on which to furnish. As in the case of the colts, so in the fillies, there were only two to choose from. The winner, belonging to Messrs. J. E. & A. W. Potter, was a big framed, heavily timbered bay, by "Tarnacre Keeper," out of "Union Rose," and the second was Messrs. J. & A. Bond's good limbed, rangy bay, by "Moulton Swell 3rd," ex "Catterall Crown Jewel."

When four strapping barren mares entered the ring, a judge, whose counsel is valued in the Shire world, deprecated the provision of classes of this description, arguing that it no encouragement were given to get mares fit for exhibition there would be fewer animals refusing matronly duties. This class turnished the winner of Sir Gilbert Greenall's Challenge Cup for the best mare or filly in Sir Berkeley Sheffield's "Cippenham Monica," an eight year old bay, by "Dowsby Forest King," with the "Norbury Menestrel" blood on the dam's side. She has a wonderful top firmly planted on sturdy limbs, with a rare grip of the ground. Next came Mr. W. E. Whineray's "Lunesdale Matron," a massive, powerfully coupled black, by "Warton Dray King." Mr. C. R. Baron's "Bedingfield Pride," a classy limbed, weighty bay, by "Clumber Charles," was third, and the reserve honours went to Major Blundell's "Eaton Royal Rose," a wide, short-legged brown, by "Eaton Nunsuch."

In three year olds Mr. T. M. Watson had a walk-over with "Langston Woodlark," the spacious, handsome dark brown "Ratcliffe Forest King" filly that has been shown with considerable success in Lancashire.

There was only a couple of two year olds, and Mr. Fairweather's "Barn Duchess," one of a number of "Friar Tuck's" notable offspring had no difficulty in claiming the red rosette. She has size, a capital outlook, full quarters descending to second thighs, and weighty well-feathered limbs. She stood seventh in London, and had two firsts at the Essex County Show. The second, Mr. Whineray's "Princess Royal," by "Royal Oak 14th," was strongly coupled, but on smaller lines. Messrs. H. & R. Ainscough's "Burscough Boadicie," a raking, growthy, bay filly, by "Claymore," was at the head of the yearlings, beating Mr. R. Horrocks's well timbered bay by "Blackthorn Blueblood." Only one of the two geldings entered was presented, and this was Mr. G. L. Hardcastle's "Royal" winner "Comrade," a four year old dark brown by "Lanes King," with the clean and classy limbs that are wanted in the shaft-filler of to-day. "Edgcote Lady Betty" was reserve to "Cippenham Monica" for the female championship.

HACKNEYS.

Merit was lent to the Hackney section by the presence of the male and female Champions at the "Royal," Mr. H. Hinrichsen's "Bertrano," which combines the "King's Proctor" and "Royal Danegelt" bloods, the latter through his dam, "Ophelia's Daughter Grace," was junior Champion and reserve for supreme honours at the London, 1920, Show, got to the top rung of the ladder at Darlington, and repeated this success at Bolton, where he secured Messrs. H. & R. Ainscough's 50 guinea gold cup for the best stallion of his breed. Since the "Royal," "Bertrano" had let down in his middle, and with his substance and superb action he looked like attaining an exalted place amongst Hackney sires. He was an easy winner in the three year olds, where Mr. J. E. Rushworth's

"Carleton Quality," a nice quality, good-moving son of "Hopwood Viceroy," was second, and Mrs. Fletcher & Sons' "Angram Conqueror," by the successful show and stock-horse "Angram Majesty," was third. The winner in two year old stallions and reserve for the cup was Mr. Rushworth's "Carleton Gay Fashion," which, in the opinion of some critics, will furnish into a better stallion than his sire "Carleton Quality." This colt was also amongst the front-rankers at the "Royal." Mr. Edward L. Law's Rossendale stud was represented in the second place by "Rossendale Admiral Jellicoe," a home-bred son of "British Pioneer," out of a "Tanyrallt Fireboy" mare. This colt was built on smaller lines than the leader, but he had a nice front, deep girth, and plenty of heart room, and was free in his paces. From a trio of yearlings there was no difficulty in picking Mis. Fletcher & Sons' "Angram Majestic," an "Angram Majesty" chestnut that was second in London. Mr. W. Crooks' "Wadsley Jack," a chestnut by "Adbolton Prince Polonius," was second, and Mr. Joshua Ball's "Southworth Samuel," a chestnut by "Baron Horatio," was third.

There were only three brood mares, but they brought out Sir Lees Knowles's "Slashing Dorothy," the great prize-winning seven year old chestnut daughter of "Antonius," which has London "Royal" and Highland Championships to her credit. One sighs for more high steppers of her type. Quality is added to great scale, substance, and symmetrical mould, and she has the fire snap and speed that commands attention. "Slashing Dorothy" added to her spoils of the show ring the 50 guinea cup presented by the late Col. C. M. Royds for the best mare or filly. Mr. Edward L. Law's "Tanyrallt Fireboy" mare Rossendale "Lady Jellicce" was second in the class, and Mr. Jas. Monks' "Princess Dorie," a chestnut by "Admiral Crichton," was third. The foals were placed precisely in the reverse order of their dams. The winner was Mr. Monks' chestnut by "King of the East," the second Mr. Law's colt by "King's Chamberlain," and the third was by the same sire out of the Champion mare "Slashing Dorothy."

Mr. C. F. Kenyon showed for the first time a short legged, deep middled brown daughter of "King's Proctor." She moved well and beat Mr. S. Bréarley's "Rosslyn Princess," a chestnut by "Angram Astonishment," in the three year old gelding or filly class, in which this was the only pair entered.

The leader in two year olds, winner of the Hackney Horse Society's medal, and also reserve for the female Championship, was Mr. C. E. F. Cooke's "Bygrave Marguerite," a bay by "Leopard." She has a fine front, with well placed shoulders a long reach and liberty of movement, and gave the impression that she would make a winner in harness when mature enough to put into leather. Mr. Frank Lloyd's "Danum Meadow Sweet," a chestnut filly by the sire of harness champions "Mathias," was second. She bears the quality stamp, and makes good use of excellent limbs. The third was Mrs. Fletcher & Sons' "Angram"

Belinda," another of "Angram Majesty's" get and full of Hackney character, but she failed to get higher up through refusing to give her accustomed show.

A notable yearling filly which up to the day of show had not known defeat either in London or elsewhere, was Mrs. Fletcher & Sons' "Angram Express," another of the progeny of the Angram stud horse. She is a rangy, well grown, level filly, with a capital front and a flag set in the right place. And she uses her knees and hocks in her elastic, forceful paces. Second to her came Mr. Jas. Monk's "May Bells," a chestnut by "Gallant Lad," out of the old Mathias mare "Spring Bells," which had not the substance and form of "Angram Express." The medal for the stallion went to "Carleton Gay Fashion," and "Carleton Quality" was reserve.

HUNTERS.

The breeding classes for Hunters were thinly supported. The strongest, numerically, was that in which gold medals were placed at the disposal of the judges for award to stallions suitable for getting Hunter stock. Three of the five sires paraded were selected for decoration. These were Mr. F. E. Gibson's eleven year old brown "Forcett," a big well-made son of "Atlas." Mr. H. L. Storey's well-known and splendidly bred "Batchelor's Lodge," by the famous "Tredennis," out of a magnificent mare in "Milady, a daughter of "Kisber," and Mr. G. Dickinson's "Silver Grill," a handsomely moulded and quality horse by "Robert le Diable," ex a Gallinule mare, and the sire of the three year old filly "Cark Silver Pheasant," which numbers London and "Royal" championships amongst her numerous wins. The two stallions that were placed reserve were Mr. M. Albrecht's "Bizzy," by "Teufcl," and Dr. C. W. Jones's "Coronation Success," a dark bay by "Landsman." Two famous brood mares met in Mr. W. H. Shiers' "Clematis" and Mr. H. L. Storey's "Bridget 4th." They stood in this order, and so did their foals, a bay filly by "Moduneagh" and a chestnut colt by "Moonlighter," respectively.

Dr. Jackson had a walk-over in three year olds, but well deserved the red rosette for a splendidly fashioned chestnut gelding "Red Skin," by "Tates," which has had honours elsewhere. Mr. Dickinson's "Cark Silver Pheasant" continued her victorious career in two year olds, and later claimed the silver medal and the breeder's medal for the best Hunter filly. The second two year old, owned by Dr. Jackson, was "Bay Leaf," a filly from the loins of "Tates," very shapely and promising, but not built on quite so big a scale as the winner.

The classes for made Hunters became an important spectacular feature this year owing to a sparse entry in turnouts, and the exclusion from the programme of any item that would have involved the Society in the payment of a heavy entertainment tax. The children's riding classes, although there were only half a dozen entries in the two groups, gave much pleasure to the Saturday afternoon crowds, and it is to be hoped that stronger competition will be seen at the Oldham Show, for there is something in these swift sparkling ponies, and the pluck and horsemanship of the youthful riders that appeal to the townsfolk who are not concerned with the symmetry and breed merits of stock.

HARNESS CHAMPIONSHIP.

The piece de resistance of the Saturday afternoon programme was the contest for the "Tong" 25gns. Challenge Cup for the This trophy was won at the last show harness championship. in 1915 by Mrs. Putnam's "Park Carnation." The famous mare, on which the years rest lightly, again came forward to defend her title, but she had a really serious challenger in her stable companion. "Field Marshal," a Mathias gelding-which some regard as the finest harness type seen in the ring since the days of "Forest King." These exquisite black browns, notwithstanding the extremely heavy going, treated the spectators to a wonderful show of pace and action. Perfectly mannered, "Field Marshal" has high, airy, and sustained action, a loftier carriage than "Park Carnation" and is rather more pleasing at the stand. A fortnight before the show he had beaten the mare at March and he came into the ring at Bolton as the champion harness horse of England, having at the "Royal" had the additional honour of being placed in front of "Knight Commander," the Olympia and Richmond champion.

The contest at Bolton had a rare spice of interest for the Hackney The gelding was first pulled up, but it was obvious that the mare, which settled down to a great show in later runs, and appeared indifferent to the sodden ground, was favourite with a large section of the public, and after Mr. Watson, one of the judges, had driven each horse in turn, the coveted decoration was bestowed "Field Marshal" was reserve, and next in order of upon her. merit came Mr. C. F. Kenyon's "Axholme Venus," a daughter of "Southworth Swell." She is a front-ranker amongst the ponies brought out during the year, moving with ease, grace, and wonderful liberty. She was also awarded the Hackney Horse Society's silver medal for the best mare or gelding in single harness, "Park Carnation" and "Field Marshal" having previously had Fourth in the class was Mr. Walter Briggs' this distinction. "Albin Queen Mary," a very promising novice four-year-old mare by the triple London champion "Adbolton Kingmaker."

SHEEP AND PIGS.

Wensleydales and Lonks were the only breeds of sheep represented. The "blue faces" were the more numerous, and amongst them were some aristocrats of the breed. Mr. John A. Willis secured the Pilkington Challenge Cup for the best Wensleydale with a shearling ram. The reserve championship and a number of prizes went to representatives of Lord Henry Bentinck's noted flock. Others who shared the honours in this section were Messis. R. H. Milner, Borwick Lodge, Carnforth.; F. C. Butler, Carnforth; and T. E. Clarke, Silverdale. The chief prize winners in Lonks were Mr. E. Smith, Cowling; Sir J. O. S. Thursby, Bart.; Messrs. Hardisty & Benson, Addingham; and J. Topham, Wardle. The challenge cup presented by the late Lady Thursby for the best animal in the Lonk section exhibited by a member of the Lonk Sheep Breeders' Association was won by Mr. E. Smith's "Summerhouse Member," a massive four year old ram, with splendid head and carriage.

Large and Middle Whites, Large Blacks, Gloucester Old Spots, and the Cumberland Lops were the breeds of pigs catered for. The Large and Middle Whites predominated. Sir Gilbert Greenall's four year old "Worsley Jay 35th," a giant but symmetrical boar on short legs, maintained his unbeaten record, and secured the gold medal as the champion of his breed. Representatives of the Earl of Ellesmere's Stetchworth herd, and Mr. E. Wherry's Bourne herd, were also amongst class leaders. The majority of the Middle Whites came from outside the county, and the prizes in the Large Blacks and the Gloucester Spots mostly went to distant exhibitors. Of all the pig classes Cumberlands were the weakest, numerically, but quality was good. The winning boar was Mr. T. Cropper's (Rochdale) "Cashier," a son of "Hard Cash," bred by Mr. Wm. Draper at Bradley Hall, Eccleston. Mr. H. B. Simpson, of Wardle, claimed the first prizes in the two classes of sows.

WORKING DAIRY.

The Working Dairy was a magnetic centre of attraction on each day of the Show, and the butter-making competitions were again carried out under the auspices of the Lancashire County Council, whose neighbouring stand was illustrative of the splendid educational work conducted in the interests of the varied phases of county agriculture and horticulture. The championships were decided on the last day of the show, and the honour of winning a remarkably keen contest fell to Miss M. K. Payne, Great Crosby, Liverpool, a student at the County Dairy School at Hutton. Miss Payne received the "Preston Guild Commemoration" 50 guineas gold cup offered as an open championship prize, and also the "Lancashire County" challenge cup for the best competitor resident in the County Palatine. Miss Pantall, Herefordshire, was awarded the second prize, and took the reserve position for the gold cup, and the third was Mrs. M. Jones, another competitor from the same county; Miss D. Bowes, also from the L.C.C. School at Hutton, was fourth, and reserve for the county cup. The whole of the minor awards also went to pupils at the Dairy School.

OTHER FEATURES.

The display of bloom in the Horticultural tent was not so profuse as usual, owing to the abnormally wet season, but the quality was exceptional. The exhibits of several well-known firms of nurserymen introduced many objects of interest, and added to the pageantry of colour. Poultry-keeping is now an important subsidiary industry on many Lancashire farms, the war-time demand for eggs having given a great impetus to its development. The utility classes focussed the attention of a large section of the visitors, and although entries were not so numerous as in 1915, it must be borne in mind that on this occasion the competition was limited to birds of the current year's hatching. Causes due to the aftermath of war might be adduced to explain the presence of fewer birds in this department.

LANCASHIRE FARMERS' DAY.

On Monday, the concluding day of the Show, the Lancashire Farmers and the Bolton District Classes invested the exhibition with a new interest, and for several hours the large horse ring was in continuous occupation. The Shire mares and fillies made a more formidable display than the corresponding classes on Thursday, and in the district section one of the most remarkable contests was that for cleanest horse and gears, where the judge had to make his selection from 33 entries—an unenviable task in view of the keen rivalry among the teamsmen. Some of the oldest officials could not recall having seen so large and meritorious a collection of mammoth draughters, practically all of Shire extraction, gathered in a county yard. Neatness and cleanliness were the points that concerned the judge-not the weight and quality of the horse—and the honours therefore really belonged to the grooms for whose encouragement the prizes were offered. The distinction of winning in this remarkable company fell to John Sykes, who had charge of a massive, radiant chestnut, one of several good horses entered by Messrs. J. Nall & Co., of Bolton. The second prize went to Arthur Clarke, in charge of a mammoth gelding belonging to the East Lancashire Paper Mill Co., another firm who take a great pride in their teams. Only three prizes, f3, f2, f1, had been set down in the schedule, but to mark appreciation of the merit of the class, it was decided to award 15 extra prizes of £1 each.

Several gems from the County studs competed in the Shire classes. The "John Halsall" challenge cup for the best mare over three years old, went to the Exors. of H. Stuart's (Mythop) "Halstead Lady Redlynch," a four-year-old bay by "Leek Redlynch" and out of one of the famous Halstead Duchesses. She has range, excellent conformation, quality of bone and feather, and the movement that command attention and ensure success in the ring. Reserve for the cup was Mr. J. B. Jackson's (Little Eccleston Hall) Sussex Statesman mare "Wedgknock Lady Statesman," which has had numerous honours at the Lancashire shows. Balanced, brimful of quality, and an aristocrat on parade, she had led the brood mares, and her foal by "King's Choice" was at the head of the colts. The Smith-Carington 25gns. cup for fillies under three years old was secured by another Little Eccleston Hall stud representative in "Pannel Forest Queen," a "Trevorland Forest King" bay, which had previously led a bunch of 10 two-year-old fillies. She has yet to furnish in her top, but she has a massive Shire leg at each corner and straight teather talling on to hard, spreading feet. The Exors. of H. Stuart, who won the senior cup in 1915 and the junior trophy in 1913, were reserve with "Tilton Venus," a very sweet, correct, beautifully-turned and planted bay by "Babingley Nulli Secundus," bred by Mr. Allan Holm. She was the leader of the three-year-olds.

The contest for the Shire Horse Society's £10 gold medal, brought from Whinney Heys Mr. T. M. Watson's four-year-old brown filly "Langston Woodlark," a lofty, wide, deep middled daughter of "Ratcliffe Forest King" bred by the late Lord Rhondda. She had had a walk-over in her class on Thursday, and having received honours in open competition was only entitled to come forward for the specials on the Lancashire Farmers' Day. Brought out in rare bloom, and showing herself to full advantage, "Langston Woodlark" became the county champion, though she was strongly opposed by the Exors. of H. Stuart's "Halstead Lady Redlynch," which was placed reserve.

In the district classes limited to seven miles radius, Messrs. J. & A. Bond, Anderton; W. Heaton & Sons, Lostock, Jas. Prescot, Bury; the East Lancashire Paper Mill Co.; J. Pendlebury, Horwich; J. R. H. Hart and J. Nall & Co., Ltd., were first prize winners and prominent in the turnout classes were Messrs. J. A. Drinkwater's chestnut gelding "Joe," a smart, bold-moving gelding by "King of the East"; Mr. T. Westall's four-year-old dark brown "Darwen Daisy" by "Penwortham Pippin," and

Mr. T. E. Norbury's bay mare "Daisy."

There were also judged on Monday two classes for "made" hunters, limited to residents within the districts of the Aspull and Pendle Forest, the Lunesdale and Oxenholme, and the Holcombe and Rochdale hunts. That for heavy weights furnished a keen contest between Mr. Myles M. Kenyon's eight-year-old chestnut gelding "Scramble Pic" and Mr. C. Wilson's powerful bay gelding. They finally finished in this order, the leader having quality as well as excellent carriage and moving splendidly over the soft ground. In the lighter weights there were only two entries, and Mr. Francis Ellis, whose horsemanship the writer has watched with envy on several occasions, had an easy win with "Little Swell," a bay son of "Tractionist."

The best of the county cattle classes was that for in-calf dairy cows, where the issue lay between "Sowerby Clara," an October-calving roan from Mr. T. Stuart's noted dairy herd at New Hall, Sowerby, near Garstang, and a roan due in August sent by Ald. R. Hall, Torrisholme Hall, Morecambe, a successful exhibitor and breeder of pedigree as well as non-pedigree dairy shorthorns. The judge apparently found it extremely difficult to satisfy himself and separate the pair. Both were spacious, massive, short-legged cows combining constitution with every sign of dairy force, and each had fanciers at the ringside. The verdict ultimately went to "Sowerby Clara," which later qualified for the "John Halsall" 25gns. cup for the best cow or heiter. In several of the district classes it was gratifying to note the success of stock kept or bred under the live stock improvement scheme in the Wigan district.

INVITATION TO OLDHAM.

A cordial invitation to the Society to visit Oldham was formally extended and readily accepted at the annual meeting of members in the show yard on Friday. In a breezy speech, Ald. C. Hardman, the Mayor of Oldham, enumerated the attractions of site, rail, and tram facilities, and of the population, intimating that, within a five-mile radius in this congested corner of industrial Lancashire, there were nearly two million people. "If," he concluded, "the Society will guarantee fine weather, we will guarantee a record."

The invitation was unanimously accepted on the proposition of Mr. J. W. Kenworthy, J.P., who emphasised the suitability and accessibility of the site and said he felt sure the Society could rely upon an enthusiastic welcome.

Lord Leverhulme, as president, moved a resolution expressing the Society's gratitude to the Mayor, Town Council, and Local Committee of Bolton for their splendid hospitality, and Mr. Windham E. Hale, in supporting, said it had given his Society the greatest pleasure to visit Bolton once more, and hoped that in the years to come the town would extend the same cordial support as on the present occasion. Bolton had set up several records which he hoped Oldham would be prepared to beat.

The Mayor of Bolton, in reply, said they had had a splendid Committee and an extraordinarily good local Hon. Secretary and Hon. Treasurer. His Worship's announcement that they had succeeded in raising £5,082145. 8d. was received with loud applause.

In Memoriam.

H

THE LATE SIR JOHN ORMEROD SCARLETT THURSBY, BART., D.L.

DIED 26TH DECEMBER, 1920.

Writing to a friend, in acknowledgment of birthday congratulations, the subject of this memoir mentioned "devotion to duty" as one of the highest principles on which life should be conducted. and added: "after life-rest." To anyone who ever came into contact with Sir John Thursby, there is behind these simple expressions that which furnishes a key to his character. Terse and unaffected in style-typical in that respect of his usual utterances—we can read into them an ever-present recognition of the call which public duties make upon those of his rank and station, a call which no considerations of personal ease permitted him to ignore. And we can also gather from them that it was as no mere figurehead that he was contented to pose. His conception of duty required the bringing to bear upon all questions and duties of acute powers of mind, trained by study and observation, and broadened by close contact with men and affairs.

The present memoir must necessarily be confined to an account of the services which Sir John rendered to Agriculture and the Lancashire Agricultural Society, but a few biographical details may be acceptable by way of preface. He was the cldest son of the late Sir John Hardy Thursby, and born on the 27th April, 1861, being therefore only in his 60th year at the time of his death. From Eton, which he left in 1879, practically at the head of a school of 900 students, he proceeded to Trinity, Cambridge, where he graduated B.A., and secured a first-class in political economy (special). Subsequently he entered as a student for the Bar at Lincoln's Inn. In 1882, the year in which he came of age, he was placed on the Commission of the Peace for the County of Lancaster. His marriage to Miss Ella Beatrice Crosse, daughter of Colonel T. R. and Lady Mary Crosse, of Shaw Hill, Chorley, took place at the end of 1888. Lady Thursby pre-deceased her husband in 1915.

Sir John was a Deputy-Lieutenant of Lancashire, and in 1905-6 High Sheriff of the County. From 1903 up to the time of his death he held the office of President of the Burnley District Chamber of Commerce. His exceptional fitness for this office arose not only from his close study of political economy and of economic conditions in this country and America, but from actual experience as a man of business and large employer of labour. Included with the Thursby Estates were the Burn'ey Collieries, which he successfully controlled until their conversion in 1909 into a limited company, of which Sir John was governing director. He was also on the directorates of the Lancashire and Yorkshire Railway and the Manchester and County Bank.

Sir John Thursby's active association with the work of the Royal Lancashire Agricultural Society commenced in 1912, when he was chief promoter of the invitation extended to the Society at its Show on Moor Park, Preston, to hold the succeeding year's Exhibition in Burnley. In a double capacity, viz, as President of the Society for the year, and also as a member of the local Executive Committee, he was the great source of inspiration behind all the arrangements, and the credit for the memorable success of the visit was largely due to him. This the Society recognised by conferring upon him the distinction of its Hon. Life Vice-Presidency. The little ceremony at which this honour was formally conveyed, held towards the end of 1913 in the Town Hall, Burnley, was a very pleasing event. About the same time Sir John and Lady Thursby had celebrated their silver wedding, and in handing over the engrossed resolution, set in a handsome silver frame, the Society's Chairman (Mr. Windham E. Hale) remarked amidst applause that he trusted it might be looked upon as a silver wedding gift. Sir John's response evidenced in happy manner his keen enjoyment of the annual exhibitions of the Society, and the interest he took in the detail of its affairs.

In 1918 and 1919 the suspension of the Society's Annual Exhibitions gave no opportunity for the election of a President interested in a particular Show District. Sir John Thursby thereupon very usefully stepped into the breach, and again took on the Presidential office. These were the years of the Society's extensive series of Farm Crop competitions, and at the Annual Meetings of Members held during the period, Sir John handed out prizes and diplomas probably, in the aggregate, to a thousand competitors from all parts of Lancashire. His characteristic kindliness of manner and ready tact made him a most acceptable Chairman for special meetings, and how, in spite of his innumerable other engagements, he managed so frequently to oblige the Society in this way, was a matter for wonder.

In the Stock sections of the Show Yard Sir John was best known as a successful breeder and exhibitor of Pedigree Dairy Shorthorns and Lonk Sheep. The herd established by Lady Thursby at Ormerod House he extended and raised to a much more prominent position than it had ever occupied, no expense being spared in securing animals of fashionable breeding and of the best milking families. Excellent judgment was shown when in 1917 "Kelmscott Conjuror 2nd," a son of the Manchester Royal dairy champion, "Kelmscott Acrobat 4th," was introduced into the herd. He was purchased privately from Messrs. Hobbs' herd. and though he cost 600 guineas as a yearling, it may be said that he proved an excellent investment.

Sir John's last sale of Dairy Shorthorns was held in August, 1919, when Messrs. John Thornton & Co. obtained an average of £170 3s. 11d. for 33 head. The Ormerod House flock of Lonks has also furnished "Royal" as well as County winners.

Sir John took much interest in the movement for systematic milk recording, and was the second President appointed by the Lancashire County Milk Recording Society. In 1916, the year in which the Royal Agricultural Society of England's Show was held at Manchester, he was elected a representative member for Lancashire on the Council of the national Society. The Worsthorne and the Cliviger Agricultural Societies were amongst many other agricultural associations which enjoyed his patronage as President.

To the public at large Sir John was no doubt best known by his connection with the Turf as a breeder and owner of racehorses. He took over the Blink Bonny stud at Malton, in the ownership of the late Mr. Miles I'Anson, and there bred a number of well-known horses, including "Kennymore," "Rossendale," "North-fleet," "Greenback," "Torchlight," and "Winstanley."

One of the best horses he owned was "John o'Gaunt," the son of "Isinglass and La Flêche," which he purchased at Doncaster as a yearling from the Sledmerc Stud for 3,000 guineas. On the racecourse, however, "John o'Gaunt" failed to fulfil the high hopes which were entertained of him, though at the stud he afterwards more than made up for his early misfortunes. He got away badly and lost the Two Thousand Guineas to "St. Amant," but reversed the opinions that were thus created as to his merits by his running in the Newmarket Stakes a fortnight later, when, however, he was beaten by "Henry the First." In the Derby a thunderstorm completely unsettled him, and again he was second to "St. Amant."

Sent to the stud, "John o'Gaunt's" services were in great demand, and his owner refused many offers of large sums to purchase him, especially for abroad, including one of 40,000 guineas from the German Government. Sir John did a great deal of useful work as a member, since 1911, of the Jockey Club, of which he was also for a term a steward. In later years he was intimately interested in the subject of the reform of the Jockey Club administration so far as would allow of owners being treated with more consideration by relieving them of the heavily increased financial burdens due to greater cost of labour, forage, and other incidentals, the outcome of the war.

Literature had a good friend in Sir John Thursby, whose versatile culture led him to take a personal interest, amongst other things, in many anniversary celebrations of great men of letters. Notable amongst such was the "Samuel Johnson" bi-centenary at Lichfield, in 1909. Sir John, in addition to subscribing handsomely towards the purchase of the Johnson birthplace, was largely instrumental in securing the presence of Lord Rosebery, whose address made the occasion a most memorable one.

Chess was a hobby to which Sir John was deeply attached, and he devoted great attention to the game as a competitor in international matches, President of the British Chess Federation, and of the National Chess Congress.

On the 9th December last, Sir John left England with the intention of making a tour of the Battlefields of France, and concluding with a few weeks on the South Coast. On Thursday, the 23rd December, the news came through that he was lying ill at Grenoble, but it was not until the 28th that the report of his death on Sunday, the 26th, was received. His body was laid to rest on the 30th December, at Holy Trinity Church, Nice, and on January 4th a memorial service, largely attended by private and public friends, was held at St. John's Church, Worsthorne, near Burnley.

THE LATE MR. RICHARD AINSCOUGH, J.P.

DIED 20th February, 1921.

When memory dwells upon the names of those who worked and planned for the Society's welfare in what truly seem now to have been "the good old days," that of Richard Ainscough, of Burscough, will always awaken feelings of affectionate esteem. His death on the 20th of February last, brought to a close a connection with the Society lasting nearly 35 years, for 30 of which he was an elected representative on the Council for the Western Division. Mr. Ainscough in his time rendered excellent service as a member of committees, and was always a generous contributor to Local Funds whenever the County Show was held in districts adjacent to his own. Ever since 1899 his name has been associated with the Hackney Section of the Lancashire Show by means of the 50 Guineas Challenge Cup for Hackney Stallions which he first presented that year, and subsequently renewed on the two occasions when it was won outright.

Mr. Ainscough, who was in his sixty-fifth year, was born at Parbold, and was senior partner in the well-known milling firm of Messrs. H. & R. Ainscough, Burscough, the business of which, in association with his brother, Mr. John Ainscough, he had considerably developed. Sympathetic and generous in disposition, he was a considerate employer who was held in the highest regard by his workpeople.

Thirty years ago he became a member of the Lathom Local Board, which was superseded by the Urban District Council on the passing of the Local Government Act in 1894. He served on that body up to the time of his death, was a former chairman of the Council, and had also acted as chairman of several committees. For a long time he was trustee and manager of the Ormskirk Savings Bank, and only resigned these duties at the beginning of the present year on account of failing health. He was chairman of the Victoria Hotel Co., Southport, a director of the Palace Hotel, Birkdale, and of the Formby Gas Company, and for many years had been a member of the Ormskirk Golf and Cricket Clubs.

The hobby which for him had the greatest fascination was Shire breeding, and he was a familiar figure at the chief shows and sales where the old English pedigree cart-horse was congregated. In association with his brother, Mr. John Ainscough, he founded over 30 years ago the Burscough Shire Stud, one representative of which, "Burscough Ironclad," was winner of the "Kenworthy" Champion Challenge Cup at the Royal Lancashire Show last year, and stood sixth in a very strong class at the recent London exhibition.

THE LATE MR. JAMES HOUGH, J.P.

DIED 18TH DECEMBER, 1920.

Another very valued and esteemed member of the Society's Council has passed away in the person of Mr. James Hough, of Atkinson's Farm, Heaton, Bolton, at the comparatively early age of 58 years.

By his death the Society mourns the loss of one of its most earnest and devoted workers, and it will be fresh in the minds of all how indefatigably he worked to ensure the success of the Society's Show last year at Bolton, his native town

Mr. Hough was above all a man of simplicity—simplicity of life, and thoughts, and objects. He was a most liberal, generous, and open-handed man of a kindly heart and disposition, and the more intimately one got to know him the greater was the esteem and respect he inspired.

Mr. Hough became an ordinary member of the Society in 1896, and was elected a member for the Eastern Division of the Council in 1913, filling the vacancy caused by the death of the late Mr. Samuel Hough.

Regarded as an authority on farming, Mr. Hough, who was appointed a magistrate in 1905, was in great demand as judge at most agricultural shows in Lancashire; and as an enthusiastic breeder of horses and cattle, himself carried off many valuable prizes. During the war he rendered yeoman service on the local War Agricultural Committee.

For a great number of years he was Treasurer of the Edgworth and District Agricultural Show, being presented by the Executive Committee with a gold watch and chain on the occasion of his silver wedding in 1913.

He was a director of the Bolton Auction Mart, and also a prominent member of the Bolton and District Farmers' Association, and on retiring from the office of President of the latter body in 1901, a position he held for three years, he was presented with a tea and coffee service. Mr. Hough was an all-round sportsman, and was particularly fond of shooting. Up to his death he was President of the Bolton Caledonian Curling Club, of which pastime he was an ardent devotee, and for several years he was Vice-President of the Park Hill Bowling Club. A Mason, deceased was a member of the St. George's Lodge, whilst in politics he was a Conservative, being a member of the Smithills Conservative Club.

For some considerable time he had suffered from bronchitis and heart trouble, and, although not altogether unexpected, the news of his death occasioned intense sorrow and regret to a wide circle of friends. A widow and four sons and five daughters mourn his loss. He was laid to rest at Heaton Cemetery, Bolton, amidst many manifestations of esteem and regret.

Lord Leverhulme had taken a very active interest in the Show, and excellent support was given by the Mayor of Bolton and the Town Clerk, Messrs. N. S. Kay and Foley (the Society's Official Photographers) had presented to the Society an album commemorative of the visit to Bolton, and it was a very fitting and appreciated gift.

The Society during the past year had lost many members, but there had been a big accession of strength in this direction. More members were wanted, however, and he thought it was only proper that the Council should look for greater support in this matter from the agriculturists of the county. Some might say that they did not show, and therefore the Society was of no use to them. Many of the winning animals in the showyard last year were bred in Lancashire, and Lord Leverhulme had intimated that he would like to give a Challenge Cup to the breeder of the best Lancashire-bred animal in the cattle section of the show. That in itself should be an inducement to those who did not show to become Members.

Referring to the visit of a Member of the Royal Family to the Bolton Show, he hoped that that would not be the last occasion the Society would be similarly honoured.

ENTERTAINMENTS TAX.

Dealing with the finances, Mr. Hale said they indicated what a serious business the Show was. Whether it would become any easier in future was very hard to say. They would appreciate the fact that what made a Show pay was the crowds, and he thought that unless they were able to ofter a greater attraction than a purely Agricultural Show, they could not expect to secure such attendances as would make the Society the success it ought to be. The Royal Lancashire had been asking other Agricultural Societies in England, including the "Royal," to approach the Chancellor of the Exchequer as to the possibilities of such organisations being put outside the operations of the Amusements Tax. What the development would be he was unable to say. Unless something was done it meant absolute ruin to Agricultural Societies, particularly the smaller ones. Had there been a Band or a Dog Show at the Royal Lancashire in July, the Society would have had to pay taxation totalling between £3,000 and £4,000. They could judge for themselves what that would have meant.

The Report and Statement of Accounts were adopted.

OLDHAM SHOW DATES.

The Council recommended that the dates of next year's exhibition, to be held at Oldham, should be Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, July 27th to 30th. Mr. T. Eaton Jones, moving the adoption of these dates, said it would mean that the Show would commence a day earlier and would not be carried over to the Bank Holiday Monday. Some exhibitors objected to having to stay over the Sunday, and on the Bank Holiday there were travelling difficulties. At Bolton it was found that people preferred to go elsewhere on the Monday, and the suggested change was the outcome of consideration of the facts.

Mr. Thomas Stuart seconded, and the Conneil's recommendation was agreed to.

APPROXIMATE SUM TO BE OFFERED IN PRIZES.

When the fixing of the appropriate sum to be offered in prizes was introduced, Mr. Hamilton urged that provision be made for awards for crops in the different districts, as during the war. He said he knew of nothing during his long connection with the Society that had tended to make the organisation more popular.

The whole question, together with Mr. Hamilton's suggestion, was deputed to a Committee for consideration.

ELECTION OF PRESIDENT FOR THE ENSUING YEAR.

Mr. Fitzherbert-Brockholes said the Council unanimously recommended the election of the Right Hon. Lord Emmott, G.C.M.G., as President for the ensuing year. His Lordship was prepared to accept the invitation. The Council's recommendation was unanimously adopted.

ELECTION OF MEMBERS OF COUNCIL.

The following were elected Members of the Council for the ensuing year:—Northern Division Messrs. W. Dagger, Grimsargh; W. E. Hale, Preston, J. Marcus Rea, Preston; and W. G. M. Townley, Grange-over-Sands (retiring members), were re-appointed without opposition. For the Eastern Division there were nine candidates for the five vacancies, and as the result of a ballot, the following were declared elected:—Mr. Joseph Kershaw, Bolton; Licut.-Col. H. M. Hardcastle, Bolton; Mr E. A. Walker, Bolton, Mr. W. H. Edge, Wheelton; and Mr. J. C. Waddington, Burnley For the Western Division the four Retiring Members were re elected without opposition, viz., Messrs. Edmund Berry, Geo. G. Marsh, Jas (). Platt, and A. S. Icobson.

ELECTION OF OFFICIALS.

The following Officials were unanimously re-elected: -Mr. John Hammill (St. Helens), Auditor; Mr. Alfred Smetham, F.C.S. (Liverpool), Consulting Analytical Chemist; Mr. J. Stewart Remington (Grange), Hon. Consulting Botanist; and Mr. T. Eaton Jones, F.R.C.V.S. (Liverpool), Hon. Consulting Veterinary Surgeon.

MEMBERS' PRIVILEGES.

Mr. Hale then moved that General Rule 4 be amended to read as tollows:—

"Every subscriber of one guinea per annum or upwards is, when proposed and elected at a meeting of the Council or Members, made a member of the Society. Subscribers of £5 annually, in like manner, become Vice-Presidents. Members of the Society are entitled to the Journal and other publications of the Society; to make entries in the Society's Annual Exhibitions at reduced fees, and to one non-transferable badge to the Showyard and Grand Stand. Vice-Presidents to the like publications and privileges and two badges to the Showyard and Grand Stand. A member shall not be entitled to enter for competition at any exhibition of the Society at member's rates until he has been a subscriber for at least one year prior to the date of entry, or unless he pays a subscription of not less than 21/- per annum for two years in advance."

The proposer explained that the suggested alteration meant that the farmers would be placed on the same footing as the people who lived in towns. He thought it was only fair that agriculturists should support agriculture. The Society could not afford to be so generous as in the past or as it would like to be. In the end they would see that the proposal was for the benefit of the Society, and he thought they would be public-spirited enough to look upon it in that light.

Mr. W. S. Nuttall did not approve; and Mr. John Serjeant, who said the interests of the Society were his only consideration, stated that it appeared to him to be a case of selling the substance for the shadow. It would cause memberships to lapse rather than increase them. The discussion was taken part in by Mr. Hamilton (Old Garswood) and others; and on a show of hands being taken the proposition was declared to have been defeated.

VOTES OF THANKS.

Cordial votes of thanks were passed to Lord Leverhulme, the retiring President, on the proposition of Lieut.-Col. Hardcastle, seconded by Mr. John Almond, and supported by Mr. W. Fitzherbert-Brockholes; and to the Bolton Local Committee and Hon. Officials. Submitting the latter motion, Mr. S. H. Renshaw said the Bolton Committee had established a record by handing to the Society a sum of £4,632. The previous largest amount was secured at Manchester in 1908, when the total was £2,474. Even admitting the changed value of money, the effort of Bolton reflected the greatest credit on the Committee and Officials. Mr. Renshaw also acknowledged the support of the Mayor of Bolton (Alderman Parkinson), Members of the Council, the Town Clerk (Mr. Parker), and the Borough Engineer (Mr. Morgan). He made special reference to the valuable work of Col. G. Hesketh, the Local Hon. Treasurer.

A vote of thanks to Mr. Fitzherbert-Brockholes, for presiding, concluded the proceedings.

TO THE ANNUAL MEETING OF MEMBERS, 1920.

Your Council in presenting their Report for the past twelve months do so with the pleasing knowledge that despite great difficulties and abnormal circumstances they are able to announce a profit on the year's working.

The Annual Show, which had lain dormant since 1915, was again revived, and Bolton was re-visited after a lapse of 13 years. A most hearty welcome was accorded the Society, and it is only necessary to state that the record sum of £5,177 17s. 3d. was raised by the Local Committee (of which £4,632 3s. 8d. was handed over to the Society) to shew how great was the enthusiasm occasioned by the visit.

This magnificent result was in no small degree due to the untiring zeal of Alderman Robt. Parkinson (Mayor of the Borough) and Chairman of the Local Committee; Sir Knowles Edge J.P., Vice-Chairman; Colonel Geo. Hesketh, V.D., J.P., the Local Hon. Treasurer; and Mr. Samuel Parker; Town Clerk, the Local Hon. Secretary, who were splendidly supported by a strong and influential Committee, who did all in their power to further the success of the Show. The town further distinguished itself by yielding an exceptionally large number of New Members during the year.

For the first time in the history of the Society, the Show was honoured by a visit from Royalty, being attended on the opening day by H.R.H. The Duke of York, who evinced the greatest interest in all he saw, and expressed himself most pleased with the excellence of the arrangements. H.R.H. presented the Champion Challenge Cups to the winners in the Large Ring, and also paid special visits to the Lancashire County Council Stand, the Working Dairy, and the Horticultural Section.

Thanks to the kindness of the Eagle Star and British Dominions Insurance Co., Ltd., the Show was held at Regent Road, Lostock, on a site occupying approximately 50 acres, situate amidst most picturesque surroundings, but owing to the heavy rainfalls immediately preceding the opening day, the ground was in a very sodden condition.

However, owing to the untiring energy of Mr. E. I.l. Morgan, the Borough Engineer, and his staff, hundreds of loads of cinders were deposited on the site, and everything possible was done under the circumstances to ensure the comfort of both visitors and exhibitors.

In view of the changed condition of affairs since the pre-war days, e.g., increased railway charges, etc., the entries were satisfactory. Several new breeds were provided for, including British Friesian Cattle, and a special feature was the section for Recorded Dairy Cattle. An outstanding feature of the Show was the wonderful display of animals (particularly Heavy Draught Horses) in the Local Classes on the August Bank Holiday.

Prizes for Farm Crops grown in the district visited with the Show were a feature of the Prize List, and although a larger entry could have been desired, the Judges were able to report in gratifying terms upon the excellence of the Crops they viewed, and the incentive afforded by the Competitions.

The President for the year was the Right Hon. Baron Leverhulme, who took the utmost interest in the Show, being present each day, and also giving considerable pleasure to the Herdsmen by attending their usual Supper and Entertainment and presenting the Prizes, which were generously provided by his Lordship.

Divine Service was conducted in the Show Yard on the afternoon of the Sundax which intervened during the Show period. The Rev. Canon Elsee preached the sermon and a collection taken on behalf of the Bolton Infirmary, amounted to 433

The Society's thanks are due to the following for special contributions to the Bolton Show —

Mr J W Kenworthy J P Chauman of the Society's Show Yard Pilze List Committee (50 guincas Challenge Cup for Shire Stallions) Mr J W Makant J P (40 guincas Challenge Cup for Shorthorn Bulls under one year old) Dr T Milburn (20 guineas Challenge Cup for Lancashire Recorded Dury Cattle) Mr John Taylor Oldham (#12 for Lancashire Farmers Bi od Marcs) Mr Alfred Smetham F C S Society's Consulting Analytical Chemist (#10 10s towards pilzes for Lancashire Cheese) the Late Mr Tdward Mucklow (Class Prizes totalling #8 for Beys Kiding Ponies) Mr Francis Lilis I's I and Capt W O Smethurst (cach #5 10 towards the Prizes for Girls Riding Ponies) Mr James Sheriy J P (#5 for Lancashire Cheese) Mr T L (larke Silverdile (#2 2s for Weinsleydale Lumbs), The Janushire County Milk Peconding Society and numerous Breed Associations etc etc

The Society agon extend their thanks to the Lancashire County Council for a operation in the arrangement for the Working Dairy Competitions and the Poulity Trussing Demonstrations and Competitions including a grant of $425$ towards the expenses of the first named department of the Sh w

At a Special Meeting of Members held on the Show Yard Bolton on the second day of the Exhibition a cordial invitation to: 1921 was extended on behalf of the Borough of Oldham by an influential deputation headed by His Worship the Mayor (Mr. Alderman C. Hardman). The site occupies 47 acres and is situate at Limefield Hollinwood in close proximity to the Station and easily accessible by Electric Cars. The Meeting accepted the invitation with much pleasure.

Amongst the supporters whose removal by death has had to be deplored during the year should be mentioned Lord Egerton of Iatton. Sir Richard Marcus Brooke. Sir Wim Mather. Sir Henry Maden. and Mr. C. V. Haworth (Vice Presidents). also Mr. Edward Mucklow (an estremed member of the Council for the Eastern Division).

The hardships imposed upon Agricultural Societies through the present liability of their Pshibitions for Entertainments Lax (unless stripped of most of their gate drawing features) have induced your Council to approach all county and other leading Agricultural Societies with a view to represent atton on the subject being made to the Royal Agricultural Society of Ingland

Arrangements are in hand for a Conference to be held in London during Smithfield Show Week (December 6th to 10th) at which it is hoped to induce the parent Society to held a representative Deputation to the Chancel lor of the Exchequer with the object of setting before him the claims of all societies for more considerate treatment

Your Council recommend that the dates of the 1921 Show at Oldham be Wednesday Thursday Friday and Saturday the 27th 28th 29th, and 30th July

The Membership Roll now stands at a total of 2 176, 12 Vice Presidents 31 Life Members and 589 Annual Members having been added during the past year whilst 96 Members have been lost through death resignation and lapsing

Owing to the enormously increased expenditure now required to equip the Show Yard each year due to the high price of labour and materials it is earnestly desired that Members will do all in their power to increase the Membership Roll by inducing their friends and acquaintances to join the Society

General Review of Trade Prices and Effects of Values on Agriculture

By ALFRED SMETHAM, F.I.C., F.C.S. (The Society's Consulting Analytical Chemist)

IN the Journal of this Society for the year 1918 a paper of mine appeared which gave a summary of the then position of Fertilisers and Feeding Stuffs as affecting farmers and agriculture generally. At the time that paper was written the War was still in progress, and the U. boat menace had reached such proportions that it threatened to bring disaster to the country by so curtailing the overseas food supplies that the population would be reduced to a state of semi-starvation. Such a large proportion of the Mercantile Marine, it will be remembered, had been requisitioned by the Government for the transport of ammunition and stores and the thousand and one other things for which the Armies and Navies were for ever clamouring, that what remained available for commerce and for the conveyance of the necessary foodstuffs was totally inadequate to meet the demands if the ships had been maintained on the ordinary trade routes. To obviate the cost and risks of long sea voyages, and to carry as much food as possible in each bottom, the plan was adopted of sending theships on the shortest available routes, and by this means turning them round in the shortest time. In putting this policy into practice little or no regard was had as to the cost or economy of any particular shipment, and, as a consequence, costs and selling prices had little in common. The first claim on shipping was naturally the importation of foods for human consumption, and the importation of cattle feeding stuffs and of fertilisers, although necessary adjuncts for home food productions, was whittled down to the lowest possible proportions.

In these conditions it was manifest that free trading had to go by the board, and the Government of the day, realising that markets were in an absolutely artificial condition, took control of every department of commerce and trading which had to do with agricultural products, or which was concerned with the manufacture or distribution of foodstuffs—whether for animals or man.

Under the drastic measures of control which were then in force the various Departmental Committees set up by the Government to regulate the trade of the country had many very difficult problems to solve. Not the least difficult of which was the fixing of the prices of various commodities from the producer, through the manufacturer and distributor, to the consumer.

It is manifest that if the selling price of agricultural produce is fixed by Government Orders or Acts of Parliament, the costs of production, covering rent, labour, taxes, manures, and feeding stuffs, and all other outgoings, must, unless covered by a subsidy, be less than the prices obtained for the products. To justly apportion the prices which were adequate but not extortionate through a long list of interdependent commodities in such a way that those handling them should each in turn receive a proper remuneration and not an excessive profit, required a good deal of expert knowledge, and taken as a whole it is to the credit of the Government Departments who had the handling of such intricate questions that in practice their schemes worked out with so little injustice to all concerned. In this relatively satisfactory consummation the Government had not only the advice of their own experts, but they also called in the assistance of specialists in Science and the leaders in commerce and manufacture

On reviewing the position in the light of subsequent events it is evident that a great deal of unnecessary control was exercised and many superfluous orders issued, but at a time when men's minds were almost at breaking point and what the future held uncertain in the extreme, it is scarcely to be wondered at that those in the direction of affairs should attempt to so correlate the various branches of industry, whether agricultural or otherwise, that there should be no collapse in the schemes worked out by the authorities.

From what has been said it is evident that the prices fixed for Fertilisers and Feeding Stuffs in The Governmental Orders of 1918 had little to do with costs of production of the materials or the relative values to the farmer. This, however, was at the time of less importance than it is in normal times, because the supplies were so diminished that farmers generally had to be content with what they could get instead of buying what their own knowledge and experience would dictate. The result was that farming had to be carried on at the expense of the reserved stores of fertility in the land, and the country is still suffering from this depletion.

In these circumstances a comparison of prices for Fertilisers and Feeding Stuffs ruling in 1918, with current prices for similar commodities, is not very helpful, because the prices lose their significance unless compared with the selling price of farm produce. Moreover, being practically arbitrary in character and to some extent dictated by expediency or political considerations, there was an utter absence of competition, and the stabilising effect of competition which takes place in normal conditions.

As a result of the removal of restrictions in nearly all branches of trade and the withdrawal of minimum prices for wheat and other produce, it was inevitable that a condition approaching to chaos would for the time being overwhelm the farming community and the manufacturers and traders depending upon it. Such indeed has been the case, and very heavy losses have in some instances been incurred.

For the purpose of controlling the manufacture, sale, and distribution of fertilisers, the Food Production Department of the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries divided the fertilisers which were available for the home market into three simple ones— Sulphate of Ammonia, Superphosphate, and Basic Slag. first of these, Sulphate of Ammonia, was the only source of nitrogen available in any considerable quantity in this country, while the other two were useful as a source of phosphates. At the beginning of the war most of the sulphuric acid plants used for superphosphate manufacture were commandeered by the Government for the manufacture of explosives, but with the erection of new factories in which more concentrated acid could be produced the older plants became once more available, and to employ the acid thus liberated the Government imported limited quantities of phosphate rock which was distributed among the superphosphate manufactories of the kingdom, according to their output.

In addition to the three simple manures enumerated above, the Ministry of Munitions fixed unit prices for the Nitrogen, Phosphates, and Potash to be used in deciding the price of Compound Fertilisers.

The prices fixed by the Government were graduated according to quality, time of sale, and other conditions, the basic price in August, 1918, for Sulphate of Ammonia testing 24½% Ammonia being £15 5s. per ton.

As Sulphate of Ammonia was practically the only available source of Nitrogen during 1918, it is not possible to compare it with other Nitrogenous Fertilisers, but it may be interesting to note the relative values of the different Nitrogenous Fertilisers now upon the market, as compared with Sulphate of Ammonia. In order to do this it is necessary to bring the various materials to one common denominator, and with this end in view to ascertain the average contents of Nitrogen in the commercial articles.

As noted above the price of Sulphate of Ammonia in August, 1918, was £15 5s. per ton on a basis of 24½% Ammonia. At the time of writing (May, 1922), the price in Liverpool is £16 per ton on 25½% Ammonia, a price which, after making allowance for the difference in quality, is almost identical with that of 1918.

But as some of the Nitrogenous Fertilisers on the market contain Nitrogen combined, as Nitrate, or in other forms as distinct from Ammonia it is necessary for easy comparison to ascertain the cost per unit of Nitrogen, instead of the unit value of Ammonia, as is frequently done in trade transactions.

The	following	table show	s at a glance	the relative	values	of some of	the most	important	Nitrogenous	Fertilisers:	~

Name.	Contents of	May, 1922	Cost per
	Nitrogen.	Price.	Unit.
Sulphate of Ammonia Nitrate of Soda (95%; Dried Blood Calcium Cyanamide (Nitrolim)	11.6%	£ s. d. 16 0 0 15 0 0 15 0 0	s. d. 15 3 19 2 24 9

In addition to Nitrolim, a number of other Nitrogenous Fertilisers are being prepared synthetically from the Nitrogen of the air, among them being Nitrate of Lime, Nitrate of Ammonia, Chloride of Ammonium and Urea. At present the output of Synthetic Nitrogen Compounds in Great Britain is relatively small, but it is probable that in the near future the supplies will be forthcoming in quantities which should have a material effect in controlling the price of Sulphate of Ammonia and Nitrate of Soda.

During the War the Germans, owing to their isolation and the consequent impossibility of obtaining supplies of Nitrates from abroad, were compelled by force of necessity to devise methods of harnessing the Nitrogen of the atmosphere, and this they did with so much success that in addition to supplying all their requirements for ammunition purposes, they were able also to maintain the food supply by producing the necessary combined Nitrogen for agricultural purposes.

This is very clearly shown by the production of Calcium-cyanamide (Nitrolim) in Germany from the year 1913 onwards. In that year, out of a world production of 181,444 metric tons, Germany produced 48,500 tons, or about one-quarter of the world's output. The quantity produced steadily increased during the war, until in 1917 Germany's contribution had risen to 183,100 tons, out of a world production of 668,202 tons.

But this tells only a small part of the tale. In 1920 the national internal sources of fixed Nitrogen in Germany were 574,000 metric tons, of which 150,000 tons were from by-product sources, leaving 424,000 tons to be credited to synthetic processes. This represents an equivalent of about 2,020,000 tons of commercial Sulphate of Ammonia, a quantity over four times as great as the total production of Sulphate of Ammonia in the United Kingdom in 1914.

The following table, taken from the final report of the Nitrogen Products Committee of the Ministry of Munitions, is very instructive, and indicates the vast strides which have been made in Nitrogen-production by synthetic methods during the last decade:—-

WORLD'S	RESOURCES	TN	NITROGEN	PRODUCTS

SOURCE OF SUPPLY	Output in Metric Tons of Nitrogen	Percentage of Total Output	Productive Capacity Metric Tons of Nitrogen	Percentage of Total Productive Capacity
Chile Nitrate Industry By-Product Industry Fixation Industry:—	411,329 272,007	57.5 38.0	471,000 413,000	30.2 26.6
(a) Cyanamide	22 435	_	325,000	_
Arc Process Products	9,907		38,300
(c) Synthetic Ammonia	Nil		308,000	_
Total of Fixation Industry	32,342	4.5	671,300	43.2
	715,678	100.0	1,555,300	100.0

Out of the total output of Nitrogen (308,000 tons) in the form of synthetic Ammonia in the year 1920, no less than 300,000 tons were credited to Germany, and the remaining 8,000 tons to the United States. In England and the other countries of the world there was no production on a manufacturing scale.

At the rates at present obtaining in England for Sulphate of Ammonia, the value of the Synthetic Ammonia Compounds produced in Germany in 1920 would approximate to £23,000,000.

There are indications, however, that the stupendous advantage gained by the Germans by their experience during the war will be challenged in this country, and I foresee the day, and that not long delayed, when British Chemists' and Manufacturers' enterprise will bring to full fruition the dreams of Crookes and earlier chemists of harnessing the atmosphere, and by that means meeting the needs of an ever-increasing population so far as wheat production is concerned.

The position is now sufficiently assured to warrant the assertion that, whatever the production of Nitrate of Soda and other nitrogenous fertilisers from natural sources or as by-products from various manufactures may be, there will henceforth be produced sufficient nitrogen compounds to supply to the full the requirements of the whole of the wheat-producing countries of the world.

In a paper which appeared in the 1920 Journal of this Society, I suggested the possibility of producing foodstuffs directly by synthetic methods, instead of manufacturing synthetically the manures, which, in a slow and somewhat roundabout way, are to form the food of crops grown at so much trouble and expense in our fields. Recently this prediction has been brought distinctly nearer to solution by the brilliant discoveries of Profs. Baly and Heilbron, of the University of Liverpool, on the combination of water and carbonic acid to form sugars.

I venture to think that now the way has been indicated for these new combinations, progress on similar lines will be rapid, and, although I probably shall not live to see that glorious consummation, it seems to be quite in the range of possibility that many now living may sit down each morning to a synthetic breakfast table!

But in the meantime it is necessary to grow our crops and rear our herds if we are to carry on, and this leads to the question how the Sulphate of Ammonia, or other nitrogenous fertilisers, can be most profitably employed.

Speaking generally all crops require nitrogen to form part of their structures, but their powers of assimilating it vary considerably with the nature of the crop and the conditions under which it is grown.

It is rather late in the day to go into any lengthy disquisition on the subject, but it may be permissible to mention that the enormous quantity of free nitrogen in the air is directly of no value in meeting the demands of crops.

The amount of Nitrogen in the air is approximately 30,000 tons over every acre of land and sea on the face of the earth. The amount abstracted from the air during 1920 by synthetic means in all countries of the world was 671,300 tons, or the quantity contained in the air over about 20 acres of land. It is evident, therefore, whether for good or evil, that the abstraction of this amount will have no effect upon either plant or animal life.

But when the Nitrogen is forced to combine with some other element, e.g., Hydrogen or Oxygen, in the form of Ammonia or Nitrates, and the salts produced from these combinations are applied to crops, and particularly to cereals, the addition of small quantities per acre almost invariably have a magical effect upon the production. Clover and other leguminous crops, by means of organisms, have the power of assimilating the free Nitrogen of the air, but the consideration of this part of the subject is rather beside the question.

It is impossible to lay down any hard and fast line with regard to the amount of Nitrogen which, in the form of Sulphate of Ammonia, Nitrate of Soda, or other nitrogenous compound, will yield the most remunerative results, as so much depends on the nature of the soil, its previous cultivation, the climate, and a number of other considerations. A very vast number of experiments have shown, however, that the one dominating factor in profitable wheat growing, for instance, is the use of Nitrogen Compounds.

It becomes, however, an important consideration as to the point at which manuring will probably cease to be profitable, and this again, in addition to the points mentioned above, will eventually be determined by the price at which the produce can be sold.

If the return in crops were directly proportional to the manure applied, the problem would be a comparatively simple one, but in practice it is found that whereas a small addition of a soluble and readily available Nitrogenous Fertiliser will have, even on a rich soil, an almost magical effect, further dressings show a diminishing return on the outlay.

This is shown very clearly by results obtained on the Broadbalk Field at Rothamsted, taking the average of the wheat crops between 1852 and 1864, when the land would probably be in a condition very similar to many farms up and down the country. In these experiments the plots were dressed with a sufficiency of mineral manures, the only variant being the progressively increasing quantities of Nitrogenous manures employed.

The following table gives the results at a glance:—

Wheat with Increasing Amounts of Nitrogen. Broadbalk, Rothamsted (1852-1864).

Рьот	Manures	Total Produce	Increase per 43lb. Nitrogen	Grain	Straw
5	Minerals only + 43lb. N. + 86lb. N. + 129lb. N. + 172lb. N.	lbs. 3009 4829 6601 7234 7713	lbs. 1820 1772 633 479	bushels. 18.3 28.6 37.1 39.0 39.5	cwts 16.6 27.1 38.1 42.7 46.6

These results show that whereas there is a progressive increase with each additional dressing of Nitrogen, there is a marked falling off when the amount applied exceeds 86lb. of Nitrogen per statute acre. This is quite in accordance with general experience, as 86lb. of Nitrogen would represent a dressing of nearly 4cwt. of Sulphate of Ammonia per acre. In practice, a much smaller dressing would probably be applied, say 1½ to 2cwt. per acre; and, having regard to the vagaries of our seasons, this, probably, is the safest course to pursue.

The point still remains to be discussed at which a higher manuring is permissible and likely to be profitable. The answer to this is obviously that it depends on the cost of the manure and the selling price of the produce, but a prudent farmer would always leave a margin for contingencies, and underdress, rather than overdress, his crops.

Taking the figures given above as fairly typical of an average farm, we have some sort of data on which to make calculations. On the face of the figures given it would seem that as the yields of produce on plots six and seven are so nearly proportionate to the dressings of Nitrogen, it would follow that over an average of years if profitable at all, dressings of say Sulphate of Ammonia up to 4cwt. per statute acre might with confidence be applied, although in practice I should not advocate more than half that amount.

According to a recent statement of the Minister of Agriculture, the price that farmers were receiving for their wheat a little more than a year ago was 95/-, whereas in December the price had fallen to 40/--50/- a quarter.

According to the Rothamsted results given above, the use of a little under 2cwt. of Sulphate of Ammonia per statute acre gave an increase over the plots dressed with full mineral manures of 1,820lb. of total produce.

The increase of dressed grain amounted to 10.3 bushels per acre, which at 95/- per quarter would be worth 122/- for the grain, without any allowance for the increased yield of straw. The cost of 2cwt. of Sulphate of Ammonia at 16/- per cwt. would be 32/-, thus leaving a profit of 90/- per acre by the use of the Sulphate of Ammonia.

When, however, the selling price of wheat has dropped to 40/- per quarter, the extra yield due to the application of the Sulphate of Ammonia is only 19/- per acre. It will thus be seen that what was a handsome profit with wheat at 95/- per quarter is whittled down to a relatively insignificant amount, with the lower prices recently ruling.

Unfortunately it is impossible for the farmer to foresee the trend of prices, and he, therefore, has to take the risks as to manuring, as in other parts of his business; but he will always have this satisfaction that when he has used moderate dressings of manures the chances are infinitely in his favour that if there be losses, the losses will be less than if no manures had been used.

SUPERPHOSPHATE.

As already indicated, imported materials for the manufacture of fertilisers had to be curtailed to a very considerable extent during the latter part of the war, and this applied very markedly to the imports of Phosphate Rock which forms the basis of Mineral Superphosphate and to a large extent is the foundation of the Compound Fertilisers placed upon the market. This is shown by the following figures:—

IMPORTS OF PHOSPHATE ROCK, LESS RE-EXPORTS.

 Tons.
471,000	450,000	374,000	323,000	262,000	464,000

From this it will be seen that there was a steady decrease in the imports of Phosphate Rock from 1913 until 1917, but the imports for 1918 were nearly up to the pre-war standard. This sudden rise was due to the fact that the Government realised the necessity of keeping up home supplies of foodstuffs to the utmost, and the importance of Phosphates as a factor in increasing the crop production.

Although Phosphate deposits occur in large quantities in many parts of the world, the supplies had to be obtained to a large extent from North Africa, chiefly on account of the necessity of economising in freights.

The following table, compiled by W. Packard, shows the position of the Phosphate market before the war:—

	1907	1913
United States Tunis Algeria France Belgium Christmas Island Other Pacific Islands Other Countries	1,069,000 315,000 375,000 181,000 290,000	Long tons. 3,161,000 2,284,000 461,000 335,000 219,000 152,000 422,000 195,000
I A	4,779,000	7,229,000

As before described the Government took control of the importation and distribution of Phosphate Rock during the war, being helped in this work by Committees of the Chemical Manures Manufacturers' Association; and at the conclusion of the war this association still maintained the principle of collective buying. This arrangement has now ceased, and it is open to each manufacturer to make his own contracts. This should have the effect of stimulating business and reducing the cost to the farmer.

An Order drawn up by the Ministry of Munitions stipulated that there should be a basis of price for sale of Superphosphates during December, 1918, of £6 10s. per ton for 30-31 per cent. water soluble Phosphate, with a sliding scale for other qualities and allowances, up or down, made for time of purchase.

To-day, 30 per cent. Superphosphate is quoted at £4 5s. per ton free on rails at Liverpool, a very substantial reduction which should stimulate the sale.

All experiments have shown the necessity of a sufficiency of Phosphates in the soil, and even when the supply already present cannot be described as deficient, it is found that a dressing of Superphosphate, or Basic Slag, as the case may be, usually yields remunerative results. Although on most soils there is little to choose between the effectiveness of the two manures when equal quantities of Phosphate are applied, it has been found necessary to restrict the use of Superphosphate to soils which contain sufficient lime to neutralise the acid present.

Space does not permit me to give a summary of the many recorded experiments with Phosphates on different crops, but I may, perhaps, be permitted to give as an example the effect of Superphosphate on the Barley Plots in Hoos Field at Rothamstead. Taking the average of the first 19 years of the experiments, it was found that Plot 1A, manured only with 200lb. Ammonia Salts, yielded 321 bushels of dressed corn per acre; while Plot 21, similarly treated, but with the addition of 3½cwt. of Superphosphate (37 per cent. Soluble Phosphates) produced 47½ bushels, giving an increase due to the Superphosphate of 15 bushels per acre of dressed corn and 9½cwt. extra of straw. Taking the cost of 3½cwt. of 37 per cent. Superphosphate to be 17/6, and the price of the dressed Barley at 40/- per quarter, the increased weight of dressed corn would at the present time show a profit due to the Superphosphate of 57/6, while the increase in the weight of straw would add another 36/- if sold at current prices, the two together showing a profit of 93/6 per acre.

At the prices ruling in 1918 (Superphosphate 36-37 per cent. Soluble Phosphate £7 14s. per ton, and Barley at 60/- per quarter), the profit to the farmer by the use of 3½cwt. of Superphosphate would be, for the dressed corn, 88/- per acre. There do not seem to be any recorded prices for straw during this period, but it is shown from the figures given above that in the year 1918 it was more profitable to the farmer to manure with Superphosphate than it is at the prices ruling to-day.

Here again it is evident, as in the case of Nitrogenous dressings that within the range of prices of manures and of produce during war time and to-day, there is a substantial gain by the use of artificial manures in the quantities usually applied.

From enquiries I have made from those who are well informed, there seems to be little probability of any marked reductions in the prices of Superphosphates next season.

BASIC SLAG.

Of recent years the methods of steel manufacture have been undergoing a radical change in this country, the Bessemer converter, with its basic lining, giving place to the "open hearth" process. The result of this change of procedure has been to lower the quality of the basic slag both with regard to the contents of Phosphate and the availability of such Phosphate as is present.

The reduction of the solubility of the Phosphates is caused by the addition of Fluor Spar (Fluoride of Calcium) to the melt, by which means an artificial, and relatively insoluble, mineral, known as Apatite, is formed. New prices for Basic Slag have, at the time of writing, just been fixed, and, subject to a small rebate for deliveries in the months of June, July, and August, are as follow:—

			Government Price.	Present Price.
1694	Phosphate	of Lime	 1918 64/-	1922 55/-
18%	,,		 66/-	60/-
20% 22%	,,	,,	 68/- 70/-	65/- 70/-
24%	,,	,,	 73/-	75/-
260 2806	,,	"	 76 ['] /- 79/-	80 /- 85 /-

A comparison of the above figures shows that, although the present prices for the lowest grades of Basic Slag are lower than they were in 1918, the better grades are distinctly higher.

SLAG PHOSPHATES.

The lower quality of the Basic Slag now upon the market has brought into prominence finely ground mineral Phosphate as a substitute. Since the war, large quantities of high-grade Phosphate have come under British control, as a result of a mandate granted by the Supreme Council to the British Empire of Nauru Island and Ocean Island, situated in the Pacific Ocean, and said to possess the largest reserves of high-grade Phosphate in the world. The lowest estimate places the quantity in sight in the two Islands at well above 100 million tons. The deposits were formerly leased from the German Government by a British undertaking.

In answer to a question in the House of Commons on July 11th, 1921, Sir A. Boscawen, Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries, said:—"That the Phosphate Commissioners had contracted with the South Wales Basic Slag Co., Ltd., for the supply of 125,000 to 215,000 tons of Nauru and Ocean Island Phosphates between March, 1921, and the end of 1922; and that a provisional contract had also been made with the Slag Phosphate Co., Ltd., for the supply of the Phosphate available for shipment between 1923 and 1927, with a minimum of 100,000 to 150,000 tons per annum. In each case the selling price was the cost price as laid down in the Nauru Island Agreement, and the price at which the Companies could sell was the cost price plus a moderate agreed profit, so that agriculture would receive the fullest possible benefit.

"The entire responsibility for selling the Phosphate lay with the Phosphate Commissioners, and the contracts made by them in no way concerned the Government. The Slag Phosphate Co., Ltd., described the mixture it is putting on the market as Slag Phosphate, composed of about one-half Basic Slag and the remainder Nauru and Ocean Island Phosphate, so there is no reason for agriculturists to suppose that the material is high-class Basic Slag. Average analyses of Nauru and North African Phosphates gave:—

"The price of 3/- per unit charged for the mixture of Basic Slag and Ground Phosphate was understood to be based on cost price plus a limited profit."

In a subsequent reply, Sir A. Boscawen expressed the opinion that although Nauru Phosphate "could not properly be described as Guano," it might, since it had originated from Guano, be accurately described as "Phosphate of Guano origin." This is a very fine distinction, and one which is apt to mislead the uninitiated. As a matter of fact the Naura Phosphate has been formed by the action of the soluble portion of Guano Phosphates upon coral, and its conversion into an insoluble, and, therefore, less available condition.

It should be noted also that the statement that what is being put upon the market as Slag Phosphate is a mixture of Basic Slag and Nauru and Ocean Island in about equal proportions, does not mean that the Phosphate contained in the material as sold is derived equally from the two sources. If the Basic Slag used for the mixture contained 20 per cent. of Phosphate, and the other half 85 per cent. of Phosphate, the total Phosphates present would be 52.5 per cent, of which only 10 per cent. would be derived from Basic Slag. This is a fact which should be taken into consideration when comparing unit values.

POTASH.

German Potash manufacturers have recently agreed to raise Potash prices by about 34 per cent. on the ground of increased costs of production. On the other hand complaints are made of "dumping" of the Alsatian Potash. The quantity of Potash available from Alsatian mines is very much less than the German output, but it is sufficiently large to have a controlling effect upon Potash prices.

It is, however, too soon to make any definite forecast of what is likely to be the position in the coming season.

COMPOUND FERTILISERS.

All the Government restrictions being now removed, manufacturers have a free hand, and cater for their customers in every possible way. In this case, however, the outlook so far as prices are concerned as at present uncertain.

FEEDING STUFFS.

The position with regard to feeding stuffs is very much what it was before the war, except as regards prices and the relative supplies of the different forms of food upon the market. So far as I am aware there have been no considerable supplies of any new feeding stuffs due to the importation of the many promising Oil seeds which some day will be pressed into the service of the manufacturer and the agriculturist. Many of the oleaginous seeds and other food materials which have been imported on an experimental scale are so difficult in collection that the seed crushers and others are loth to work out the details in manufacture necessary for commercial success, and prefer to rely upon those seeds which they understand and which come forward with sufficient regularity to meet their requirements.

Since 1918, owing to the impetus given to Margarine manufacture on account of the shortage of butter, very considerable quantities of Palm Kernels have been imported and crushed or extracted in this country. I understand that 90 per cent. or more of the oil is refined for edible purposes, but the whole of the residual meal or cake is available for feeding purposes.

The present price of the cake (£7 10s. per ton, with a guarantee of 6 per cent. of oil), renders it one of the cheapest foods on the market, and, if I read the signs of the times aright, the increasing production of Palm Kernels on the West Coast of Africa and the utilisation of these kernels for edible purposes in this country is likely to provide a practically unlimited supply of cake or meal for cattle food.

Before the war the great bulk of the Palm Kernels went to Hamburg or other Continental cities, and only small quantities were crushed in England. There is now an export duty of ℓ^2 per ton on Palm Kernels exported from British West Africa to countries other than British Possessions. Notwithstanding this preferential duty I know from my own experience that a large trade is being re-established in Germany and Holland in Palm Kernels. I hope, however, that the trade now fairly well established in the United Kingdom will be able to maintain the temporary supremacy which it obtained during the war.

Although the prices of Feeding Stuffs are still much above pre-war rates, there has been a marked reduction in the prices ruling in 1918 and to-day. Thus Linseed Cake in 1918 cost £19, but to-day can be bought for £14 5s. per ton. 'If the late Sir John Lawes' dictum be accepted as accurate, that 6lb. of Linseed Cake consumed by a fattening beast produces 1lb. of live weight, then it would appear that at current prices (67/- per cwt. as against 75/- per cwt. in 1918), a better return would be obtained than in the former year.

At the time of writing there is a comparative shortage of feeding materials, but as the world's supplies do not seem to be inadequate to meet the demands there is a reasonable prospect, if and when the economic conditions get more stable, of a return to saner finance and to a recovery of our agricultural prosperity.

Summary of the Agriculture Act, 1920

BY T. H. HOLBORN

THIS Act came into operation on the 1st of January, 1921, and is of considerable importance to owners and occupiers of Agricultural Holdings.

As a result of the hurried passage through Parliament, the Act was amended within a few months of coming into operation by the Agriculture Amendment Act, which was passed for the purpose of correcting certain drafting errors in the Agriculture

Again on the 19th of August another Act known as the (orn Production (Repeal) Act was passed, and came into operation on the 1st of October, 1921, repealing Part I. of the Agriculture Act (except as regards powers with respect to injurious weeds).

The short effect of the Corn Production (Repeal) Act is:—

(1) To repeal the Corn Production Acts.

(2) To provide for payments in respect of the crops of wheat and oats grown during 1921.

(3) To make a grant for Agricultural education.
(4) To deal with the constitution, powers, and procedure of Conciliation Committees (which are in place of the Agricultural Wages Boards). •

(5) To settle the measure of compensation as regards "tied" cottages.

DESTRUCTION OF INJURIOUS WEEDS.

As indicated above, the only portion of Part I. of the Agriculture Act which has not been repealed relates to the destruction of injurious weeds. The Minister of Agriculture has power (either directly or through a County Agricultural Committee), to serve notice on the occupier of land requiring the cutting down or destruction of the following injurious weeds, viz. - Spear Thistle, Creeping Field Thistle, Curled Dock, Broad-leaved Dock, and Ragwort growing on the land. Where notice is served on the tenant, a notice shall also be served on the landlord. failure to comply with the Order a fine not exceeding f20 may be imposed on the occupier of the land on summary conviction. and 20/- for every day the failure continues.

This provision also applies to waste land and land other than land used for Agriculture. The expression occupier in the case of any public road means the authority by whom the road is being maintained, and in the case of a railway embankment or canal bank the occupier would be the railway or canal company to which the embankment or bank belongs. In the case of unoccupied land the person or persons entitled to occupation are responsible for the cutting down or destruction of the above-mentioned weeds.

PART II.

Part II. of the Act is almost entirely confined to amendments of the Agricultural Acts. It must be borne in mind that the Agriculture Act of 1920 does not repeal the Agricultural Holdings Act of 1908, but merely amends and repeals certain provisions of that Act and adds many fresh ones. The Agriculture Act is to be construed as one with the Act of 1908, and these Acts, together with the Acts passed last year, will be cited as the Agricultural Holdings Acts 1908 to 1921. The different Acts should therefore be read together.

At the time this article is being written there is a Bill before the House of Commons which has been introduced for the purpose of consolidating the various Agricultural Holdings Acts, and should this Bill become law it will obviously prevent a considerable amount of confusion which exists at present. The matters dealt with in Part II. of the Act include compensation for disturbance of tenancies of Agricultural holdings and allotments; compensation for the continuous adoption of a special standard or system of farming; compensation to labourers in the occupation of holdings to which the Agricultural Holdings Act of 1908 applies; arbitration to fix rents; compensation to landlords for deterioration of the holding; the extension of tenancies under lease; the amendment of the law relating to improvements, including the extension to market gardens of the Evesham custom, and many other matters affecting the position of landlord and tenant.

COMPENSATION FOR DISTURBANCE.

According to Section 10 of the Act a tenant quitting the holding where the tenancy terminates after the 1st of January, 1921, by reason of a notice to quit given by the landlord after the 20th of May, 1920, shall be paid compensation by the landlord for such loss or expense directly attributable to the quitting of the holding as the tenant may unavoidably incur upon or in connection with the sale or removal of his household goods, implements of husbandry, fixtures, farm produce, or farm stock on or used in connection with the holding, and shall include any expenses reasonably incurred by him in the preparation of his claim for compensation (not being costs of an arbitration to determine the amount of compensation). Such sum is to be computed at an amount equal to one year's rent of the holding, but if the tenant can prove that his loss and expenses exceed that amount, he can recover an amount representing up to a maximum of two years' tent.

WHEN COMPENSATION IS NOT PAYABLE.

Compensation is not payable if the tenant

(A) Was not at the date of the notice cultivating the holding according to the rules of good husbandry;

(B) Had, at the date of the notice, failed to comply within a reasonable time with any notice in writing by the landlord served on him requiring him to pay any rent due in respect of the holding, or to remedy any breach which was capable of being remedied of any term or condition of the tenancy consistent with good husbandry.

(c) Had at the date of the notice materially prejudiced the interests of the landlord by committing a breach which was not capable of being remedied of any term or condition of the tenancy consistent with good husbandry.

(D) Was at the date of the notice a person who had become bankrupt or compounded with his creditors.

(E) Has, after the commencement of this Act, refused, or within a reasonable time failed, to agree to a demand made to him in writing by the landlord for arbitration as to the rent to be paid for the holding as from the next date at which the tenancy could be terminated by notice to quit given at the date of the said demand; or

(F) Had at the date of the notice refused or failed to comply with a demand in writing by the landlord to execute at the landlord's expense an agreement in writing setting out the existing terms of tenancy.

REASONS FOR NOTICE TO QUIT TO BE STATED.

Unless the notice to quit given after January 1st, 1921, states that it is given for one or more of the aforesaid reasons, compensation for the disturbance shall be payable by the landlord to the tenant in accordance with the provisions of Section 10 of the Act.

LIBERTY TO WITHDRAW NOTICE.

Compensation is not payable for unreasonable disturbance where the landlord has made to the tenant an offer in writing to withdraw the notice to quit, and the tenant has unreasonably refused or failed to accept the offer A landlord who has given notice to quit without stating the reason, and declines or fails unreasonably to state within 28 days of the tenant's written request asking why notice to quit has been given, will be liable for the payment of compensation for disturbance as if the notice had not been given for any of the aforesaid reasons (A) to (F).

Further conditions where compensation for unreasonable disturbance is not payable:—

(1) In respect of the sale of any goods, implements, fixtures,

- produce, or stock, unless the tenant has before the sale given the landlord a reasonable opportunity of making a valuation thereof.
- (2) Unless the tenant has, not less than one month before the termination of the tenancy, given notice in writing to the landlord of his intention to make a claim for compensation for unreasonable disturbance.
- (3) Where the tenant with whom the tenancy was made has died within three months before the notice to quit.
- (4) In a case in which the tenant under Section 23 of the Act of 1908 accepts a notice to quit part of his holding as a notice to quit the entire holding, the compensation payable is limited to the part to which the notice to quit relates, so long as the part, together with any other part of the holding, affected by a previous notice is less than one-fourth of the original holding, or the holding as proposed to be diminished is reasonably capable of being cultivated as a separate holding.
- (5) Where the holding was let to the tenant by a corporation carrying on a railway, dock, canal, water, or other undertaking, or by a Government department or a local authority, and the possession is required for the purposes for which the land was acquired (not being the use of land for agriculture), or it is appropriated under any statutory provision.
- (6) In the case of permanent pasture usually let annually for seasonal grazing, which since the 4th of August, 1914, and before January 1st, 1921, has been let to a tenant for a definite and limited period for cultivation as arable land, on the condition that the tenant shall along with the last or way-going crop, sow permanent grass seeds.
- (7) Where at the time of the creation of the tenancy the landlord has been in the occupation of the land for a period of not less than 12 months, and contracts by a written agreement under an express condition that the landlord may resume occupation before the expiration of a specified term not exceeding seven years on giving notice to quit.

REDUCED COMPENSATION WHEN TENANT HAS MORE THAN ONE HOLDING.

In any case where a tenant has two or more holdings whether from the same landlord or different holdings, and receives notice to quit one or more but not all, the compensation for disturbance shall be reduced by such amount as is shown to the satisfaction of the arbitrator to represent the reduction (if any), of the loss attributable to the notice by reason of the tenant continuing in possession of the other holding or holdings.

ARBITRATION IN RESPECT TO COMPENSATION.

If any question arises as to whether compensation is payable or as to the amount payable by way of compensation under Section 10 of the Act dealing with compensation for disturbance, the question shall in default of agreement be determined by arbitration under the Agricultural Holdings Act of 1908.

COMPENSATION NOT AVOIDED BY CONTRACT.

A claim for compensation for unreasonable disturbance shall be in addition to any compensation to which the tenant may be entitled in respect of improvements, and shall be recoverable in the same way as for improvements under the 1908 Act, and shall be payable notwithstanding any agreement to the contrary.

COMPENSATION WHERE HOLDING IS DIVIDED.

In the case of a tenancy which terminates after the 1st of January, 1921, a tenant shall be entitled to require that any compensation payable to him under the Agricultural Holdings Act, 1908, shall be determined as if the holding had not been divided, where the ownership of the holding has become vested in more than one landlord, and the rent payable by the tenant has not been apportioned with his consent or under any statute.

CERTIFICATE OF NEGLECT TO CULTIVATE HOLDING.

The landlord may apply to the Agricultural Committee of the area for a certificate that the tenant is not cultivating the holding according to the rules of good husbandry, and the Committee shall within one month of the application give or refuse a certificate to this effect.

Either landlord or tenant may appeal to an arbitrator regarding the issue by the Committee or the refusal to grant the certificate within seven days after the notification by the Committee. The arbitrator must give his decision within 28 days after the case has been referred to him.

Subject to any such appeal a certificate granted shall be conclusive evidence that the holding is not being cultivated according to the rules of good husbandry.

RULES OF GOOD HUSBANDRY.

The expression "rules of good husbandry" means (due regard being had to the character and position of the holding),

- (A) The maintenance of the land (whether arable, meadow, or pasture), clean and in a good state of cultivation and fertility, and in good condition;
- (B) The maintenance and clearing of drains, embankments, ditches;
- (c) The maintenance and proper repair of fences, stone walls, gates, and hedges;
- (D) The execution of repairs to buildings, being repairs which are necessary for the proper cultivation and working of the land on which they are to be executed; and

(E) Such rules of good husbandry as are generally recognised as applying to holdings of the same character and in the same neighbourhood

The foregoing definition shall not imply an obligation on the part of any person to maintain or clear drains, embankments, or ditches, if and so far as the execution of the works required is rendered impossible (except at prohibitive or unreasonable expense), by reason of subsidence of any land or the blocking of outfalls which are not under the control of that person, or if its application to land in the occupation of a tenant imply an obligation on the part of the tenant—

(1) To maintain or clear drains, embankments or ditches, or to maintain or properly repair fences, stone walls, gates, or hedges, where such work is not required to be done by him under his contract of tenancy; or

(2) To execute repairs to buildings which are not required to be executed by him under his contract of tenancy.

ARBITRATION AS TO THE RENT.

It will have been observed that the tenant is not entitled to compensation if he has declined to go to arbitration to fix the rent of the holding. On the other hand, if the landlord on the request of the tenant refuses to submit to arbitration the question of the rent to be paid, the compensation for disturbance will be payable if the tenant leaves under a notice to quit given to the landlord as the result of the landlord's refusal or failure to agree to arbitration, unless the landlord could have given notice to quit tor any of the reasons in paragraphs (1), (8), (1), under the heading "When compensation is not payable."

A demand for the arbitration as to the rent shall not apply where the demand, if made later than six months from the 1st of January, 1921, is so made that the increase or reduction would take effect within two years of the commencement of the tenancy or from the date on which a previous increase or reduction of the rent took effect.

According to Section 1 of the Agriculture (Amendment) Act, 1921, the question as to the rent shall be referred to arbitration under the Agricultural Holdings Acts, 1908, where a demand in writing for arbitration as to the rent to be paid for the holding has been made for the purposes of Section 10 of the Agricultural Act, 1920 (which relates to compensation for disturbance), and has been agreed to whether in writing or otherwise.

In determining the amount of rent payable for a holding the arbitrator shall not take into account any increase in the rental value which is due to the tenant's improvement unless the landlord has made or given an equivalent allowance or benefit in consideration of the tenant carrying out the improvements. This does not apply where the tenant is under an obligation imposed by the terms of the contract of tenancy to carry out the improvements, nor can the rent be fixed at a lower amount by reason of any dilapidation or deterioration of land or buildings made or permitted by the tenant.

SPECIAL PROVISIONS AS TO ALLOTMENT GARDENS.

Compensation for disturbance of occupiers of allotment gardens is also provided for in the Act, with the necessary modifications and subject to special provisions.

Where less than one year's notice to quit is given the compensation shall be either such an amount as is payable under the provisions of Section 10 or the estimated value of the benefits which the holder might have expected to derive from a full year's occupation following the receipt of the notice to quit at an earlier period, whichever amount is greater. This provision does not apply where possession of the land is reasonably required for Naval, Military, or Air Force purposes, or for building, mining, or other industrial purposes, or for roads necessary in connection with any of these purposes. Compensation for disturbance is not payable by a local authority in the case of provided allotments where the occupiers reside more than a mile outside the area of that local authority. The question as to whether compensation is payable or not has to be determined under the Allotments and Cottage Gardens (Compensation for Crops) Act, failing agreement upon the appointment of an arbitrator.

There is a Bill to amend the law relating to Allotments now being considered in the Houses of Parliament.

COMPENSATION FOR SPECIAL STANDARD OF FARMING.

Where a tenant on quitting the holding proves to the satisfaction of an arbitrator that by the continuous adoption of a standard or system of farming more beneficial to the holding than the standard or system (if any) required by the contract of tenancy the value of the holding to an incoming tenant has been increased, the arbitrator shall award the quitting tenant such compensation as represents the value to the incoming tenant.

This does not apply unless a record of the holding has been made under the 1908 Act, or in respect of any matter arising before the date of such record. Notice in writing of the intention to claim such compensation must be given to the landlord before the termination of the tenancy, or compensation shall not be payable. In assessing the value to an incoming tenant the arbitrator must make due allowance for any compensation agreed or awarded to be paid to the tenant for any improvement specified in the first schedule of the Act of 1908 which has caused or contributed to the benefit. The continuous adoption of such a beneficial standard or system of farming is to be treated as an improvement for the provisions of this Act relating to the determination of the rent properly payable in respect to the holding.

COMPENSATION TO DISCHARGED WORKMEN OCCUPYING TIED COTTAGES.

Where the tenant of an agricultural holding to which the Agricultural Holdings Act, 1908, applies, has let to a workman employed by him in agriculture on the holding, a dwelling-house (including a garden attached thereto), which is part of that holding, and the occupation of the dwelling-house is ended by the discharge of the workman from such employment, the workman will be entitled to receive compensation on the scale of a minimum of one year's rent, and up to two years' rent if the workman can prove loss exceeding one year's rent. One year's rent is to be computed at 52 times the weekly rent free from rates up to a maximum of 47 16s.

Compensation is not payable—

(A) If the notice to terminate the occupation is given six weeks from the commencement of the occupation:

(P) If the employer before giving notice has obtained from a Court of Summary Jurisdiction a certificate that the termination of the occupation is necessary or expedient to enable the holding to be worked properly or to better advantage;

(c) If the employment of the workman is for a year or halfyear, and the occupation is terminated at the end of such period;

(b) Where the workman does not quit the dwelling-house at the end of the notice to terminate the occupation, or within two months from the date when the notice was given, whichever is the later;

(E) Where notice is given by reason of the employment of the workman having been terminated on account of his misconduct.

Any dispute as to whether compensation is payable, or as the amount to be paid has to be decided by a Court of Summary Jurisdiction.

Note.—It is assumed that compensation will not be payable by owner-occupiers, employers owning their own cottages or renting cottages separately from the holding, as the provision only affects cottages on holdings to which the 1908 Act applies.

GOMPENSATION TO LANDLORD FOR DETERIORATION OF THE HOLDING.

Where a landlord proves to the satisfaction of an arbitrator appointed under the Agricultural Holdings Act, 1908, that the holding has been deteriorated during the tenancy, by the failure of the tenant to cultivate the holding according to the rules of good husbandry or the terms of the contract of tenancy, the arbitrator shall award to the landlord such compensation as in his opinion represents the deterioration of the holding.

The landlord must give notice in writing before the termination of the tenancy of his intention to claim such compensation.

The landlord may, however, claim compensation for dilapidations or for deterioration of the holding under the contract of tenancy, without giving notice before the termination of the tenancy.

ARBITRATION ON QUITTING HOLDING.

Any dispute between the landlord and tenant at the termination of the tenancy in respect of a claim by the tenant for compensation for improvements, or by the landlord for a breach of the contract of tenancy, or for waste wrongly committed or permitted by the tenant, is to be determined by arbitration under the Act of 1908.

Unless particulars of the claim have been given by the landlord to the tenant, or by the tenant to the landlord, as the case may be, within two months of the termination of the tenancy, any such claim will cease to be enforceable. These provisions do not apply to tenancies which terminated before the 1st of January, 1921.

SALE OF MANURE, HAY, &c., LAST YEAR OF TENANCY.

Where notice to terminate the tenancy has been given, either by the landlord or the tenant, after the 1st of January, 1921, the tenant is, subject to any agreement to the contrary, prohibited from selling or removing from the holding at any time after the date of the notice, any manure or compost, or any hay, straw, or roots grown in the last year of tenancy, unless the landlord or incoming tenant has had a reasonable opportunity of agreeing to purchase on the termination of the tenancy at a fair market value or at such other value as is provided by the contract of tenancy

RECORD OF HOLDING.

The landlord or tenant of a holding may at any time during the tenancy require that a record of the condition of the buildings, fences, gates, roads, drains, ditches, and cultivation of the holding be made.

The tenant may also require a record to be made of any improvements executed by him, and for any improvements for which he has with the written consent of the landlord paid compensation to the previous tenant under section 7 of the 1908 Act, and of any fixtures or buildings which he is entitled to remove under Section 21 of the 1908 Act.

In default of agreement the record has to be made by a person appointed by the Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries, and the cost of making the record has to be borne by the landlord and tenant in equal shares.

AMENDMENT OF AGRICULTURAL LAND SALES (RESTRICTION OF NOTICES TO QUIT) AGT.

This Act which came into operation in August, 1919, has had the following words included in Section 1 of the Act: "If the contract of sale is made by the person by whom the notice to quit was given." The inclusion of these words is to make valid a notice given by a landlord after he has sold the holding and the purchaser re-sells during the currency of the notice.

The Section of the Act now reads as follows: "On the making after the passing of this Act of any contract or sale of a holding, or any part of a holding held by a tenant from year to year, any then current and unexpired notice to determine the tenancy of the holding given to the tenant, either before or after the passing of this Act, shall, if the contract of sale is made by the person by whom the notice to quit was given, be null and void, unless the tenant shall, after the passing of this Act and prior to such contract of sale by writing, agree that such notice shall be valid.

NOTICES TO QUIT.

A notice to terminate the tenancy of a holding before the expiration of 12 months is now invalid, notwithstanding any provision in a contract of tenancy to the contrary; but this does not extend to a case where a receiving order in bankruptcy is made against the tenant.

Furthermore, the provision does not apply to—

(A) Any notice given by or on behalf of the Admiralty, War Department, or Air Council, under the provisions of any agreement of tenancy where possession of the land is required for Naval, Military, or Air Force purposes;

- (B) Any notice given by a corporation carrying on a railway, dock, canal, water or other undertaking in respect of any land acquired by the corporation for the purposes of their undertaking, or by a Government department or local authority where possession of the land is required for the purpose for which it was acquired (not being the use of the land for agriculture), or appropriated under any statutory provision.
- (c) Any notice under a contract of tenancy authorising the resumption of possession of the holding, or some part thereof, for some specified purpose, other than the use of the land for agriculture;
- (D) Any notice given by a tenant to a sub-tenant;
- (E) Any notice given before the 1st of January, 1921.

IMPROVEMENTS.

Section 1 (1) of the Agricultural Holdings Act, 1908, has been amended, and now reads as follows:—

"Where a tenant of a holding has made thereon any improvement comprised in the first schedule to this Act, he shall, subject as in this Act mentioned, and in a case where the contract of tenancy was made on or after the first day of January, 1921, whether the improvement was or was not an improvement which he was required to make by the terms of his tenancy, then be entitled to the determination of a tenancy on quitting his holding, to obtain from the landlord as compensation under this Act for the improvement, such sum as fairly represents the value of the improvement to an incoming tenant."

Paragraph 26 of Part III. of the First Schedule to the 1908 Act (which relates to improvements in respect of which consent of or notice to landlord is not required) has been amended. The tenant is now entitled to claim compensation for laying down temporary pasture with clover, grass, lucerne, sainfoin, or other seeds sown more than two years prior to the determination of the tenancy, in so far as the value of the temporary pasture on the holding at the time of quitting exceeds the value of the temporary pasture on the holding at the commencement of the tenancy for which the tenant did not pay compensation.

There have also been further additions to Part I. of the First Schedule of the 1908 Act, relating to improvements to which the consent of landlord is required. These are :-

164.—Provision of permanent sheep-dipping accommodation.
16B.—In the case of arable land the removal of bracken, gorse, tree roots, boulders, or other obstructions to cultivation.

It is not necessary now for the tenant to give notice before the termination of the tenancy of his intention to claim compensation for unexhausted improvements, as Sub-sections 2 and 3 of Section six of the Agricultural Holdings Act, 1908, has been repealed by the second schedule of the 1920 Act.

COMPENSATION SCALE IN CHESHIRE AND LANGASHIRE.

A scale for calculating values of unexhausted improvements and other matters of tenant right has been drawn up by the Cheshire Chamber of Agriculture, the Lancashire and Cheshire Committee of the Surveyors' Institution, the Lancashire and Cheshire Branch of the Land Agents' Society, and the Lancashire and Cheshire Branches of the National Farmers' Union.

In estimating the value of such unexhausted improvements as are mentioned herein, it shall be essential to consider THE VALUE OF THE IMPROVEMENT TO AN INCOMING TENANT, which has resulted therefrom according to the judgment of the Valuers, and then apply the subjoined scales which are to be considered as the maximum, in order to determine its value at any subsequent time.

Vouchers MUST be produced as evidence of outlay in support of all claims; and in the case of home-grown corn, satisfactory evidence of its consumption.

Invoices must show the constituents of the manures, and when and where applied.

Account should also be taken in all cases of the following matters:—

(A) Whether the manure has been properly cared for and judiciously applied.

- (B) Whether the soil is of a retentive nature
- (c) Whether the land is clean, well drained, and well cultivated
- (D) Whether the course of cropping is of an exhaustive nature.
- (E) What crops, if any, have been grown since the application of manures.

Consideration must also be given to:-

- 1.—Type of land to which the manure had been applied.
- 2.—Excessive use of acid manures, such as Superphosphate.
- 3.—The amount of Nitrate of Soda and Sulphate of Ammonia used in conjunction with Marl, Basic Slag, and Lime, during last year of tenancy.

MANURIAL VALUES.

The compensation scale relating to manurial values is appended:—

^{*} The Valuer must exercise his discretion as to the suitability of these manures when used upon grass land.

When manures have been applied to Meadow Land and the hay has been sold off during the last two years of tenancy, the basis of compensation for residual manurial values should be on the same basis as arable land.

FEEDING STUFFS, &c.

- 1.—Compensation for the unexhausted value of Feeding Stuffs must be based on manurial value, and not on cost price, and be awarded only for the consumption of the last Two years of a tenancy, and the amount payable for the last year should be limited to the average quantity consumed during the three years preceding the termination of the tenancy.
- 2.—Valuers, in assessing compensation, shall take into account, in addition to those matters stated on page 4, the following:—
 - (A) Whether the manure has been made in covered yards and boxes, or open yards.

- (B) Whether the consumption of purchased feeding stuffs has been of long continuance.
- 3.—The manurial value of hay, straw and roots produced on the holding, and sold off by the outgoer, shall be estimated for compensation to the in-coming tenant on the same scale as compensation to the out-going tenant in respect of hay, straw and roots purchased and consumed on the holding, subject to the nature of the soil, and the local facilities for replacing manure for produce sold off being taken into consideration.

Valuers should take into consideration the mechanical value of straw used as litter, basing their valuation on the figures laid down by Messrs Voelcker and Hall; and where straw is sold off, the loss of mechanical value should be added to the loss of manurial value. The allowance to be made for the mechanical value of straw should be 7/- per ton.

4.—Compensation for two years and older temporary pasture (No 26, Part III of the 1908 Act) should be based on face value, subject to any special condition in the agreement or lease, provided always that they have not been unduly mown.

Note.—The sowing of clover and grass seeds in the last year of tenancy on land in proper course of rotation should be provided for in agreements, and neglect of such seeding be a matter of counter claim, whether provided for in agreement or otherwise; and when an out-going tenant has purchased and sown clover and grass seeds in his last year in the usual course, he should be paid for the seed and labour, subject to deductions caused by injuriously stocking.

- 5.—Foul land must be charged for as a dilapidation according to the position of such land in the rotation.
- C.—Periodical adjustment of the scale should be made so as to bring it in accord with any serious market fluctuations in the price of manurial constituents, or the increased or decreased values of the saleable corn, wheat, barley or oats, and that with a view to assisting valuers to arrive at an equitable basis for compensation for manures at any given (or later) date, the Board of Agriculture be requested to publish annually in their December Journal, an authentic statement of the current prices per unit of Ammonia, Phosphoric Acid, and Potash, as ascertained from the market quotations of ordinary fertilisers.
- 7.—The following scale is hereby recommended as the maximum to be adopted, which may be diminished according to the circumstances of each case, and subject to the foregoing recommendations.
- 8.— That the unit value of manures should be published by the various Associations concerned each year, and that the Joint Committee will be a standing one, and meet in January of each year.

- 2.—Draining—the tenant finding pipes and labour A twenty years' scale.

NOTE.—Nos. 3, 4 and 5 are suggested scales only, and are matters for compulsory arrangement between Landlord and Tenant prior to the execution of the work. (See Section 2 of the A. H. Act, 1908).

6.—It is desirable that all temporary buildings, such as hay, corn, or cattle sheds erected by the tenant, if considered suitable and not superfluous by practical valuers, should be taken at valuation, subject to any arrangement with the Landlord.

The Oldham Show of 1921

By HAROLD HOLDERNESS

THEN the Royal Lancashire Agricultural Society decided to set up their 1921 Show in Oldham, they had the assurance of public men and the captains of industry in a corner of the county where it is said that more cotton mills are clustered than in any area of equal size in the world, that no effort would be spared to make the visit Bolton had created new records by raising the memorable. amount of local funds to over £5,000, but the Oldham deputation betrayed no concern at the formidable task thus set them, and the knowledge that the site chosen was at the doors of a teeming population enabled the hospitality offered to be accepted with every confidence. There was also reason for hope that history would repeat itself. The last time the County Society, under the title of the Manchester and Liverpool Agricultural Society, visited Oldham was on August 30th and 31st in 1865, and although comparatively few of the present members have personal recollections of that meeting, the official records prove that it was the largest exhibition to have been held up to that period in the Society's history and that "there had never been a more intimate and cordial meeting between Agriculture and Commerce and never perhaps were those inseparable interests more harmoniously promoted." The local Committee's contribution was then "so large and handsome" that it was possible to offer a Show Prize List of £1,050, compared with £827 at Knutsford the previous year.

The factory chimneys with which the district bristles are not all of recent origin, for it was noted by the official chronicler of the 1865 Show that "Oldham and the surrounding country was not a very inviting locality in its agricultural character and aspect"; but modern expositions of the magnitude of the Royal Lancashire do not derive their sustenance from natural beauties, and they must go to the gates of populous centres to command the audiences and financial help essential to preserve a balance at the bank. Convenience and general adaptability of site must not be sacrificed to picturesque settings of verdant slopes and tree-crowned heights which still please the eye even in this utilitarian and commercial age. Where this framework is absent many lofty chimneys, especially if in active eruption, are welcomed as symbols of industry in which bread is won and dividends earned. It was unfortunate that following a wave of prosperity in the staple trade a slump should have set in while the Show preparations were in progress, but this did not deter the local committee from fulfilling their promises to the letter and creating a new record by raising a subscription list amounting to £5,783 12s. 2d.

The Society were fortunate in securing the services, as President, of the Right Hon. Lord Emmott, G.C.M.G., Oldham's distinguished townsman and leader of industry, and in the Mayor of the Borough (Councillor W. Lees), the Chairman of the Local Committee, his Vice-Chairman (Alderman Hardman), The Mayor-Elect (Alderman Houghton) and the Local Hon. Secretary (Mr. Joseph J. Williams, Town Clerk), they could not have desired more helpful collaborateurs in arousing public enthusiasm in the visit, in augmenting the war chest, and in equipping the ground at Hollinwood, a great lung space in a congested area acquired for the purposes of the housing scheme. Water, gas, and electricity were laid on free of charge, and the Town Council found relief work for a number of unemployed in assisting the Society's workmen in levelling and adapting the field for the Show.

From the time the Society took possession of the ground, Mr. J. W. Kenworthy, J.P., Chairman of the Showyard and Prize List Committee, was in attendance almost daily, supervising the work of construction, and in so far as service could be rendered and influence wielded, Mr. Kenworthy spared nothing that might contribute to success. In this connection it is interesting to recall that in 1861, when the Society visited Ashton-under-Lyne, Ald. B. M. Kenworthy, who was an ex-Mayor of the Borough and a relative of the present Vice-Chairman of the Council, took a leading part in the local arrangements, and materially helped to promote the success of that meeting.

The site, within a short distance of the Tram Route and Hollinwood Station, covered 36 acres, but looked much smaller owing to its compact formation. At the large exhibitions one has become accustomed to expect a tedious walk from the main entrances to the chief centres of attraction, but at Oldham it was a comparatively short step from the pay boxes to the horse ring, the chief centre of attraction, with seating accommodation on three stands for 1,700 people. A structural point perhaps worthy of comment was the bridge connecting the North Wing Stand with the Central Grandstand. Hitherto when the collecting ring and vetting yards have been at the rear of these structures, the problem has been to pass stock into the judging arena without impeding or endangering the public moving from one stand to the other. A solution was found by the overhead footbridge, and to prevent alarm which the tramp of feet on unprotected timber might cause to animals passing beneath, the bridge was floored with sawdust overlaid with cocoanut matting.

A welcome break in the main avenue was the promenade square, which had a utilitarian as well as an ornamental value, and ensured an effective display for exhibitors whose interests had been specially consulted in the planning of the yard. The central feature of this square was the Royal Pavilion, florally embellished and sumptuously furnished. The configuration of the ground necessitated a change from the usual plan of laying out the machinery and implement sections on the boundaries of the field. A double-sleeper road, flanked by the stands of the exhibitors, branched off from the main avenue and, making a crescent-like sweep, converged near the large horse ring. This departure from the conventional arrangement gave the yard a more congested but at the same time a more animated appearance, and was generally appreciated.

The exhibition opened on Wednesday, July 27th, and closed the following Saturday. A new attendance record was set up on the opening day when, as at Bolton, the Show was honoured by the visit of a member of the Royal House, but there was no abnormal influx on the succeeding days, which occasioned no surprise, having regard to the stagnation in trade.

Including cups, £4,500 represented the value of the prize money. Added to the rich collection of plate for the first time was the magnificent "Leverhulme" Champion Challenge Cup, presented by the Right Hon. Lord Leverhulme, to commemorate the Society's visit to Bolton, and awarded to the Lancashire breeders of the best bull, cow, or heifer in the pedigree dairy Shorthorn classes. As to the character of the Show it must be frankly admitted that the main stock departments fell far below the prewar standard of excellence, but this deficiency was not peculiar to the Royal Lancashire. Most of the large exhibitions failed to regain their former strength owing to the high costs of transport and labour, and in Lancashire the grain harvest was commencing as the Show opened, and from many farms men could ill be spared for practically a whole week at such a time.

Apart from the general parades of stock, the paucity of ring attractions was rather marked, owing to the thinning of the light horse classes, a process which has caused concern to showpromoting bodies who are limited in their choice of supplementary features if they are to escape the demands of the tax gatherer. Music, sports, or military tournaments render the whole of the receipts liable to the Entertainments Tax, which may make all the difference between profit and loss. The Royal Lancashire took a lead in a movement which had the support of the chief show organisations in the country for the abolition of this crippling taxation on institutions which are of educational value and for national good, and must attract the urban as well as the rural populations if they are to continue to exist, and had it not been for recognition of the country's financial straits, following the war, the Show Tax would have met with much more vigorous opposition than it has done up to the present time.

SHIRE HORSES.

A number of absentees made the Shire show probably the smallest furnished under the Society's auspices for many years. The causes, due to the aftermath of war, have already been referred to, but this year more than usual emphasis was given to an old complaint of Lancashire exhibitors that animals which won prizes in the open classes should be excluded from competition in the county farmers' classes on the last day of the show, and it was suggested that if this rule had not been operative more representatives of county studs would have been in occupation of the boxes throughout the Show. This has always-been a knotty problem to the Council, who have recognised that while the removal of the restrictions might have the effect of swelling the entries in the open section, it might limit considerably the number of new comers on farmers' day. Between the two issues it was difficult to decide. The Society's Council, however, are anxious to serve the interests of Lancashire agriculturists, and after the experience at Oldham it has been decided that for the Guild Show animals from county studs and herds that have gained honours in open competition shall be able to enter the farmers' classes. It is up to those who were loudest in their criticism of the old rule to show that it had the adverse effect they have often suggested, and express their appreciation of the change in the only practical

The best class in the section was that for stallions foaled in or before 1917, and six of the ten entries were forward. leader, which was subsequently awarded the "Kenworthy" 50 guineas Challenge Cup for the best Shire stallion, was Messrs. Jas. Forshaw & Sons' March King, a five-year-old grey by King of Tandridge, out of the noted mare Abingworth Gipsy, a London and "Royal" winner. M rch King has immense bone and feet, short cannons and marked muscular development; he stands nearer 18 than 17 hands, and his height is accentuated by his lofty and buoyant carriage on parade. In securing the male championship he accomplished the "hat" trick, this being the third successive show at which he has had a similar distinction, the two previous occasions being Peterborough and the Great Yorkshire. At the last-named meeting he beat Cippenham Monica, which was also champion mare at the Royal Lancashire, in the competition for the best animal of either sex. The previous season March King was hired to the Newark Shire Horse Society for a 2,000 guineas fee. The second was Mr. W. H. Holdcroft's very handsome and commanding five-year-old Rokeby Clansman, by Champion's Clansman, out of a Hoe Forest King mare, looking a much fitter and better horse than he did the previous year when he won his class. He is a grandly topped stallion of great substance, grips the ground with splendid feet, and there is much about him that appeals to many Shire men. In the third place came Mr. R. Stuart's London winner, Moulton Swell 3rd, another five-year-old and a bay son of Warton Draughtsman, not looking just at his best after a heavy season, and having to face two horses of exceptional scale and weight. He has a deep, compact, balanced frame, on wonderfully feathered limbs, and there was no gayer horse in locomotion. Moulton Swell also qualified for the Shire Horse Society's Gold Medal or £10 prize for the best Shire stallion or entire colt bred by or in the possession of a resident or occupier of agricultural land in the County Palatine.

Only a couple of three-year-old stallions faced the judges, and there was no difficulty in separating them. The winner and reserve for the male championship was the Earl of Powis's Welshpool Ruler, a very solid, muscular, masculine, and stocky-looking bay of notable breeding, being by Abbot's Royal Blood, out of an Eaton Nunsuch mare. The second was Mr. W. Knowles's heavily timbered black, Herontye Jupiter, by Blaisdon Jupiter 2nd, out of a Champion's Clansman mare. In two-year-olds there were six entries, but only a couple to choose from, and an easy winner was Messrs. J. Forshaw & Sons' Colney Friar, a bay by the Champion's Goalkeeper stallion Bengy, ex a Tatton Friar mare. colt, which won at the Great Yorkshire, is very compact, wide and deep, has exquisitely feathered limbs, combining weight with ivory quality of bone, and shows great liberty and force in move-Messrs. H. & R. Ainscough's home-bred Burscough Clansman, by Claymore, very weighty, but wanting more time to furnish, was second.

Messrs. J. H. Appleby & Sons, the Staffordshire breeders, repeated their "Royal" success in yearling stallions with the well grown and big boned brown Bradgate Viscount, by Audlem Royalist. The second which had many fanciers was Sir Berkeley Sheffield's Normanby Prince, a bay by March King, out of a Mimms Champion mare, and the third was Mr. H. Jackson's Medlar Coming King, a brown by Marden Dagnam, not quite so massive in character as the two in front.

Absentees reduced the class of brood mares from eight to three, and the first and second places were claimed by daughters of Dowsby Forest King. The former was Sir Berkeley Sheffield's Cippenham Monica, which was awarded the female championship of this show for the second successive year, was reserve champion at the Derby "Royal," and leader of the females at the Great Yorkshire. She is a typical Shire matron, spreading a wealthy frame over a lot of ground, combining weight and power without loss of feminine character, and standing on short legs and wonderful A worthy second was Messrs. C. N. & R. I. Trappes-Lomax's Norbury Melba, not so massive as her half-sister Monica, but fashioned on similar lines, and a type that catches the eye in the The third, very sweet, full of Shire quality, but overpowered by older mares, was Mr. R. N. Radcliffe's Blurton Forest Queen, a four-year-old dark bay by Woodfold Harold of the Forest. The foals from these mares were fillies, and there were no colts to judge.

The placings were the same as at the Great Yorkshire, Norbury Melba's foal by Norbury Lad beating that by Normanby Briar King, out of the Champion mare.

Three barren mares were entered, but none were forward, and in three-year-old fillies Mr. W. E. Whineray had a walk-over with Princess Royal, a four-year-old mare by Royal Oak 14th, a big, weighty, and beautifully feathered bay that was second at Peterborough in one of the strongest classes of the year.

Pendley Vanity, which cost a former owner 1,500 guineas, won in two-year-old fillies for Mr. J. Moffat, Kendal. Born in the purple, she is by Champion's Goalkeeper out of a Norbury Menestrel mare, and though she has not attained very massive proportions, has real brood mare character, and is a formidable show ring rival when in bloom. The nearest challenger was Messrs. Trappes-Lomax's home-bred filly Clayton Princess, which carries a spacious top on good limbs, and should build up into a big matron. She is by Champion's Clansman from a Marden Forest King dam.

Messrs. J. H. Appleby & Sons had a notable leader in yearling fillies in Bradgate Sheba by Pendley Leader. She is a deep, symmetrical filly, well made throughout, planted on big legs vestured with silky feather, and has the movement that is difficult to fault. She eventually stood reserve to Cippenham Monica for the 50 guineas challenge cup, presented by Sir Gilbert Greenall, Bart., for the best female in the show.

A notable class of geldings was headed by Mr. Gilbert L. Hardcastle's five-year-old dark brown by Lanes King, which includes a "Royal" win among his numerous successes. In the time that has elapsed since the Bolton Show he had built up a massive top and preserved his Clydesdale-like qualities of legs and feet. Other show geldings of repute followed. The second was Mr. J. Draper's Lion, a six-year-old Shopnoller Drayman black, on flat, hard limbs of everlasting wear, and the third was Mr. John Hulbert's Alkrington Champion, a deep ribbed, powerfully coupled bay by Moor's Kitchener, and a typical waggoner like the recipient of the reserve ticket, the East Lancashire Paper Mill Co.'s five-year-old brown by Argo 2nd.

SHORTHORN CATTLE.

In keeping with other Shows of the year the classes for beef Shorthorns were not very strong, but there were some real gems of this universal breed on view, including winners at the "Royal." There were no claimants for the prizes in the open class for bulls calved in or before 1918, and in the corresponding county class Mr. R. Cock, Rossall Grange, had a walkover with the thick, blocky roan Telluria Champion by Rosette Swell, and out of a Telluria cow by Robin Hood.

Three two-year-old bulls were forward in the open class, where Mr. Oliver W. Porritt, who has pedigree herds on his estates at Helmshore and at East Leake in the Midlands, led with Hean Chorister, an exquisitely modelled white bull on short legs, a picture on parade and a second prize winner in his class at the "Royal." This was a son of Collynie Chancellor, and out of one of the Charity family. The next two bulls which, in the absence of Hean Chorister, stood first and second in the County Palatine class, had previously been shown with success, but were more of the dairy type. The second was the Earl of Derby's Knowsley Carol Dolphin, a white son of Preshute Dolphin, with substance and masculine character, and the third was Mr. T. R. Wilkins' level, deep, richly-coloured roan Roseman, by Royal Stockman, out of Sweet Rosette, by Proud Prince.

The yearling bulls brought out the winner of the "Derby" Challenge Cup for the best bull in the Show bred by the exhibitor. This was the Hon. Mrs. Bruce Ward's Godinton Grand Duke, a beautifully coloured son of Dewlap's Royal Sovereign, symmetrical and full of character, and brought out in grand bloom. He beat Knowsley Carol Dolphin for the cup honours. second and third prizes in the class went to representatives of Mr. O. W. Porritt's herds. The blue rosette was placed on Collynie Conquest, a thick, deep roan of the Nonpareil family, by Proud Conqueror, and bred by Mr. Wm. Duthie, and the third was Hotchley Rubican, a home-bred red by Sanguhar Grand Courtier, the Darlington "Royal" champion which is still in Mr. Porritt's herd at East Leake. Collynie Conquest, which cost 600 guineas as a calf, is now at the head of the Scottish Shorthorns on Mr. Porritt's Musbury Estate at Helmshore. He and Hotchley Rubican were unopposed in the County class of yearlings.

The first of the female classes, that for cows calved in or before 1917, was very disappointing, only one of three entries being on view. First prize, however, was well merited by Mr. Charles Garnett's four-year-old red Bessborough Miss Ramsden 9th, a very neat and smoothly fleshed cow with signs of dairy force. The corresponding County class provided one of the best contests in the Shorthorn section, and the chief honours, which were also those of the breeder, went to Mr. H. H. Owtram's Newland Lady Grey, a dark roan, deep framed dual-purpose type by Mayflower Boy, very attractive on parade. Her nearest challenger, which came from the Rainford Hall herd of Lieut.-Col. Norman Pilkington, D.S.O., was Rainford Countess Fawsley, another home-bred rich roan by the well-known Cressida's Gift. She had not quite the substance of the winner, but she had dairy characteristics and carried a capital vessel. Mr. R. Cock was third with Rossall Maid 3rd, a good solid roan by Golden Fortune, out of a dam by Pansy's Pride, two bulls that were used with considerable success at Rossall Grange.

Two of the aristocrats of the beef Shorthorns appeared in the open class for heifers calved in 1918, and came from the noted Cumberland herd of Mr. J. H. Toppin, Musgrave Hall. The great prize winning white heifer Mischief, and her half sister, the roan Bright Princess, both being by Masterkey, but out of different dams, fought their old battles over again, but the verdict went in favour of the "Royal" champion female Mischief, which has a wonderful carcase, a grand outlook, and has rather more substance than her herd companion. These heifers stood first and reserve respectively for the "Derby" Challenge Cup for the best cow or heifer in the Show, which now becomes the property of Mr. Toppin. The third prize winner in the class was Mr. G. Mason's Yew Cottage Ruby, by Hightown Fairy King, and bred at Wigton, came to the top in the County competition, where she was placed in front of Mr. Jas. Ainscough's Ormerod Rose 2nd, a daughter of Kelmscott Conjuror 2nd, and Mr. Mark Walker's College War Queen.

In two-year-old heifers the Hon. Mrs. Bruce Ward's Bilsington Rosebud 11th, a white heifer of some distinction, beat Mr. O. W. Porritt's Rosehaugh Fair Millicent, a red by Fairlawn Radium, and Messrs. H. & J. Maude's Barkisland Gracie, a roan daughter of Prelate. Mr. Porritt's heifer of the Millicent family led in the County class, and Mr. G. Mason was second with Midina, a dark roan by Proud Patriot, bred at Musgrave Hall. Mr. Porritt swept the decks in yearling heifers, being placed first with Hotchley Countess, a handsome roan daughter of Sanguhar Grand Courtier, second with Hotchley Queen 2nd by Moresby Artilleryman, both bred by the exhibitor, and third with Dairymaid, one of the Sittyton Dairymaids by Collynie Cruiser. The first prize winners being excluded from the County class, Mr. Porritt, who had made each of the four entries here, got the first and second cards with Hotchley Queen and Dairymaid. With Hotchley Rubican he claimed the "Makant" Challenge Cup for the best bull born in the year prior to the Show, bred by the exhibitor who must be a resident in the County of Lancaster, and a member of the Royal Lancashire Agricultural Society, or of the Royal Agricultural Society of England.

PEDIGREE DAIRY SHORTHORNS.

Few Lancashire herds were represented in the dairy Shorthorns, and the majority of the class prizes went to exhibitors outside the County area. The Earl of Derby's Knowsley Carol Dolphin walked over in bulls calved before 1920, and was subsequently awarded the challenge cup presented for the first time by the Right Hon. Lord Leverhulme for the best Lancashire-bred exhibit (bull, cow, or heifer), in the pedigree dairy Shorthorn classes, reserve for this distinction being Mr. Owtram's Newland Lady Grey, to which reference has already been made in the Shorthorn section. In yearling bulls Captain the Hon. E. A. Fitzroy claimed first and second positions with Foxhill Prince Pearl, which was third at the "Royal," and Foxhill Wild Thought, both sons of Afterthought, and bred by the exhibitor. The second, shown for the first time, has not quite the scale of his herd companion, but fills the eye on parade. The third, Mrs. J. G. Wright's Beauty's Pride, a light roan by Gainford Dual Capacity, bred by the exhibitor at Halton Park, stood third as he did in the County class for yearlings in the Shorthorn section. A smart, level bull, full of dairy quality, he was first pulled up, and it was only after a lengthy deliberation that the judge sent him down to third place. He was second in a good class at the "Royal."

Seven animals entered the ring in the class for cows in milk, calved in or before 1917, but only four gave the qualifying milk yield. Mr. H. H. Owtram's ten-year-old cow Cockerham Barbara stood first until the milk test, and would have been a strong candidate for honours had she been able to contribute 8oz. more milk to make the 30lb. required of her. Leading place was taken by the Duke of Westminster's Charming Maid 7th, a four-year-old roan which contributed 4oz. over the 26lb. she was required to give in the ring. A neat cow, with youth on her side, she has a balanced and capacious vessel, and shows a lot of dairy qualities. Next came Mr. E. A. Smith's Catthorpe Seraphina, an eight-year-old roan, and a splendid specimen of the dual-purpose Shorthorn, with other show honours to her credit. A heavy and consistent milker as indicated by past records, she gave nearly four gallons in the ring—39lb. 10oz. The third was Mr. Wm. Bateman's robust eleven-year-old roan, Seraphina 4th, which gave 30lb. 2oz.

The class for cows or heifers in milk calved in 1918 was of outstanding merit, and the Duke of Westminster led with Bare Lily 3rd, a three-year-old daughter of Bare Record out of Bare Lily, and bred by Mr. Rd. Hall at Torrisholme Hall. Heifers with her scale and substance and size and quality of bag are rare. She has the dairy powers as well as the physique to give her celebrity, for since the Show she is believed to have made a record first-note yield for a pedigree Dairy Shorthorn. She gave 32lb. 4oz. against 38½lb. at the "Royal," where she was third in distinguished company. Mr. H. H. Owtram had a close second in Newland Nelly Lee, a home-bred roan by Mayflower Boy, shown for the first time. She has great promise and dairy attributes, and gave 26lb. in the ring. The Newland Hall herd also claimed third place with Newland Lottie 12th, a rich dark roan by Mayflower Boy, very dairy like, and fitted with good bag and correctly placed teats. Her contribution was 24lb. 12oz. of milk. She won the Shorthorn Society's prize at the Cumberland Show, where she also secured the silver medal.

There were only two entries of in-calf dairy cows, born in or before 1917, but they were animals of note. The winner was Mr. J. Moffat's square, solid, short-legged roan, Maude Moore, which came with an unbeaten record in her class. She was full of smooth flesh, very neat in her lines, and looked like letting down a capital bag. She was by Sedbergh Magic, and bred at Ireby Hall. The second, one of the Thornship Greys, shown by Mr. H. T. Williams, was Rose Grey 3rd, a very sweet and attractive seven-year-old cow.

RECORDED STOCK.

Two classes were provided for recorded cattle belonging to members of the Lancashire Milk Recording Society, and it was gratifying to note some improvement on the previous year's display. It must be remembered, however, that apart from the difficulties of the times—emphasised by the paucity of exhibits from the herds and studs of wealthy owners in other departments—the recording movement is in its initial stages, and the spring balance is being used primarily to weed out unprofitable cattle, to discover those that combine dairy force with good physique, and to utilise the information thus obtained in the mating of stock. The process of selection is slow, but the success attending the movement prompts the belief that in the near future the recording classes will furnish exhibitions that will please the present-day critics who do not appear to have gripped the real objects of recording.

The winner in the in-milk class was Mr. J. Eadson's Langdale Molly which had been successfully exhibited at several earlier shows. Here we have the cow as well as the milk, and wealthier types with equally big records are few and far between. The second, not quite so full of bloom, was a good stamp of roan, from Messrs. W. Holgate & Sons' Sawley herd. Mr. G. Cock claimed first prize in the in-calf class with Watts Wanted, a smart and neat dairy type. Mr. John Almond's Privet 3rd was second—a big upstanding heifer out of a thousand gallon cow.

JERSEYS AND FRIESIANS.

The entry of "butter cows," as the Channel Island's cattle are sometimes described, was similar to that of the previous year, and at Oldham, as at Bolton, Mrs. Rudd took the principal prizes to Felbridge Park farm, Sussex. In bulls, where only two paraded, Mr. I. B. Wilson, Grange-over-Sands, was first with Broughton General, bred at Grange, in the Lancashire home of the Jersey, by Mr. D. P. Maguire. The second was Mr. A. E. Bond's Dappler. The first three cows were difficult to separate, and the winner was Mrs. Rudd's Meadow Vale Pride, a winner of numerous prizes the previous year, when she was first in the open butter test at the Royal. Mr. A. E. Bond had a close second in Frontier's Maid, and the third was Mr. Maguire's beautifully modelled fawn Fairy Lily.

There was a trio of three-year-old heifers, and Mrs. Rudd's home-bred Noble Strain, a whole coloured daughter of Goddington Warrior 2nd, led in good company and gave her owner the right to hold the Blythwood Challenge Bowl for the second successive year. This heifer has won many prizes, and was milking heavily at the time of the Show. Mr. Bond's Cowslip's Hussy was second, and Mr. I. B. Wilson's Daisy third. Mrs. Rudd scored her third win in two-year-old heifers with Miss Marionette, a daughter of Marionette's Merry Boy, which was placed reserve for the Blythwood Bowl.

Breeders and exhibitors of the deep-milking Friesian hold firmly to the belief that they have possession of "a good thing." They are to be admired for the enterprise shown, and the methods adopted to keep the virtues of the Black and Whites before the The winning bull, a typical Friesian of massive character, was Mr. W. A. Brocklehurst's Hedges Bonnie Fokke, a threevear-old, by Hedges (Imported) Fokke 2nd, out of Hedges Bonnie Annie, a heavy yielding cow. A good second, but on lesser lines, was Mr. E. Hollingworth's Moordale Dutchman, a son of Wychnor (imported) Ynte out of Moordale Winia by a Botermijn bull. Mr John Horridge, of Bury and Anglesey, who has become an enthusiastic Friesian fancier, was third with Llanfair Primus, by Bladen Hibbert, a very smart yearling of his own breeding, but handicapped on account of his youth. There were seven entries in the class for cows, where Mr. E. Hollingworth's Moordale Winia, and Haydon Fullpail, both by Golf (imported) Botermijn were separated by Mr. J. Dowd's Terling Sea Kale 6th, which it may here be noted, became the winner of the Silcock Cup, presented in connection with the Lancashire Milk Recording Society's competition for the cow with the highest yield in the County in In a good class of hetfers, Mr. G. Woodfield's Fillongley Princess Mary was first, Mr. E. Furness's Hedges Familiar 2nd, and Mr. John Horridge's Felhampton Grouwstra Pi third.

DAIRY STOCK.

The classes for dairy stock, as usual, were a great feature of the second day's display. It is questionable whether a better group than the heavyweight cows in calf has ever been seen under county auspices, and the honour of leading fell to Mr. J. Moffat's Maude Moore, a level, square, thick, short legged pedigree cow of Messrs. Hope's breeding, with a bag to match her frame. She was a winner at the "Great Yorkshire," and was first at this Show last year. The contest for championship lay between her and Mr. Walter Wilson's Primrose, the winner in heavyweight cows in milk. The latter is a good middled, level, light roan, with a dairy outlook, stately carriage and a capital vessel and being in profit got the verdict over Maude Moore and enabled her owner to secure his third successive win and make the "James Edward Renshaw" 30 guineas challenge trophy his own property.

HUNTERS.

There were few claimants for the prizes in the Hunter breeding classes, and out of seven entries for the gold medals the Society places at the disposal of the judges for award to stallions, which in their opinion, are suitable for getting Hunter stock, only one horse put in an appearance, and this was the Buxton Lime Firms Company's seven-year-old chestnut Carnation, a son of Greenbank, ex-Coral by Minstead. In brood mares, Mr. W. H. Shiers' great mare Clematis, a nine-year-old bay by Denis Richard, added to her many triumphs. Next to her was Mr. G. Dickinson's Simon Square mare, The Pullet. Cark Mixed Grill by Silver Grill out of a successful show mare in Cark Grouse was the winning foal. The second foal out of the first-prize brood mare was moulded on the splendid lines of her dam, but she was obviously out of sorts when brought into the ring. In three-year-olds, Mr. Dickinson's Cark Silver Rod by Silver Grill was placed in front of Dr. Jackson's handsome filly, Bay Leaf, by Tates, from whose loins also came the winning two-year-old Prize Court, shown by Mr. Morden Rigg. The second was Mr. Dickinson's Cark Silver Beech, a brown, by Silver Grill. This pair stood in the same order for the medal, for the best filly not exceeding three years old. A beautifully moulded bay filly out of Carnation, the Buxton Lime Firms Company's Limestone Maid, won in yearlings, beating Mr. Shiers' Clemantina, a bay by Moduheagh out of Clematis. The latter was strongly opposed by a Cark stud representative in Cark Biscuit, by Courtesan 2nd.

In the saddle class for heavyweight Hunters Mr. Sidney Oram won with the chestnut gelding Past Master. Mr. Geoffrey Kenyon's Sequence, which was second, claimed the red rosette in another class of heavyweights. Bubbles, a novice gelding, also from Mr. Kenyon's stud, headed two classes for 12-stone hunters.

HACKNEYS.

Hackneys were rather more numerous than at Bolton. Stallions foaled in or before 1918 witnessed a trial of strength between Mr. Walter Briggs' Adbolton Kingmaker by King's Proctor, and Mr. C. F. Kenyon's Kirkburn Leader by Mathias, both nine years' old, and supreme champions at the London Show, the former having had this distinction on three occasions. Adbolton Kingmaker moved with great courage, and was more perfect in his hind action than the beautifully-fronted Kirkburn Leader, and the placings here confirmed the verdict at the "Royal" and the "Great Yorkshire." The Albin stud horse later added one more to his numerous championships by taking the 50 Guineas Cup, presented by Messrs. H. & R. Ainscough, for the best Hackney stallion in the Show, and Kirkburn Leader was reserve. in the class was Mr. H. B. Brandt's Adbolton Sherwood Forester, own brother to Adbolton Kingmaker. A couple of well-grown two-year-olds paraded, and Mrs. Fletcher & Sons' Majestic, a chestnut by Angram Majesty, was placed in front of Mr. W. Greenwood's Airedale Ringmaker. The leader, which is the better furnished, reversed the "Royal" decision. The only yearling was Mr. John Barlow's Irlam Grand Fashion, a chestnut by Salford Victor.

In brood mares, Sir Lees Knowles' Slashing Dorothy, a wealthy and exquisite mare, with scale balance, substance, and quality, added to her London, Royal, and Great Yorkshire championships by taking the Royd's 50 Guineas Challenge Cup for the best female.

Second came Mr. W. Morton's Shining Sunlight, a nine-year-old Antonius chestnut that has done a good deal of winning in the South, and third was Mr. Brandt's Capenor Possibility, a prettily moulded daughter of Polonius. The winning foal was a splendidly built colt by Bertrano out of Slashing Dorothy, and he has the conformation as well as the breeding to help to future success. Mr. Brandt's second foal, by Adbolton Sherwood Forester, was on bigger lines and a free mover, but was not just as nicely moulded. The third foal, out of the second prize mare, was by Leopard. The winning three-year-old was Mr. Malcolm Sinclair's Capenor Sherwood Fragility by Adbolton Sherwood Forester, a well built good fronted mare, showing great liberty fore and aft. She was the challenger of Slashing Dorothy for the female championship. Mr. W. Morton's Histon Lady Sunlight was second to the leader here as she had been on several previous occasions. In two-yearolds, Mrs. Fletcher & Sons' big improving filly, Angram Express, was first, the only opposition coming from Mr. Sinclair's Eton Chasulaine. In vearlings, Mr. W. Greenwood had the red rosette for Airedale Leaderette, a very sweet chestnut, daughter of Kirkburn Leader.

The harness classes, as at other Shows of the year, were only thinly supported, but they included several of the most brilliant performers in the Hackney world. The "Tong" 25 Guineas Challenge Cup for the best harness horse was won for the third time by Mrs. Putnam's exquisite mare Park Carnation and between her and her almost equally famous stud companion Field Marshal was placed Mr. C. F. Kenyon's Axholme Venus, the sparkling bay, daughter of Southworth Swell, bred by Mr. H. Gilding, at Gateacre. Fourth in this distinguished company was Mr. W. Proctor's Penwortham Proctor fifth Mr. Walter Briggs' Albin Queen Mary by Adbolton Kingmaker; and the sixth Mr. A. Gemmell's Edgware Black Pearl. Axholme Venus got the medal for the best mare or gelding exhibited in single harness, and Field Marshal was reserve.

PIGS AND SHEEP.

The exhibition of pigs was one of the best ever seen at the County Show, and the breed societies' specials gave a further zest to the competitions. Large Whites, as usual, were the dominant breed, and included Sir Gilbert Greenall's unbeaten boar Worsley Jay 35th, which holds the record of having secured four "Royal" championships. He has enormous scale, and considering that he is approaching his seventh year is remarkably good on his legs. He took the National Pig Breeders' Association Gold Medal for the best Large White boar, and the reserve champion which was second in the class was Mr. John Fillingham's Progress of Grantham. The champion female, shown by Mr. E. Wherry, was Bourne Queen Anne, a three-year-old home-bred pig of great width, length, and depth, and brimful of quality. The Earl of Ellesmere's Stetchworth herd claimed several successes and supplied the reserve champion female in Matchless of Stetchworth, the leader in a strong class of sows farrowed in 1920.

In Middle Whites, which attracted increased attention, Mr. Leopold C. Paget claimed first places in three of the classes, and his winning aged boar was Wharfedale Marvel, which has had a successful showyard career. Messrs. L. Harrison & Co. showed a splendidly modelled sow in Histon Fragrance, and at the head of the females farrowed in 1920 was Mr. A. Hamer's Stepney Rose. another handsome representative of the breed. Last year there was only one class for Large Blacks, but this year the number was increased to four, which drew a total of 18 entries. With one exception all the prize money went to distant exhibitors. Terah F. Hooley's Fentongollan Result got the championship for the best animal in the section, and Mr. Percy Ford, of Beverley, who had firsts in two classes, was reserve with Trevisquite Beverley. a sow farrowed in January, 1920. In Gloucester Old Spots, the Exors. of the late Mr. A. R. Pilkington, who have built up an excellent herd at Windle, near St. Helens, took the championship with Windle Pride, the first prize sow, and stood reserve with Windle Actor, the winner in a good class of boars. The champion Cumberland boar was Mr. T. Cropper's Cashier, bred by Mr. W. Draper, at Eccleston, and the champion sow which also came from the Rochdale district was Mr. Hugh B. Simpson's Wardle Empress. a daughter of Hard Cash, and bred by the exhibitor.

Wensleydales and Lonks were the only breeds of sheep represented. In the former section in the class for rams, two-shear or over, Mr. R. H. Milner's Borwick Ideal beat a "Royal" winner in Lord Henry Bentinck's Cock of the Walk, and a second prize winner at Leeds in Mr. T. E. Clarke's Challen Cid. Mr. J. A. Willis' Caperby supplied the first and second prize shearling rams which had the distinction of standing first and reserve for championship honours. Lord Henry Bentinck and Mr. W. T. Milner, Slyne Hall, also took a considerable share of the prizes.

There was a choice show of Lonks, a breed indigenous to the high country within view of the Show ground. The best aged ram was Mr. W. Benson's "Royal" winner, Ling Bob, which was followed by Mr. H. O. Mitchell's Patrick Bronte, and Mr. E. Smith's Summerhouse Stamp. Mr. Smith supplied the winner in three out of the four remaining classes, the exception being that for Lonk ram lambs, where the leader was Hill Top Swell shown by Miss Annie Redman.

COUNTY COUNCIL STAND.

Lancashire has been a pioneer in agricultural education, and no county has offered such generous facilities for training to farmers' sons and daughters. The work of the Agricultural Department, curtailed on the experimental side during the war, has been resumed with increased energy under the direction of Mr. J. J. Green, B.Sc.,

Secretary of Agriculture, and was well illustrated on the County Council stand. Increased attention is being given in this country to the growth of forage crops for feeding green to dairy stock during the Summer and Autumn, and an important feature of the Agricultural section this year was the exhibit illustrating the experiments on this form of cropping being made at the Hutton farm. A new feature of the stand was the exhibit staged in conjunction with the Advisory Department in Agricultural Entomology, and in Agricultural Botany of Manchester University. There were specimens showing the life history of the frit-fly, of oats attacked at various stages, and of common fungoid diseases of crops prevalent in the county.

A new departure at the working dairy were demonstrations, by Students from the Hutton school, on the making of cream cheese and the manufacture of small cheese with simple utensils, suggesting a suitable and profitable method of dealing with surplus milk. The stand was also illustrative of the manifold character and importance of the work being carried out under the heads of horticulture and poultry-keeping, a detailed account of which would be a revelation to those in distant parts of the country who think of Lancashire as a county bristling with factory chimneys.

IMPLEMENTS AND MACHINERY.

A tour of the implement and machinery section conveyed the impression that the mechanical age was at hand, and the stands without some kind of machinery in motion were few and far between and seemed strangely silent in contrast with their neigh-The oil engine is becoming the "handy man" on the farm, being switched on to a variety of machines that economise time and save the staft a tremendous amount of hard labour. occasion, as for several years, the duty of awarding the Society's gold medal for the best collection of new implements designed for labour saving in agriculture and estate work, and the silver medal for the best single new implement was entrusted to Mr. John Whittaker, Wigan, and Mr. T. Smith, J.P.C C., Bold, members of the Society's Council. In their tour of inspection they found so much of interest and merit that they were prompted to recommend the Society to increase the number of silver medals to The gold medal went to Messrs. Harrison, McGregor & Co., Ltd., Leigh, for the best collection. Messrs. Baxendale & Co., Manchester, had not made an entry in this class and the judges had no power to make an award, but they were so impressed with the firm's display, comprehending almost every article required on a farm, that they recommended the Society to give some form of recognition. The recipients of the silver medals were Messrs. Burgess Brothers, St. Helens; Harrison, McGregor & Co., Leigh; Herbert Smethurst & Sons, Ltd., Hollinwood; Bates & Scholes, Ltd., Denton; and Whitehead & Furness, Ltd., Dukinfield. Messrs. Burgess received the award for a self-lift harrow, and Messrs.

Harrison McGregor's exhibit, singled out for special mention, was a harvester fitted with an opening-out divider and a knotter control by which the knotter is thrown out of action at the corners, and the sheaf carrier at the back can be dispensed with. The removable divider, a very simple detachable device, enables the machine to be taken straight into the field and spares the use of the scythe. The divider spreads the grain out of the track of the wheel, and the crop can be picked up on the return journey. Messrs. Smethursts' exhibit was a portable spraying plant for use in dressing crops against insect pests and fungoid diseases. Messrs. Bates & Scholes showed an electric ignition paraffin engine, which can be started from the cold state, and Messrs. Whitehead & Furness's exhibit was the "Otwell" mower, the knives of which are secured to the centre of the tractor.

HORTICULTURE.

A season of drought, perhaps the most remarkable in living memory, had hastened many moisture loving plants on to maturity, and they were not seen in the horticultural tent in the same numbers or in the height of form one expects in normal years. flower section of the Royal Lancashire Show commands the support of leading nurserymen from widely separated areas, so that visitors are always assured of a feast of colour, and an educational experience which makes this department a most valuable auxiliary of the Show. There was a very small collection of vegetables in the ordinary classes, but the prizes for allotment holders' produce from within a radius of five miles of Oldham Town Hall brought together a very large number of competitors, clearly emphasising that the allotment movement was something more than a wartime expedient. The stand, arranged by Mr. A. G. Sowman, the horticultural superintendent of the county and his staff, giving glimpses of the valuable work being carried on at the Horticultural Station, had a spectacular interest as well as real educational value, and during the show the attendants were able to give much useful information to cultivators, professional as well as amateur.

LANGASHIRE FARMERS' CLASSES.

With the introduction of the Lancashire Farmers' Classes and a large dog section, fresh interest was infused in the exhibition on Saturday, and with fine weather vouchsafed, the attendance was the largest secured on the fourth day for many years. In Shires, some animals were sent from Fylde studs that would have merited high places in the open competition, and one gathered that the chief reason for the non-appearance of some exhibits earlier in the week was the operation of the rule excluding prize winners in open competition from the county farmers' classes. Since the Show the Council have swept away that restriction, so that for the Preston Guild exhibition it will not be possible to advance this excuse for failure to strengthen the open as well as the county competitions. The winning brood mare was the Exors. of J. Wareing's Nuneham Rosa, a weighty, upstanding bay mare by Friar Tuck 4th. The first prize colt foal by Hadlow Prince William was out of Mr. D. Simpson's second prize brood mare by Leek Dreadnought, and in filly foals the red rosette was placed on a daughter of Normanby Craftsman, whose dam was the winning brood mare.

In three-year-olds the Exors. of H. Stuart led with Tilton Musical, a brown filly of great weight and scale and symmetrical proportions, and combining the bloods of Norbury Menestrel and Halstead Royal Duke. Mr. T. Stuart (Lytham) followed with Tarnacre Mona, a very attractive and quality-like daughter of Colney Albert, but lacking the substance of the leader. This pair stood first and reserve respectively for the "Smith Carington" 25 guineas cup for fillies not exceeding three years old. two-year-olds Mr. A. D. Butler's well grown, powerful, and big footed chestnut filly Queen's Choice by King's Choice beat the Exors, of H. Stuart's handsome and classy limbed Cockerington Fashion, by Mimms Champion out of a Norbury Menestrel dam. The two yearling fillies shown were Mr. T. Butler's brown by Marden Dagnam, and Mr. G. Knowles' black by King's Choice. Both had been in the money at the Lancashire Shows, and they stood in the order named.

The class for barren mares, foaled in or before 1917, brought out four smart mares and the champion of the county classes in the Exors. of H. Stuart's Halstead Lady Redlynch, a five-year-old bay by Leek Redlynch out of one of the Halstead Duchesses, and bred by the late Mr. John Bradley, who will always be remembered as the Lancashire farmer who helped to make Shire history in Halstead Lady Redlynch is a shapely, grand the Midlands. shouldered mare with height, range, and weight, a firm grip of the turf, and a buoyant and commanding carriage. For the second successive year she won the "John Halsall" 25 guineas challenge cup as the best mare over three years old, beating for this trophy the Exors. of J. Wareing's first prize brood mare Nuneham Rosa. Only two geldings, foaled in or before 1917, competed in the county class, and Messrs. G. G. Marsh & Son were first with a five-year-old black, a grandly modelled horse, combining Shire weight with Clydesdale quality of limb, and the activity that should satisfy the present-day gluttony for speed. Some massive geldings were sent by the local team owners.

The catalogue for the County Cattle Classes looked very attractive, but the exclusion of prize winners on the previous days created several gaps in the list. The "John Halsall" cup for the best cow went to Mr. Nathan Hardman, for a young, sweet and very dairylike in-calf roan, and the same exhibitor also supplied the runner-up, the winner in the class for cows in milk, very symmetrical in her lines, and fitted with a balanced and spacious vessel. Other leaders in the County classes were Messrs. J. R.

Lawson, Wesham; G. Cock, Hambleton; W. Bateman, Halton; and the Exors. of J. Wareing, Peel.

The best of the local classes was that for in-calf dairy cows over 11cwt., in which Mr. T. Winterbottom was first and Mr. J. Wilkinson second, both with blue roans.

The revival of the dog show was attended with marked success. There were over 1,100 entries, and the extra admission fee charged to meet the requirements of the Entertainments Tax did not deter many thousands from visiting this department. The champion dog was the Pomeranian, Ch. Ganty's Model, owned by Mrs. Fred Brown, of Haslingden. The reserve was Mr. J. Smith's Kersal Monarch, a bulldog known throughout the fancy.

BUTTERMAKING CHAMPIONSHIP.

A great crowd encircled the working dairy on the last day to witness the championship contest of the buttermakers. winner of the Preston Guild Commemoration Gold Challenge Cup was Miss Rachael James, Llancayo, Usk, Monmouthshire, who received full marks for granular condition and quality of butter and for methods of working, and she was credited with a total of 94 points. The second and reserve champion was Miss Pantall, a Herefordshire competitor, who has been the runner-up on four occasions. Five points separated her from the winner. Miss F. E. Skelding, a Lancashire County Council Dairy School student, who had the distinction of beating Miss James for first place in the open competition on Friday, was third with 87 marks, and the fourth, also a County Dairy School pupil, was Miss Doris Bowes, who had third place in open competition the previous day. She was awarded 82 marks, and received the Lancaster County Challenge Cup as the competitor resident in the County attaining the highest place in the confest. Miss A. J. Livesey, Tokio Creamery, Garstang, who was first in the county class on Wednesday and third in the open class on Thursday, was reserve with 81 marks. The previous year both the open and the county cups were won by an L.C.C. student, Miss M. K. Payne, Great Crosby, who did not compete at Oldham.

MILKING TRIALS.

In the milking trials, Mr. E. A. Smith's Catthorpe Seraphina, an eight-year-old roan that has substance and flesh as well as dairy force, outpointed all other breeds, and she took the "Allerton" challenge cup for the best pedigree dairy Shorthorn. Her combined morning and evening yield was 641b, and her total points gave her a liberal margin over other competitors. Space does not permit one to enter into an analysis of the trials, but the writer cannot refrain from directing attention, as last year, to the fat deficiency in several of the morning milk yields. In the pedigree Shorthorn class there was only one exception to the general rule of a poorer fat return in the morning as compared with the evening.

In four instances the yield fell below the standard of three per cent., and one animal failed to qualify owing to the poverty of the milk. In the class for cattle, other than pedigree Shorthorns, only one of nine animals gave more fat in the morning than in the evening. Again we have matter for reflection when considering the law in relation to the sale of milk. Here are cows receiving the most careful attention and every possible inducement to produce quality as well as quantity, and yet, if the morning milk from several of these cattle had been sold and sampled there would have been a prima facie case for legal proceedings against the vendor, who would have incurred the risk of conviction and being publicly branded as a dishonest man.

THE ROYAL VISIT.

Prince Henry, the King's third son, had a real Lancashire welcome on his arrival at the show ground shortly before one o'clock on Wednesday. His Royal Highness was received by Lord Emmott, the President, Mr. Windham E. Hale, Chairman, and other members of the Council, and Mr. Reg. O. Bradbury, Secretary. The Royal Party included the Earl and Countess of Ellesmere, by whom Prince Henry was entertained at Worsley Hall, Lord and Lady Dalkeith, Lord Stanley, and the Mayor and Mayoress of Oldham (Councillor and Mrs. Lees.)

The Prince first visited a special pavilion, erected under the auspices of the Ministry of Labour, to inspect the work done by disabled ex-Service men, the features of which were explained by Capt. Hargreaves, deputy director of training for the North-Western Division. His Royal Highness made a tour of the principal departments of the show, and in the afternoon presented the Challenge Cups in the large ring to the winners in the horse and Cattle sections.

At the luncheon, served in the Royal Pavilion, Prince Henry delivered a happy speech in response to the toast in his honour, proposed by Lord Emmott. Having stated that he counted it as a privilege and a very real pleasure to have been able to pay that visit, His Royal Highness proceeded:—

"I should like to thank you, Mr. Mayor, and all the people of Oldham for the very touching reception which I have received in the town—a reception on a par with that which has always been accorded to members of my Family by this loyal Borough.

"I hope to see more of the Show after lunch, but from what I have already seen I must congratulate Lord Emmott as a very able President, and all the Committee, on the results obtained, which even to the inexperienced eye are obviously of the very highest order.

"One naturally looks on Lancashire, with its tall chimneys, enormous population, and huge towns, as the great centre of industry, and one regards Oldham as the centre of that industry where cotton reigns supreme among vast other works. But we must remember that agriculture is our greatest industry which goes hand in hand with manufacturing, the two are interdependent, and each in each is vital to our national existence.

"As Lord Emmott has said, our national manufacturing industrics proved a determining factor during the Great War, which is now happily over, but we must not forget that agriculture played its part in feeding the country, assisted, it is true, by a stringent rationing order which, to quote a weekly paper, led to a marked decrease in the girth of a number of deserving British citizens.

"Lancashire has some of the finest land in England, which produces a greater yield per acre than any other county, and the needs of the manufacturing towns are to a large extent supplied by the rural districts.

"The County has produced many most eminent agriculturists, and the Royal Lancashire Agricultural Society is good proof of the interest attached to the subject, and of the good work of those who guide its destinies.

"As an example of what I said with regard to agriculture and industry being interdependent, I understand that in the particular instance of this Show, town and rural districts have taken their share in providing money and material respectively.

"We can draw a moral from this mutual support which, if applied in every sphere of life as it should be, and as I trust it will in the future, would do much to obviate the unrest which we have suffered from since the war, and enable us to reap the full benefits for which we have made so great sacrifices, and in which the men of Lancashire played so noble a part. When I speak of this my thoughts are naturally directed towards the ex-Service men whom I have seen this morning and I am confident that as they did not forget their country in its hour of need they will not be forgotten in the hour of prosperity which I trust is to come.

"Before I sit down I should like once more to congratulate all those whose able management has made such a success of this Show, and to wish the Royal Lancashire Agricultural Society the prosperous and successful future which I feel is already assured."

Preston Guild and the R.L.A.S.

"There is nothing that more divides civilized from semi-savage man than to be conscious of our forefathers as they really were, and bit by bit to reconstruct the mosaic of the long-forgotten past."—G. M. TREVELYAN.

The orbit of the Royal Lancashire Society's annual progress through the calendar—normally a curve-line showing little variation one twelvemonth after another—has this year swung quite out of its usual course in order to embrace the requirements of a Show held five weeks later than usual. This deflection is attributable to the appearance of a star of the first magnitude in the firmament of public events—one visible but once every 20 years—the Ancient Preston Guild Merchant Festival. Some brief notes explanatory of the origin of this periodic visitant and its association with the Royal Lancashire Agricultural Society may not be unacceptable.

In the first place it may be well to mention that the town of Preston has several unique claims to an outstanding antiquity, despite the absence from its streets to-day of any architectural vestiges of a remote past. Domesday Book, the great Land Register and Valuation List of William the Conqueror, makes reference to it, under the name of Prestune, as a former possession of the Saxon Earl Tostig, brother of Harold, the last of the English Kings. As a Borough, Preston is one of the earliest foundations in the County, dating back to at least as early as 1179 A.D., which would make the present year to be the 743rd of its corporate existence. It is maintained that Preston's Fairs—the best known of which is the August "Pot Fair"-are the oldest and largest in the United Kingdom, the Royal Charter under which the latter is held having been granted as early as 1199. Its Grammar School also is one of the earliest institutions of the kind in the County. And although the ancient prerogative of having a Guild Merchant is not by any means peculiar to Preston (Wigan, for example, was granted full Guild Merchant privileges in 1246), in no other Town has the exercise, even in a merely formal manner, of the rights thereby conferred been kept up to date. To realise exactly what the Guild stands for it is necessary to understand what these rights amounted to.

Going back in thought over 850 years, we find Preston owned by Count Roger of Poitou, who received from his relative— William the Conqueror—as reward for services rendered, the Hundred of Amounderness and the land between the Ribble and the Mersey. As is well known, overlords in feudal days possessed very comprehensive rights over the lives and actions of their dependents, both individually and communally, including control over their trading and market facilities. But these seigneurs were sufficiently alive to their own interests to see that more profit was likely to be gained by abating some of their claims, and making only moderate or fixed demands upon their subjects. They could also see the desirability of inducing those whom they governed and taxed to reside in recognised centres rather than have them scattered thinly over a wide area, especially when it came to the matter of levying feudal dues. It therefore became their custom to confer upon a town various rights and privileges, and to have these set forth in a written document which narrated not only the liberties granted, but the ordinances to be observed by the burgesses for the good government of their town. Whether Roger's Charter did or did not contain a clause entitling the burgesses of Preston to have a Guild Merchant, is uncertain, as unfortunately the document in question has not survived. amongst the town's archives preserved to-day, the most highly treasured is a document known as the Custumal of Preston, which, although drawn up at least a century later than Roger's Charter, is undoubtedly based on the latter and contains as the very first of its clauses enumerating the liberties of Preston in Amounderness, the following:—

"That they may have a Gild Merchant with *hanse and other customs and liberties belonging to that gild," whilst in the second clause is set forth, without any attempt at camouflage, the crux of the whole matter, viz.:—

"That no one who does not belong to that Gild shall do any trade in the aforesaid town except with the consent of the Burgesses."

The sanction of the Sovereign was a necessary preliminary to the setting-up of a Guild, and in Henry II.'s reign several guilds were subjected to heavy fines for having been established without that authority.

The term Guild naturally recalls to mind the Craft Guilds which played such a prominent part in the industrial life of the Middle Ages, fostering the Arts and Industries, supervising apprenticeship, and zealously looking after the interests of particular Crafts. Or again, one thinks of the wealthy Livery Companies of the City of London, who still have a voice in the election of the Lord Mayor. These Craft Guilds were, however, quite distinct from Guilds ^{*}Hanse was the right to exact money requisitions from the brethren of the Gild as well as from non-gildsmen living in the town.—H. W. CLEMESHA, "History of Preston in Amounderness."

Merchant, and, indeed, in most towns except Preston they competed with and eventually drove the Guilds Merchant out of exist-The function of the Craft Guilds was much less comprehensive than that of the Guilds Merchant. The former simply existed for the benefit of particular trades the Guilds Merchant regulated all the trading activities of the boroughs to which they were granted; in fact, so inclusive was their scope that some writers have seen in them the germ of the modern Town Council or Municipal Corporation, although this view is not generally taken by more recent authorities on the subject. In most instances where the privilege of Guild Merchant was granted, a special body known as the Merchant Guild was formed to administer the powers con-But, as Mr. H. W. Clemesha, M.A., points out in his invaluable "History of Preston in Amounderness," the interesting fact about the Preston Guild Merchant is that there appears to be no record of such a body having existed. "There is no trace," he says, "of any distinct entity known as a Gild Merchant, and the institution in Preston seems to have been, not an organization or a semi-corporate body, but a festival or a celebration held periodically for the purpose of making money by taking various sums from those persons who lived or wished to live in the town and to acquire certain rights and privileges therein. There is a recurring solemnization called a Gild Merchant, but we can find no evidence of the separate existence of any association or fraternity such as we meet with in Lancaster and other towns."

The money receipts referred to consisted of the fees payable to the Guild Court by those admitted to membership of the Guild "Those whose names appeared in the rolls of previous Merchant. Gilds were entitled to be admitted on payment of 7d., as also were their sons. On the other hand those who were admitted for the first time at the Gild paid sums varying generally from 3 to 40 shillings, according to the probability of their coming to reside in the town and infringing that jealously guarded monopoly, the trade of the borough." In some cases, the performance of certain duties for the benefit of the town was accepted in lieu of cash payment, such as "ringing the daie bell and couv' le feu (curfew), and making all the seats in the churche for the townes men both against the Sabath daies and festivall daies sweet and cleane,' and to another for the services he had rendered in the "bakinge of breade and brewinge of beare."

It was with the revenues derived from this source that the town was enabled to pay for many of the 15 or 16 charters that it induced successive sovereigns to grant to it. The Charter of 1179, for example, granted by Henry I., to receive which the men of the town had to send representatives to Winchester, was paid for by a sum of 100 marks.

It will thus be seen that the granting of the right to have a Guild Merchant practically conferred a trading monopoly. No one could carry on any trade or keep a shop for merchandise within the jurisdiction of the borough unless he had been admitted to the Guild and his name added to the Roll. This exclusive prerogative has, of course, been abolished in modern times as being contrary to public policy, but we need go no further back than 1772 to find an instance of the prosecution and expulsion of a printer (father of Edward Baines, the historian of Lancashire) for having "struck into and engaged himself in the various trades or employments of printer, bookseller, stationer, dealer in china ware, and divers other branches of trade within the town, in an open shop and public manner," without being free, an act described by the Town Clerk of the day as "a wilful and resolute attempt" for which he could find no precedent!

Besides this trading monopoly, there was also vested solely in the Members of the Guild Merchant the power of electing the Parliamentary representatives for the Borough. Up to 1768 none of the inhabitants who were not Guild Burgesses had the Parliamentary vote. It required a petition to the House of Commons to establish the franchise on a wider basis, and even at subsequent elections in 1780 and 1784 petitions were presented (unsuccessfully, however) with the object of securing a reversal of this decision.

The first Guild Merchant Celebration of which any account has come down to us was the one held on Monday, the 27th June, 1328, in the reign of King Edward III, Aubrey, the son of Robert, being Mayor. But that this was not actually the first occasion is evident from a reference in the Orders then drawn up to "the time of our last Guild Merchant." At this Court it was declared lawful to the mayor, bailiffs, and burgesses to "set a Guild Merchant at every XX year end or ever, if they have need to confirm charters or (to relieve) other distress that belongs to our franchise." A code of rules and regulations was agreed upon, together with a list of market tolls and a scale of fines. It was also ordained that the fees paid at the Guild (for enrolments, &c.) were not to be the private perquisite of the Mayor or other officer, but were "to go whole to the Mayor at the renewing of the Guild for the retreshing of the town," the object being the preservation of the Guild, and consequently of the Royal Charter, by a regular purging of the Roll, and admission of new burgesses. The earliest Guild Roll extant is that of 1397.

In spite of the order of 1328, there was no regular celebration at 20 years' interval until after the 1542 Guild, in the reign of Henry VIII, since when no break has occurred in this observance. The forthcoming occasion will be the 25th recorded Festival, though, if authorities are correct in believing that two or three Guilds were held between 1179 and 1328 it would make this year's Celebration rank as the 29th or 30th.

The duration of the Guild Festivities was fertnerly a much longer period than the week which, on the last occasion as on the forthcoming one, is the allotted span. The 1882 Guild lasted

The 1682 celebration was kept up for about six weeks. Of this Guild there exists a remarkably full and graphic description written by a native eye-witness-Dr. Richard Kuerden. It is unfortunately far too long to quote in these pages, but may be found reproduced in most reviews of the Guild. Dr. Kuerden gives us some interesting glimpses of municipal hospitality during the latter half of the seventeenth century. It was, he tells us, the duty of the Mayor to provide fitting persons "for preparing and procuring all things to be in readiness against the Guild, as fat beef, veal, mutton, pullen (poultry), and venison"; also "a sumptuous spacious mansion to be in readiness with all fitting offices necessary for such a grand solemnity, with cellarages for beer, ale and wine, in due time to be lodged in; wine and sack the best that can be procured; likewise the best malt that can be had, and the most expert brewer to be appointed to brew the same, and see it lodged in the cellar at the Guild Hall, being first approved of its kind to be excellent good." The intention to hold the Guild was proclaimed for three market days at the High Cross, and when the great opening day came the Mayor, Aldermen and Councillors, together with the trades, went in procession to church, headed by "drums beating, music of all sorts playing."

After service there was a procession to Church-gate-bars, where speeches were made, a barrel of "nappy" ale broached and the usual loyal toasts drunk, each health being honoured by a volley from the musketeers. What remained of the barrel was left for the "country people," and the procession then proceeded first to Fishergate-bars, and then to Friargate-bars. toasting and speechifying followed, and then the Mayor and his honourable retinue returned to the Guild Hall, to hang out the King's flag and the Borough flag with the Holy Lamb, the trades drawing off for feasts at their respective houses, each company being supplied, in addition to their own provisions, with "a venison pasty, piping hot, and a great store of wine and sack, presented by Mr. Mayor." The Guild Hall guests dined to the accompaniment of music, played upon stringed instruments, and there was plenty of "mirth and good victuals," and "lastly, after a great variety of fruits and sweetmeats were sufficiently over, in comes the concluding dish of all, store of pipes and Spanish tobacco, drenched well with healths in Spanish wine."

THE GUILD SHOW OF 1862

Since 1862 it has been an accepted tradition that the Annual Show of the Royal Lancashire Agricultural Society should form an essential part of the Preston Guild programme. Had the North Lancashire Agricultural Society been founded five years sooner than it was, we might have been able to chronicle a still earlier relation between the Show and the Guild. As it was, 1847 was the year of formation of the Royal North Lancashire Society, which, after union with the Manchester and Liverpool Agricultural Society, became ever-tually the present County Society. In 1862 the Royal North Lancashire Show was held at Preston in connection with the Guild Celebration. It is noteworthy that the Guild Mayor of that year was Robert Townlev Parker, Esq, of Cuerden, grandfather of the present owner of Cuerden Hall (R. A. Tatton, Esq., D.L.), who occupies the Presidential Chair of the Society this year. An earlier representative of the family—Robert Parker, Esq., of Cuerden—was Guild Mayor in 1762, exactly a century before his grandson, the aforesaid Mr. Robert Townley Parker.

At the 1862 Guild the long and intimate connection of the House of Stanley with the ancient Borough of Preston was maintained by the presence with his family of the 14th Earl of Derby. K.G, thrice Prime Minister of England. His Lordship was President of the Society, and was escorted from the Mayor's town house in Starkie Street to the Show by a procession of Butchers in blue coats and canary vests. The Showground was on Penwortham Holme, adjoining the South bank of the Ribble. fortunately the weather was exceedingly wet, with disastrous results to the success of the Show. So heavy was the downpour that a temporary bridge, which the Society had built over the river to the Showground, was swept away by a flood during the The opening hour of the Show was 6 a.m., and at 4 p.m. was held the official dinner on the ground, to which, notwithstanding the drawbacks and discomforts of the weather, some 1,700 persons, it is recorded, sat down. The "Illustrated London News" of this date gives a large engraving of the scene inside the huge Marquee, with a title—" Under Canvas—and Umbrella!"—sufficiently indicative of the sad state of affairs at the function. Lord Derby, by his genial and cheerful observations, retrieved the occasion, and raised the spirits of the assembly to the level of his own. It was in the course of his lordship's speech at this gathering that he brought out his celebrated assertion that "muck is money." In the Cattle section of the Show, Shorthorns were the great feature, Colonel Townley's "Butterflies" being greatly distinguished. A trial of Implements, under the Society's auspices, was held in fields near Lea Gate on Guild Tuesday, the day before the Show opened.

In connection with the 1862 Guild Celebration the foundation stone of the New Town Hall was laid by the Mayor with Masonic honours. This building—whose beauty of detail is a source of never-ceasing pleasure to the discerning eye—was designed by Sir Gilbert Scott, grandfather of the architect of the new Liverpool Cathedral. The possession of such a building, and of its companion, the Harris Art Gallery and Library (the foundation stone of which was laid at the succeeding Guild), makes Preston the envy of most other towns of similar size in the country.

THE GUILD SHOW OF 1882

By the time the 1882 Guild came round the Society was carrying on its work under the title of the Royal Munchester, Liverpool and North Lancashire Agricultural Society, with Head-quarters in the Old Ropery, Liverpool. Lord Winmarleigh, of affectionately-revered memory, was President for the year; Mr. G. C. Hale, Chairman of Council; and Mr. Thos. Rigby, Secretary.

On this occasion Moor Park furnished the show site, as is the case to-day. The opening on Tuesday of the Guild week was unpropitious as regards weather, and in consequence the day's attendance was but a small one. The succeeding three days' weather was, however, all that could be desired, and the exhibition proved a great success. The entries of cattle, horses, and implements were splendid both in quality and quantity. Only once previously had the total gate and stand receipts (£3,367) been exceeded, and the same remark applied to the contribution made by the Local Committee (£1,207). The attendance is recorded as having been: -First day, 2,200 persons; second day, 23,000; third day, 1,800; and fourth day, 3,500. Prizes were awarded amounting to £2,832. The total receipts for the show year were £7255, and the total expenditure £6,982, leaving a surplus of £273. The balance in favour of the Society at the close of the year was £2,819.

At this celebration much disappointment was occasioned both to the Guild authorities and to the Society's members, as well as to the town generally, by the unfortunate illness of H.R.H. the Duke of Albany, who, with H.R.H. the Duchess, had expected to attend the festivities of the Guild and to honour the Society with their presence on the second day of the Show. The breach was happily filled by H.R.H. the Duke of Cambridge, who, accompanied by the Guild Mayor (Edmund Birley, Esq.), and party, having watched the Trades' procession from the Town Hall balconies during the Wednesday morning, proceeded about one o'clock to Moor Park. A detachment of the 5th Dragoon Guards escorted the Royal visitor, and at the show entrance the men of the North Lancashire Regiment formed a Guard of Honour.

At the annual meeting which terminated this Guild year's proceedings, the Society conferred its Honorary Life Vice-President Membership upon Lord Winmarleigh, "in grateful recognition of the honour long done to the Society, and the services rendered to the cause of Agriculture generally" by his lordship.

THE CUILD SHOW OF 1902

The first Guild year of the twentieth century found many changes in public ideas and outlook, in conditions of industry and methods of production, as compared with olden times. Queen Victoria's long reign, which embraced as many Preston Guild celebrations as that of any of her predecessors (viz., three), had come to an end, and King Edward VII. was on the throne. In view of the state of trade prevailing at the time of writing, it is significant to note that the Guilds of 1842 and 1862 were held in periods of great local industrial depression; and in 1902 trade conditions, just after the Boer War, were not as satisfactory as could have been wished On all three occasions, however, the popularity of the Celebrations was undiminished; all railway trains coming into the town were packed, and in 1862 it was estimated that 600,000 people were in Preston on Trades' procession day.

For the Society, too, the period was one of change and development. Its headquarters had, but the year before, been removed from Liverpool to Preston; its financial position, though sound, was relatively not a great advance upon what it had been in 1882; and only twice in the period between the two Guilds had the gate receipt total of 1882 been surpassed, Liverpool performing this feat in 1892 and 1899. Most of the great strokes of policy and the improved methods of administration which were to build up the Society's resources during the next dozen years were still to be evolved. The 1902 Guild Show was indeed the opening of a new era of prosperity and increased usefulness for the Society, which emerged from the year with cash reserves almost doubled, and the tradition of a magnificent and splendidly-managed show, Undoubtedly much of its success was attributable to the personal efforts of the late Lord Derby in his dual capacity as Guild Mayor and President of the Society. With that wonderful charm of manner which those privileged to come into contact with him will never forget, Lord Derby stimulated with happiest results the efforts of Local Committee and Society's Council, and by presiding over both assemblies blended the two most harmoniously. In his person Preston Guild had for the first time in its history a nobleman as Mayor. The close connection of his Lordship's family with the Guild's Merchant is shown by the fact that for nearly four centuries not a Guild has passed at which a Stanley has not been enrolled a member—ever since 1542, in fact, when Edward Stanley, third Earl of Derby, with his three sons, stood at the head of the list of Foreign or Out-Burgesses family record on the Guild Roll of 1902 stands in the names of Frederick Arthur, Earl of Derby, "Mayor of this Guild," and of seven sons and three grandsons.

The recent death of the Dowager Countess of Derby recalls to mind the gracious part which she played as Guild Mayoress. The Countess attended all the principal official functions with her husband, and took an active interest in the week's festivities. She was present at the opening and closing of the Guild Court, and on the last day when the Court was adjourned for 20 years, was accompanied by her sons. On the day of the last proclamation of the Guild the Countess presented to the borough the new beautifully-embroidered flag which is now carried in the civic processions, using these words: "I present this standard for the use of the town and as a memorial of this Preston Guild." The Earl and Countess took a house in Winckley Square during the Guild week, and her Ladyship gave a Ball to the juveniles on the Saturday night.

Lord Derby had the support as Vice-chairman of the Local Committee, of Mr. (now Sir) H. W. Worsley-Taylor, K.C., and the Rev. L. C. Wood, of Singleton. The Local Executive Committee was presided over by Alderman W. B. Roper, Deputy Mayor, with Mr. Windham E. Hale, as Vice-chairman. Colonel James Yates Foster and Mr. Thomas Fair were respectively Chairman and Vice-chairman of the Local Prize List Committee. The then Borough Treasurer (Mr. James Carter) was Local Hon. Treasurer, and the then Town Clerk (Mr. Henry Hamer) Local Hon. Secretary. The personnel of the Society included Mr. John White, of Warrington, who succeeded Mr. G. C. Hale as Chairman of the Council (on the latter's retirement in 1901), and who, at the Annual Meeting following the Guild Show, was elected an Hon. Life Vice-President; Mr. Philip Park, Hon. Director of the Showyard; and Mr. Edward Bohane (Secretary). The names of the late Mr Richard Webster and Mr. Thomas Nevett may also very appropriately be recalled as those of a Chairman and Vice-chairman of Showyard Committee who worked together with the greatest zeal and unanimity.

Three of the Representative Members of Council of those days still have their names entered as such on the Roll to-day, viz.:—Mr. Windham E. Hale, Mr. J. O. Platt, and Mr. George Mather; other three names are now to be found on the Hon. Vice-president Roll, viz.:—Mr. C. E. Linaker, Mr. R. J. Howard, and Mr. George Singleton; whilst Mr. W. Fitzherbert-Brockholes, Mr. J. W. Kenworthy, Mr. R. B. Neilson, and Mr. H. L. Storey were then, and still are, Vice-President Members of Council and Committees.

It was for the 1902 Guild Show that the present Main Public Entrance to the Society's Exhibitions was provided, a great improvement upon the one formerly in use, which was little more than an ornamental boarded front. The Garstang Road end of Moor Park was the principal boundary of the showground, and the new entrance was erected directly off this main road to the North, about half-way between Moor Park Avenue and the Serpentine Road. A pavilion put up by the Portable Building Company of Fleetwood for the use of Lord Derby and the Presidential party was subsequently purchased as a Secretarial Showyard residence. Another new feature of the equipment was the Working Dairy, which came earlier in the year from the Carlisle Showyard of the Royal Agricultural Society of England, who offered it for private sale on giving up, temporarily, their migratory Show system.

The Guild Show of 1902 will always stand out in the memories of those connected with it by reason of the very heavy wind storm which swept over the yard during the night of the first day of the Exhibition, and did considerable damage to the erections. The occasion was a most anxious one for the Stewards and Secretary who, in one instance had only just managed to get the stallions removed out of one of the sheds when the gale demolished the The grand stand roof was only saved by whole of its roofing. cutting the canvas-laces and allowing some of the sheets of stout sailcloth to be torn to ribands. The Poultry and Pigeon Shed roof was only kept intact by ropes thrown cross from the boundary hoarding, which the sheds adjoined, and a large portion of the birds exhibited were repacked in their hampers ready for emergencies. The shedding under which the Guild Textile Trades exhibit was housed in the showground caught the effects of the gale very badly. However, to make amends for all this, the weather cleared up in good time on the Wednesday morning, and soon the officials were confronted by a fresh cause for anxiety. The great Trades Processions from the town finished up close to the showground and immediately afterwards the crowds streamed across to Moor Park in such dense masses that the new entrance stiles could not cope with them. Several of them became jammed, and the barriers and also the large doors of the carriage entrance were forced, and only by most energetic action by the officials was the situation controlled.

The returns showed that nearly 20,000 people were passed through between 1-0 and 2-0 p.m. Of course, this figure included the small supplementary entrance at St. Paul's Road, which was also hard pressed.

AT THE FORTHCOMING GUILD SHOW

History, so eventful and cataclysmic as to transcend all secular happenings ever before recorded, has been made since the Preston Guild was last celebrated, and unfortunately, four intervening years have not sufficed to restore that well-ordered and confident state of trade and Public life which one would desire to see ushering in the 1922 Guild. However, many of the auguries for the success of the approaching event are singularly happy. The Guild Mayor and Mayoress (Alderman and Mrs. Astley-Bell) have already shown in innumerable ways their desire to carry out the best traditions of their high office, and His Worship has secured for the Local Fund in connection with the Society's visit a "send-off" which is particularly encouraging.

As the historic week approaches, expectation of great happenings increases. Everyone enters more and more into the spirit of its historic continuity and the significance of this celebration of ancient custom, not for Proud Preston only, but for Lancashire, and indeed the whole country. From remote corners of Great Britain, and from many a land overseas, old Prestonians will come for temporary reunion with the townsmen on this famous occasion. Inquiries constantly received at the Town Hall indicate that interest in the forthcoming event is as widespread and as deep as ever. Writing from St. Lawrence, Mass., one correspondent, after asserting there are so many Prestonians in that place nowadays that anyone would think he was actually in Preston, goes on to say—"Wherever you meet one now, the first question is 'Art' a goin' to Preston Guild?"

The programme of the week's ceremonies and festivities so far as it has been drafted, is full of well-sustained interest, and every endeavour is being made, whilst preserving the historic values of the various items, to bring them into line with modern ideas of spectacular attractiveness. And the County Society, as the provider of one of the principal features of the Celebration, is sparing no effort to present an exposition worthy of its setting. It will display to the visitor from overseas what the Fylde can produce in the way of splendid stock, whilst bringing to the notice of the local breeder the finest specimens from other parts of the country. And by no means its least useful function will be to act as a reminder, amidst so much pageantry concerned with trade and the activities of the merchant and the manufacturer, that Agriculture is the most ancient of all callings, and the foundation on which all others are built up.

In Memoriam

THE LATE SIR HARCOURT E. CLARE.

A great personality, a gentleman of national worth, has been removed from the Society's list of Vice-Presidents by the death of Sir Harcourt E Clare. It is doubtful whether the chair, rendered vacant by his demise, can ever be occupied with a figure so conspicuously dignified and sagacious. The Royal Lancashire Agricultural Society is but one of a hundred great public organisations that mourn his death. It was said of him while he was administrative chief of Liverpool that he was the ablest Town Clerk the City ever had.

As Clerk to the County Council, one of his first achievements was to save the ratepayers £11,000 annually, by a re-arrangement of the finances. Few men could have carried as large a share of administrative responsibility as he did. He was in fact the born administrator.

He had a marked capacity for instantaneously grasping the essentials from a labyrinth of detail. He trusted his subordinates, but he chose them carefully. He had an easy courtesy of manner and the Lloyd Georgian ability of compromise. He was the ideal premier of the regional Parliament of Lancashire.

His wife predeceased him by several years, but he leaves a daughter, to whom the heartfelt sympathy of the Society is extended.

THE LATE MR. THOS. A. CROOK, J.P.

The hand of death has claimed a further toll from the Society. We refer to the demise of Mr. Thos. A. Crook, J.P., of Inskip, who was one of the best known farmers in the Fylde. His was a quiet and retiring disposition. His speech was brief, but always apt, and invariably carried weight with his confrères on the Council of the Society. He had been a Life Member of the Royal Lancashire since 1894, and a Member of the Council since 1908. His knowledge of all branches of agriculture proved most valuable, and assisted in no small degree towards placing the Society in its present position.

Mr. Crook was a Shire enthusiast—few men knew more about the breed—and he officiated as judge in all parts of the country. He owned that famous stallion "Crossmoor Carbon," which sired "Belle Cole," the London Champion. He also took a share in public affairs, and was for many years on the Garstang Board of Guardians and Rural District Council. He had regularly attended to his magisterial duties, dispensing justice tempered with elemency.

His life was punctuated with unobtrusive acts of charity which made him beloved in his own district. His kindly disposition endeared him to all agriculturists. A kindly heart and a wise head have been lost to us, and for those reasons we unite with his bereaved family in their sorrowing.

THE LATE MR. RIGHARD THORNTON.

An additional loss to the Society has occurred by the death of Mr. Richard Thornton, of New House Farm, Winmarleigh, who was better known to us as "Dick Thornton." He was a bluff and genial yeoman, whom we love to remember as a typical Englishman with the John Bull virtues and none of the John Bull vices. He was open-handed, straight in a deal and direct in his speech.

His greatest hobby was the breeding of poultry, and he took high honours at most of the leading shows. His services as a judge, especially of game fowls, were always in demand, but he also recognised a good horse.

He was in fact an encyclopædia of agricultural information, which he used for the benefit of the Royal Lancashire whenever called upon. Like Mr. Crook he shouldered public work, and served on the Garstang Board of Guardians and Rural District Council, occupying the position of Chairman to the latter authority during the years 1918–19. He became a Member of the Society's Council in 1904.

Dick Thornton added more than most people to the joy of life. He was an antidote to pessimism, and a rare stimulant when times were bad. Dick's cheertulness will be greatly missed, especially at the County Shows, where his laughter has been heard so frequently in bygone days Just prior to his death, when the writer visited him at the Garstang Road Nursing Home, Preston, he was full of cheeriness, and spoke with eager anticipation to the coming of the Guild Show. We join his relatives in mourning his loss, and silently and gratefully recall the pleasures he inspired.

AWARD OF PRIZES

MADE IN THE SHOW YARD, OLDHAM.

July 27th, 28th, 29th, and 30th, 1921.

NEW IMPLEMENTS.

JUDGES:

Mr. THOMAS SMITH, J.P., C.C., Old Brook Hall, Bold, near Widnes. Mr. JOHN WHITTAKER, Kirkless Hall, Wigan.

REPORT AND AWARDS.

"We beg to report that the entry in the New Implement Classes was very satisfactory, viz.:—14 entries of Single New Implements, and three Collections of Implements.

"After making very careful inspection, we were unanimous in the following awards:-

Class A.—Best Collection of New Implements for Agricultural and Estate Work. Society's Gold Medal to Messrs. Harrison, McGregor & Co., Ltd.

Class B.—Best Single New Implement for Agricultural or Estate Work.

Society's Silver Medal to Messrs. H. Smethurst & Son.

Society's Silver Medal to Messrs. Bates & Scholes. Society's Silver Medal to Messrs. Whitehead & Furness, Ltd.

"Our attention was called to the Collection of New Implements on the Stand of Messrs. Baxendale & Co., Ltd., which, unfortunately, had not been entered by them for competition. While this circumstance, of course, precluded us from bringing them into the award list, we felt that the excellence of their exhibit was of so high an order that a letter of commendation might very appropriately be sent to them by the Society's Secretary.
"The keenest interest was shown by Exhibitors throughout the Implement Section, which was a great improvement on recent years.

"We think it would be advisable if, next year, the classes for New Implements could be decided upon at an earlier date, so that particulars might be included in the Implement Schedule. In this connection we ventured to recommend that separate classes be provided (A)-for New Implements exhibited by actual makers; and (B)—for those put in for competition by standholders who are only agents for the manufacturers. A distinct class for Poultry Appliances is also very desirable in view of the large number of such which have been entered."

The following report was presented by the Special Sub-Committee appointed to consider the question of taking steps to prevent the improper use of badges and tickets in various sections of the Society's Annual Shows:—

The Committee met on Monday, February 28th, 1921, at 11-45 a.m.

PRESENT:—Mr. Windham E. Hale (in the Chair), Messrs. Edmund Berry, J. W. Kenworthy, and A. S. Robson.

Careful consideration was given to a number of suggestions brought forward by the Senior Steward of the Grand Stand (Mr. A. S. Robson), and the following were unanimously approved for recommendation to the Council, Mr. Robson being thanked for the trouble he had gone to in drawing them up:—

MEMBERS' BADGES AND TICKETS.

- (1) Members' Badges not to be issued to those Members who are taking an official position on the Show Yard, viz., Members of Council, Judges, and Stewards, whose official badges give them the necessary admission.
- (2) Members' Badges to be in two distinct colours, viz., one colour for Gentleman Members, and one for Lady Members, both sides of the Badge to be the same colour in each case.

(3) The second full Season Ticket, issued to Members, to have a space provided for the name of the person to whom the Member decides to make over this ticket, as well as the usual space for the signature of the person receiving same from the Member.

If necessary this ticket might be challenged at the Public Entrance, and the holder invited to inscribe his or her name in a book provided.

(4) A Commissionaire, with special instructions, would be advantageous at the Members' Entrance.

PREVIOUS ARRANGEMENT.

Each Local Subscriber of not less than One Guinea received from the Society, per the Local Hon. Secretary, a Badge, similar in every way to the Member's Badge (except in being of a different colour), and conferring the same admission privileges.

SUGGESTED AMENDMENT FOR THE FUTURE.

- (5) (A) Local subscribers not to receive a Badge, but to have in lieu thereof a Season Ticket to the Show, Stand, &c. (same as the Member's Second Ticket).
 - (B) Season Tickets issued to Members and Local Subscribers to have on the back a space for the name of the person to whom issued, as well as a space for his or her signature.

(c) Tickets and signatures to be scrutinised and checked at the Public Entrance.

GRAND STAND RESERVED SEATS.

PREVIOUS ARRANGEMENT.

A number of plush tip-up Chairs, numbered, have been reserved in the centre portion of the Grand Stand. At Bolton 144 chairs were reserved.

AMENDMENT SUGGESTED FOR THE FUTURE (on the assumption that there will not be a Royal Visit) :-

(6) To discontinue entirely the reserving of seats.

N.B.—To still reserve, however, a portion of the Stand for the President's Box, and another portion for Vice-Presidents and Council only.

COUNCIL PAVILION.

- (7) The Council Pavilion to be used exclusively (on the First Day at all events) until 1-30 by Judges and Working Stewards.
- (8) No person to be admitted into the Council Pavilion unless accompanied and vouched for by a wearer of the Society's Enamel Badge or a Steward's Badge.
- (9) In every case a separate voucher must be handed in for each meal partaken of in the Pavilion, and notice to this effect to be printed on the books of vouchers and individual tickets.
- (10) More rigid instructions to be given to, and carried into operation, by Commissionaires at the entrances leading from the Main Avenue to the Council Pavilion, and the County Club Enclosures.

After carefully considering the report, paragraph by paragraph, it was unanimously approved and adopted on the motion of Mr. Hale, seconded by Mr. Robson.

REPORT RE ENTERTAINMENTS TAX. The Secretary reported that a small deputation representing the R.A.S.E., the R.L.A.S., and other leading Agricultural Societies had waited upon the Chancellor of the Exchequer during Shire Horse Show week, and had urged that all Agricultural Shows should be free from liability to pay Entertainments Tax irrespective of whether extraneous attractions are included or not. Unfortunately the Chancellor had not seen his way to make any alteration from the present ruling. Mr. Kenworthy stated that at the request of the Mayor of Oldham he was arranging to discuss the question of Entertainments Tax with the Local Customs and Excise official, in the hope that it might be possible to come to some more reasonable arrangement than that which obtained as the matter stood.

Unanimously resolved: "That in the opinion of this Council it is inadvisable to take any step that will render the Society liable to payment of Entertainment Tax."

Smethurst, and Mr. Alfred Smetham (Society's Analytical Chemist).

COUNCIL'S REPORT AND BALANCE SHEET.

Mr. Windham E. Hale presented the Annual Report and Balance Sheet, and said the Report contained one or two items on which they could congratulate themselves. One was that the Society had this year made a profit, and the future was bright if the County continued to support them as they had done during the past year. The Report recorded that 518 Annual Members had been elected, and they had only lost 152 from one cause and another. The success of the Society, however, was largely owing to those not connected with Agriculture. The magnificent subscription list at Oldham, where Agriculture is perhaps less known than anywhere else in the country, showed how the towns appreciated the fact that their interests and Agriculture were identical, and he thought it was only right the agriculturists of Lancashire should realise the same fact and support the Society in the way that the towns had done

The large majority of the Members were in no way connected with Agriculture, and although they might congratulate themselves on a large increase of membership, he must again impress on the farmers of Lancashire that the Show was primarily in the interests of Agriculture, and if it was to do the work it ought to do it should be supported by those who made their living in the industry. (Hear, hear). The financial statement, which was very satisfactory, showed a balance as a result of the year's working of £2,006. This was largely due to the very great interest Oldham took in the Show, and he hoped it would be a great incentive to the towns they would visit in future "to go one better." (Hear, hear).

Mr. R. B. Neilson seconded the motion, and the Report and Financial Statement were unanimously adopted.

DATES FOR THE PRESTON GUILD SHOW.

On the motion of Mr. Richard Harrison, seconded by Mr. Richard Hall, it was decided that the Show at Preston should be held on the dates recommended by the Council, namely September 6th, 7th, 8th, and 9th, in Preston Guild week.

ELECTION OF PRESIDENT FOR THE ENSUING YEAR.

Mr. Edmund Berry proposed that Mr. R. A Tatton, D.L., Cuerden Hall, be elected President for the year Mr. Tatton was held in high regard and was ever ready to do what he could for the welfare of Agriculture and other movements in the district in which he lived.

Mr. E. G. Howsin, in seconding, said the Society was making an excellent choice.—The resolution was unanimously carried.

APPROXIMATE SUM TO BE EXPENDED ON PRIZES.

The Meeting deputed the Showyard and Prize List Committee to fix the approximate sum to be offered in prizes and revise the rules and prize list for the Preston Guild show.

Mr. John Whittaker announced that the Stewards of the various Live Stock sections were already considering ways and means for increasing the strength and interest of the Stock classes.

Mr. Richard Harrison ventured the opinion that one important reason why more farmers did not take a practical interest in the Society's work was that the farmers' classes were limited to the last day of the Show, which was Saturday. Comparatively few agriculturists attended on that day, and he would suggest that the Showyard and Prize List Committee should take into consideration the advisability of appointing some other day for judging the farmers' section.—The Meeting agreed that the Committee should take this point into consideration.

VOTES OF THANKS.

Alderman Robert Parkinson moved a resolution of thanks to the Retiring President, Lord Emmott, of whose services on the occasion of the Society's visit to Oldham they could not speak too highly.—The resolution was seconded by Mr. E. A. Walker, and unanimously carried.

Mr. S. H. Renshaw moved a hearty vote of thanks to the Oldham Committee and Honorary Officials for the splendid services rendered in connection with the Oldham Show, the highly satisfactory result of which represented very hard work on their part. Their achievement in spite of the great slump in the cotton trade made one wonder what the result would have been if the times had been normal.

The resolution was seconded by Mr. Robson and unanimously carried.

ELECTION OF MEMBERS OF COUNCIL.

Voting took place for the election of Members of the Council in the Northern Division, where there were six candidates for five seats. Messrs. John Blundell, Scotforth; Gerald Garnett, Wyreside; Richard Hall, Morecambe (retiring members); Thomas Stuart, New Hall, Sowerby; and Ernest Threlfall, Lancaster, were elected, Messrs. Stuart and Threlfall filling vacancies caused by the death of Mr. Richard Thornton, Winmarleigh, and the retirement after many years' service of Mr. George Singleton, Howick House, whom the Council has honoured by electing as an Hon. Life Vice-President.

In the Eastern and Western Divisions there was no contest, the returing Members being re-elected with the exception that Mr. John Winder, Bolton, took the place of Alderman R. Parkinson, now an Honorary Life Vice-President.

ELECTION OF OFFICIALS.

NEW HON. LIFE VICE-PRESIDENTS.

On behalf of the Council, Mr. Hibbert presented to Alderman R. Parkinson (Mayor of Bolton) and Col. George Hesketh, D.L., V.D., engrossed and framed Resolutions conferring upon them the Hon. Vice-President Life Membership of the Society. These handsome mementoes were framed in solver, and the resolutions recorded "appreciation of the eminent services" rendered by Alderman Parkinson as Mayor of the Borough, and by Col. Hesketh as Hon. Local Treasurer, in connection with the visit to Bolton.

Alderman Parkinson, in reply, said he was conscious of the great honour the Society had conferred, and thought he had been given a great deal more credit than he deserved. As Chairman of the Local Committee he felt that with Mr. Parker, the Town Clerk, as Secretary, and Col. Hesketh, as Treasurer, success was assured from the outset. Having made up their minds to collect at least £5,000, they were quite satisfied when they had topped that sum, and were more delighted still to find that Oldham, not to be outdone, had improved on that effort. They hoped this rivalry would continue, not only for the benefit of the Show, but in the interests of agriculture and trade generally.

Col. Hesketh said it was his privilege to serve the Society in a similar capacity on a previous visit to Bolton some years ago, and he then received from the Council a very interesting souvenir of his services. At Bolton he expressed the wish that, having raised a considerable sum, Oldham would emulate that example, and he was delighted to know that Oldham had taken up that challenge in a friendly manner and set up a new record in the matter of local subscriptions. His hope was that Preston would do the same. (Hear, hear.)

The business concluded with a vote of thanks, moved by Dr. Milburn and seconded by Mr. Windham Hale, to Mr. Percy Hibbert for his services in the chair.

REPORT OF THE COUNCIL OF THE SOCIETY

To the Annual Meeting of Members, 1921.

Your Council, in presenting their usual Report to the members, do so with the utmost satisfaction, and have the pleasure to announce a profit on the year's working. They feel that the high traditions of the Society are being maintained, and that the popularity of the Annual Show does not diminish in any way.

After a lapse of 56 years your Council decided to again visit Oldham, and have no reason to regret their choice. The people of Oldham accorded the Society a magnificent welcome, and despite a long period of labour troubles and trade depression, a record sum of £5,783 12s. 2d. was raised by the Local Committee. Local expenses were reduced to a minimum, and the actual sum received by the Society was £5,505 0s. 8d.

To a great degree this wonderful result was due to the special efforts of the Chairman of the Local Committee, His Worship the Mayor of Oldham (Mr. Councillor Wm. Lees), his Vice-Chairman, Mr. Alderman Hardman, and Mr. Joseph J. Williams, the Local Hon. Secretary, who had the strong support of a large and enthusiastic body of gentlemen from the town and district who formed the Local Committee, and spared no effort to make the visit a conspicuous success.

Special mention should be made of the services of Mr. Alderman Houghton, the Mayor-Elect of the Borough, who acted as Chairman of the Local Showyard Committee, and worked with untiring energy and zeal.

Great praise is also due to the various Corporate officials who left no stone unturned to make their departmental work in connection with the Show most successful in every way.

The Show was honoured by a visit on the opening day of H.R.H. Prince Henry, who was accompanied by the Earl and Countess of Ellesmere, and the Earl and Countess of Dalkeith. H.R.H. expressed much satisfaction with everything he saw, and in addition to presenting the Champion Challenge Cups to the various winners, he paid special visits to the Lancashire County Council Stand, the Working Dairy, the Horticultural Section, the Ministry of Labour, and the Stand of St. Dunstan's Hospital.

The site occupied by the Show covered approximately 36 acres, and was loaned to the Society by the Corporation who are the owners of the same. The Corporation also most generously carried out all the drainage and sanitary arrangements, and laid on Water, Gas, and Electricity free of charge, and undertook the Policing of the ground for some time prior to the opening and following the close of the Show.

The position of President for the year was occupied by the Right Hon. Lord Emmott, who took a keen personal interest in the Show, being present each day, and also presiding at the supper and entertainment to the Herdsmen. His Lordship also presented the prizes which he had generously provided.

butions to the Oldham Show :-

The Right Hon. Lord Leverhulme (Breeders' Challenge Cup for Pedigree Dairy Shorthorns); Mr. Charles Clark, Manchester (Challenge Cup for 1922, &c., Harness Horse Section); Captain H. P. Hamilton (Challenge Cup for Gloucester Old Spots Pigs); Mr. John Taylor, Oldham (£12 prizes for Lancashire Farmers' Brood Mares); Mr. Alfred Smetham, F.I.C. (£10 10s. towards prizes for Lancashire Cheese); The Oldham Master Cotton Spinners' Association; Oldham and District Chamber of Trade; Oldham and District Farmers' Protection Association; Mr. John Hulbert, Middleton; and Mr. A. T. Clarke, Oldham (Silver Cups for Local Competition); Mr. John Hulbert, Middleton (Challenge Cup for 1922, Horse Section); Mr. T. E. Clarke, Silverdale (£2 2s. for Wensleydale lanibs); the Lancashire County Milk Recording Society; and numerous Breed Associations, &c.

Special thanks of the Council are also due to Messrs. Kendal, Milne and Co. (Harrods, Ltd.), Deansgate, Manchester, for so generously furnishing and decorating the Royal Pavilion free of cost.

The apartments were greatly admired by all who were privileged to see them.

The Council also desire to thank the Lancashire County Council for their kindness in again providing Cream, &c., for the competitions, for the excellent arrangements for the Working Dairy, and for their generous grant of £25 towards the expenses of the same.

The Dog Section was again revived after an interval of six years, and proved a conspicuous success. The entries were very numerous, and nearly 9,000 persons paid for admission to the Section, which, owing to the incidence of the Entertainments Tax, was separated from the Main Exhibition, a nominal entry charge of 6d. (including Tax) being made. Your Council are pleased to announce that by the terms of the Finance Act, 1921, Dog Sections may in future form part of the Main Exhibition without incurring any liability for Entertainments Tax.

At a Special Meeting of Members held on the Show Yard, Oldham, on the third day of the Show, an influential deputation from Preston, headed by His Worship the Mayor (Mr. Alderman Thos. Parkinson), attended, and offered a very cordial invitation to hold the Show in that Borough during the Guild (first full week in September), 1922, and such invitation was unanimously and enthusiastically accepted. The Show will again be held on Moor Park, which has many natural advantages, and is easily accessible.

Your Council and Committees are already giving careful consideration to the drawing up of a Prize List which shall be worthy of the forthcoming special occasion. They hope not only to be able to reduce the Entrance Fees for Exhibitors, but also to increase the already large amount of Prize Money.

It is again the melancholy duty of the Council to have to record the removal by death of several of its most valued friends and supporters,

Sir John O. S. Thursby, Bart. (a Past President and Hon. Life Vice-President); Miss Adelaide Watt (Vice-President); Messrs. Richard Ainscough; James Hough; and Richard Thornton (Representative Members of the Council); Sir William Scott Barrett; and Messrs. M. Birkett, Burnley; Lawrence Cotton, Blackburn; C. W. Kellock; Geo. Holden, Alston; Robert Mason, Kirkby-in-Furness; and J. G. Wright, Halton Park.

The Membership Roll now stands at a total of 2,558. Ten Vice-Presidents, six Life Members, and 518 Annual Members have been added during the past year, and 152 Members have been lost through death, resignation, and lapsing.

Your Council trust that Members will do all in their power to increase the Roll of Members by persuading others to join the Society.

A RETROSPECT

By ALFRED SMETHAM, F.I.C., F.C.S. (The Society's Consulting Analytical Chemist)

A LTHOUGH agriculture has been practised from the earliest dawn of civilisation upon the earth, and although through the Ages avast amount of practical knowledge had been accumulated, not only in this country, but the world over, the knowledge and experience gained was for the most part empiric and lacked, until the early decades of the last century, any scientific basis on which a rational system of practice could be coupled with a sound theory of the diverse processes involved in all the operations on the farm.

When it is remembered that it was not until the year 1774, seven years after the inception of what is now the Royal Lancashire Agricultural Society, that Phestly discovered oxygen, and four years later that Lavoisier showed the importance of oxygen as the keystone of all chemical combinations, it is not to be wondered at that rule of thumb and general observation and experience were the only means of attaining proficiency in the art of Agriculture.

It is true that bones and other fertilisers have been used in small quantities with beneficial effects, but it was not known in what way they acted. As late as 1851 Liebig, that pioneer in agricultural science, alleges in his "Letters on Chemistry" that the fertilising value of bones is due solely to the phosphate of lime contained in them, and he combats with vigour the early conclusions of Lawes that ammonia and nitrogen salts are of value as a manure to cereal and other crops.

Time with its relentless accumulation of facts has disproved his theories in this respect, but notwithstanding this agriculture owes much to him for the impetus which he gave to agricultural science by his investigations and by the concrete forms in which he expressed his theories, and thus indicated the course that future agricultural investigation had to take.

But, more than that, as the result of pure scientific investigation Liebig showed, in an address before the British Association, at Bristol in 1836, that by treatment of phosphate of lime with sulphuric acid, the phosphate could be rendered soluble in water and its immediate effect as a fertiliser in the soil secured. This discovery has led to the establishment of the chemical manure industry, which has proved of so much value to modern farming.

The existence of so many Marl pits in the district covered by this Society is a lasting reminder of the state of exhaustion ot much of the land before the remedial effects of artificial manures and the importation of concentrated feeding stuffs had made themselves felt.

Peruvian Guano, the dried excrement of sea birds, which had accumulated through centuries in a practically rainless district, was first imported into England in 1839. The earlier importations were very rich in nitrogen compounds and phosphates—partly in a soluble form—and the magical effect of these when applied to the partially exhausted soils of Great Britain immediately spread the fame of guano throughout the length and breadth of the land. The popularity of this manure prepared the way for the acceptance of other forms of artificial manure by the farming community, and undoubtedly helped materially in the establishment of the artificial manure industry which, as indicated above, had its use about this time.

In the first instance, Mr. Procter, of Bristol, as the result of communications with Boussingault and Liebig in 1837 or 1838, conceived the idea of manufacturing on a commercial scale superphosphate of lime, in contradistinction to dissolved bones, which contained the nitrogen as well as the phosphate. This he did by the use of spent charcoal, the residue from bones after use in sugar refining.

The step from bones and spent charcoal to the fossil forms of phosphate known as Coprolites, and found in Cambridgeshire and other parts of England, as the base for superphosphate manufacture is not, from a chemical point of view, great; but it was just one of those brilliant ideas which set Mr. J. B. Lawes, as he then was, thinking and experimenting, and finally manufacturing superphosphate from mineral phosphate.

As far back as 1834 Lawes commenced experiments with manures on a small scale in pots; but it was not until 1843, when he was joined by Dr. J. H. Gilbert, who took charge of the Chemical Laboratory, that systematic field experiments were commenced.

These experiments, which have been carried on uninterruptedly since their commencement, have made Rothamsted the Mecca of the Agricultural world, and rendered the names of Lawes and Gilbert immortal.

A very great deal of the value of these experiments consists in their continuity, which could only have been possible by an initial clear conception of the aims of the Research.

That so much has been achieved is a lasting monument to the foresight of the two men who conceived the experiments, and who through lives of longer span than is vouchsafed to most men, carried on their experiments and investigations with a pertinacity which age could not impair. Practically dying "in harness," these two "grand old men," Sir J. B. Lawes, Bart., and Sir J. H. Gilbert, as they afterwards became, stand out as examples of what pluck and enthusiasm can do in furthering the research on which their hearts were bent.

The details of the Rothamsted experiments and the results achieved is an oft-told tale. What, perhaps, has struck the public imagination most is the fact that wheat has been grown since 1844 on the same plot without any manures, artificial or natural, and that the diminution of the yield during this long period is relatively small, taking the average of years. To the scientific agriculturalist the recorded results of the experiments are a never ending source of inspiration, while the unpublished results which require collating and the innumerable possibilities of fresh developments in the further investigation of the stored-up and carefully classified samples, which have been collected during the course of the experiments, keep him in a state of anxious expectation.

In thus referring to the Rothamsted experiments at some length it has not been my endeavour to discuss the results, practical or otherwise; but simply to indicate that with the advent of Lawes upon the scene agriculture was placed upon a scientific basis, and with the continuation of these experiments, and many other experiments which have followed in their train at home and abroad, steady developments have been made.

It may here, perhaps, be noted that in addition to the time devoted and all the money expended during a long, active, and intellectual life in the development of agricultural science, Sir John Lawes, some years before his death, bequeathed a sum of $\mathfrak{f}100,000$ in trust to carry on the Rothamsted experiments in perpetuity, and this has enabled the trustees, with the aid of other sources of income, to carry on the good work and maintain the pre-eminent position of Rothamsted as an Agricultural Experimental Station.

If at this point I put in a few words of appreciation of Sir John Lawes and of his wonderful intellectual gifts and prescience in the matter of agricultural investigation I hope, I may be absolved from egotism. It was my privilege on a number of occasions to meet him and discuss with him the lines on which agricultural experiments should be conducted, and although Sir John himself disclaimed any pretensions to be a chemical expert, I found his knowledge of Chemistry to be profound and his practical knowledge in the application of it to be almost past belief.

On one occasion when I visited Rothamsted, the exact date of which I have forgotten, Sir John spent nearly the whole day in taking me round the whole of the experimental grounds and discussing the various problems arising from our observations of the various experiments. It was a day which has since lived vividly in my mind, and was a source of inspiration to me in my own experimental work.

And, in this connection, I cannot refrain from mentioning the debt of deep gratitude I owe to Sir Henry Gilbert. It was owing to his introduction that I was first brought into touch with the late Dr. Voelcher, the Consulting Chemist to the Royal Agricultural Society of England, in whose laboratory I spent six very happy years.

During the period I have had under review the agricultural community, and the public at large, had gradually become to realise the close interdependence of chemical research and agricultural practice. The Royal Agricultural College at Cirencester had been founded in 1845, and the Royal Agricultural Society had appointed a consulting chemist, first in the person of Professor Way, and subsequently the late Dr. Augustus Voelcker, the then Professor of Chemistry at the Royal Agricultural College.

About the year 1876 the Royal Agricultural Society started an experimental station at Woburn on the Duke of Bedford's estate, originally under the direction of the late Dr. Augustus Voelcker, and afterwards controlled by his son Dr. J. A. Voelcker, the present Consulting Chemist to the Royal Agricultural Society. The results obtained at this Station in the field experiments and in pot cultures have been of exceeding value, and it is much to be regretted that the Royal Agricultural Society, in what I hold to be a mistaken fit of economy, recently decided to relinquish 'the experiments.

Fortunately Dr. Voelcker, with a magnanimity which is greatly to his credit, has obtained a lease of the farm at Woburn and will continue the experiments at his own experse, and will thus save much valuable knowledge for the world.

ELECTION AS CONSULTING CHEMIST.

At the commencement of 1879 I started practice as an analytical chemist in Liverpool, and at the annual meeting of the Society in that year was elected Consulting Chemist to the Royal Manchester, Liverpool, and North Lancashire Agricultural Society, as it was then named, a post which I have since continuously held.

On looking through the list of the forty Council members who did me the honour of electing me on that occasion it is sad to think that only two are still with us, Mr. R. J. Howard and

Mr. J. T. Smith.

As I cast my mind back to the first meetings of the Council, which I attended, and refresh my memory with a glance at the names of the Council members, I am impressed with the fact that there were "giants in those days," when men like Lord Winmarleigh, C. R. Jacson, J. W. Fair, and others well-known in the country took an active interest in the Control of the Society; but the outstanding personality in that galaxy of notables was G. C. Hale, the father of our present esteemed Chairman.

The list would not, however, be complete without mention of Thomas Rigby, who acted as Secretary of the Society from 1869 until 1890, when he retired after 21 years' service. A miller with farmer's blood coursing through every vein he devoted a very large proportion of his life in furthering the interests of agriculture in general and the interests and activities of the Society in particular. Ever on the alert to discover new channels for research or modes for the dissemination of knowledge, he left no stone unturned in his endeavours to achieve the objects he had in view. From 1879 until his retirement in 1890, I was in constant touch with him, and the more I saw of him the more highly did I appreciate the soundness of his judgment, the practicality of his schemes, and his single-eyed devotion to duty.

When, in the following pages, I am describing some of the activities of the Society in the earlier years of my connection with it I wish to make it abundantly clear that much of the initiative of those schemes carried out by the Society, or resulting from such work, was due to Thomas Rigby, although the Council as a whole considered and sanctioned the schemes.

CREWE SHOW (1880) "WORKING DAIRY."

The first Show of the Society which I attended was at Crewe in the early part of September, 1880. A novel feature of the Exhibition was the institution of a "Working Dairy," in which the Society's prizes for churns were decided upon competition with "Calved" or Sour Milk, such as was then used in Cheshire dairies, and demonstrations were made in Cheese-making by the old process and early-ripening process as used in Cheshire. The methods of Stilton manufacture were also shown.

In addition, an exhibition of Butter-making by "the most approved Cheshire system" was carried out by men who had the reputation of being in the forerank of best Butter-makers in the county.

So far as I am aware this "Working Dairy" was the first to be equipped at any agricultural show in England, and the title then given has been used at agricultural shows for similar demonstrations ever since.

The shed, which was put under my control for the purposes of observation and report, attracted very considerable attentior, and the processes employed were eagerly watched by those specially interested in Dairying. Particularly was this the case with the Cheese-making operations which were carried on by Mr. Siddorn and Mr. Aston, two of the best Cheese-makers of that time in the county.

As the result of my observations and analyses at the time, a paper on "Cheese-making," embodying some of the conclusions at which I had arrived, appeared in the Journal for 1881.

It is interesting to compare the methods used for the production of Butter by the "most approved Cheshire system" in 1880 with the scientific and refined methods which have since been developed by research and experiment, and disseminated by this Society and the many Dairy Institutes up and down the Country.

A brief outline of what occurred at the Crewe Show may be instructive, if not amusing. The Milk was brought into the Dairy at a temperature of about 70 degrees T., in a more or less curdled condition. The temperature of the shed was about 80°F., but from the deliberations of the demonstrators gathered that it was not sufficiently "calved" to yield satisfactory results. Accordingly the whole of the contents of the churns in which the milk had been brought from neighbouring farms was tipped into a wooden tub, as far as I remember about 4ft. in diameter and 3ft. deep. The wood war apparently porous and, judging from the dark colour of the surface, had not, I should say, been cleaned for weeks. After consultation it was decided by the demonstrators that it was not sufficiently ripe for churning, and all were agreed that the true test of ripeness was when a stick placed in the middle of the tub remained upright. Accordingly a stick, which might have belonged to a cattle drover, was procured, placed in the tub, and its performances observed at intervals of every few minutes. As the stick had a handle at right angles there was naturally a tendency for the stick to drop in the direction of the handle, but this did not seem to affect the conclusions arrived at. After many peregrinations, it was decided that the milk was in a fit state to churn, and it was accordingly transferred to a Bradford Eccentric Churn, driven at a considerable speed from a shaft worked by a steam engine, and churned until the "butter" had become one solid lump. It was then made up into pounds ready for sale.

Contrast that practise with the cleanly, scientific methods of to-day and, I think, it will have to be admitted that scientific training and dairy education have gone far since the period referred to.

The success of the Working Dairy at Crewe had proved so conspicuous that it was decided to repeat the experiment at the Blackburn Show the following year. Demonstrations were given in Churning, Butter-working, Milk-setting in various apparatus, since become obsolete, and such like. The chief attraction, however, was the exhibition of two forms of centrifugal cream separators, which were new to the members of the Society. The practical trials with the "Danish" and "Laval" separators enabled me to test the efficacy of the two, and in the report which was published in the Journal I showed, what has now become public knowledge, that the separation of cream from milk is infinitely better than by any system of "setting."

Notwithstanding a considerable financial deficit in running the Blackburn Working Dairy, it was decided to continue the Exhibition at the Preston Guild Show in 1882. The Laval Cream Separators were again in evidence, and demonstrations in the Lancashire method of Cheese-making were made. The results of my investigations into the changes which took place during the manufacture were subsequently given in a report in the Journal.

ENSILAGE.

Owing to a series of disastrous years for farmers the question of the possibility of substituting ensilage for haymaking came very much to the front, and Lord Egerton, of Tatton, intimated in the early part of 1883 his willingness to carry out experiments at Tatton Park with a view of ascertaining whether the process could be profitably employed. I was deputed by the Council of the Society to watch the experiments from the scientific side. Joint reports were drawn up by Mr. J. T. Smith, Lord Egerton's Agent, and by me, and published in the Journal for 1884. On the whole the feeding experiments with the ensilage produced proved successful, and showed that Ensilage could be profitably employed, but subsequent experience has not led to any extended use of the method.

EDUCATIONAL PRIZES.

In 1885 the Council of the Society offered Prizes to be competed for by sons of members of the Society in the practice and theory of Agriculture, but owing to insufficient support the scheme had to be dropped a few years later.

EXPERIMENTAL FIELD TRIALS AT SALTNEY.

During the Show of the Royal Agricultural Society at Preston in 1885, an invitation was given to the Council of our Society to consider the advantages which might arise from closer co-operation with regard to Scientific Research, and a resolution was passed by our Council intimating that a favourable consideration would be given to any plan formulated by the Royal Agricultural Society.

With a view to promoting the proposed arrangement the Council passed a resolution by which a sum not exceeding £100 a year, for three years, was voted out of the Society's funds for carrying on Field Experiments, and a second resolution was passed that any further sum of money required should be obtained by an appeal to the landowners of the district.

In 1881 the Council appointed Mr. Robert Holland, M.R.A.C., Botanist to the Society. Mr. Holland, who had a sound theoretical and practical knowledge of farming in general, was a Botanist of rare merit. Until his death in 1892, he took a very active part in the conduct of the affairs of the Society, and particularly did he show his knowledge and skill in devising and controlling the Field Experiments at Saltney, and subsequently at Tatton.

On 19th February, 1886, a Committee was appointed to consider the suitability of a plot of land at Broughton Hall, near Chester, on the estate of the Right Hon. W. E. Gladstone, the then Prime Minister, the field being in the occupation of Mr. John Roberts, a member of the Council of the Society.

The field was very even in character and consisted of a strong soil with clay subsoil. It had been cropped with Wheat in 1885, and had been twice cultivated and harrowed by steam at the date of our inspection.

Being satisfied that the field was eminently suitable for the purposes of the proposed experiments the Committee advised the Council of the Society to adopt the field, and to carry on experiments as follows:—

1. The sowing of five separate acres across the west-end of the field with oats, and with mixtures of grass seeds suitable to form permanent pasture, with a view of ascertaining which mixture is best adapted for such soil and climate and for grazing with cattle and sheep.

2. The sowing of ten half-acres, adjoining the first plots, with oats and with ten different mixtures of clover and grass seeds in half-acre plots for one, two, and three years lay for mowing and for hay-making.

- 3. Adjoining this part of the field nearly half an acre divided into square plots of about one statute rood, to be sown with separate varieties of named grass seeds. The Committee think that such plots will offer a ready means of acquiring the names of grasses, their habits, the season and character of their growth, their adaptation to field cultivation and to different soils and situations.
- 4. Parallel with the foregoing plot, about half an acre to be planted annually with a selection of the newest and best varieties of potatoes, such as might be introduced into field culture with the best results.
- 5. To test the comparative value of artificial manures, the Committee propose that the remainder of the field should be sown annually with oats, and manured with plots of equal size with different kinds of manure, the land being subjected to deep and efficient cultivation all over alike; and the crop of each plot weighed when carted from the field and thrashed out separately, the grain being subsequently re-weighed, and its weight and that of the straw carefully recorded.

This report, together with other minor suggestions, was cordially accepted and adopted by the Council of the Society at its meeting on the 2nd March, and a committee of eight, including Mr. Holland and myself as scientific advisers, was appointed to carry out the several proposals.

It is sad to think that of that Committee I alone survive. The Report of the Committee and a Map of the Experimental Field was submitted to the Council of the Royal Agricultural Society of Englard on the 6th April, and was cordially received with an expression of pleasure that the Society had undertaken such experiments, and a promise was given to co-operate in giving publicity to the reports thereon.

Before starting the experiments I had an interview with Dr. Voelcker, the Consulting Chemist to the Royal Agricultural Society, and in consultation with him finally determined the details of the experiments.

About the time of the institution of these experiments, a considerable discussion was taking place as to the relative merits of Rye-grass and Cocksfoot in the formation of permanent pasture. Mr. Faunce de Laune had vigorously insisted on the exclusion of Rye-grass and biennial clovers from seedings for permanent pastures, but advocated the inclusion of Yarrow.

The No. 2 Plot on the Saltney Field was sown with the mixture recommended by Mr. Faunce de Laune.

It would be impossible to give even in outline, in the space at my disposal, the very many important conclusions which were drawn from the experiments at Saltney.

The manurial experiments were an utter failure owing to a very wet season and an attack of a disease known locally as "tulip leaf," caused by the presence in the swollen part of the stem of the oats of an innumerable quantity of eel-worms, known scientifically as Tylenchus devastatrix.

As it was probable, and indeed experiment showed that the soil was impregnated with the disease, it was decided to relinquish the manurial experiments. Although the oats were so badly affected there were no indications that the grasses or clovers on the other plots were injured.

With the exception of the manurial experiments, the whole of the remaining 15 plots were kept under observation and experiment from 1886 to 1893. Mr. Holland made systematic Botanical examinations and analyses of the herbage on each plot, and each year I was present at the weighing of the crops from each plot. I also made somewhat exhaustive chemical analyses of the hay from each plot in order to determine the total produce in dry weight, and the nutritive value of each for feeding purposes.

Although many of the results of the experiments could be recorded in reports and tables, and were indeed so reported, much more could be learnt from an inspection of the various plots, and, accordingly, days were fixed each year for inspection of the experiments by members and others interested.

These inspections, which were visited by a considerable number of members, proved to be most interesting and instructive, and at the same time brought the members of the Society into touch with one another. It also brought home to them the vast advantages which accrued from the use of properly selected seeds in the formation of pastures, whether of a permanent or temporary character.

But great as was the educational value of the experiments to the members at large, the most valuable asset resulted from the keen interest taken in them by the seedsmen, not merely in the Society's district, but from all parts of the kingdom. The lessons taught were eagerly learned by these seedsmen, and as a result the best mixtures were in many cases adopted, and an improved purity of the individual constituents of the various mixtures was insisted upon. Thus it was that apart from the direct education of the farmers themselves the indirect advantages to British agriculture was very considerable.

In the first Journal of the re-formed Royal Lancashire Agricultural Society is a Report, written jointly by Robert Holland and myself, giving a summary of the grass experiments at Saltney, from 1886 to 1893.

It is not easy, in view of subsequent research and Government initiative, to estimate at their full value these earlier experiments, so ably conceived by Robert Holland and carefully and conscientiously carried out by John Roberts.

The latter, be it remarked, only charged to the Society the cost of rent and outlay incurred, and undertook all the work and supervision without any remuneration, and Mr. Holland and I gave our services con amore.

Nevertheless considerable expenditure was necessary, and in the then somewhat depleted condition of the finances of the Society the Council applied to the Board of Agriculture for a grant in aid of the Costs of the Experimental Fields in 1889. A letter from the Board of Agriculture, dated 26th March, 1890, states that the "Board have been pleased to award to the Society a sum of £35 towards the expenditure incurred by the Society on these experiments. I am directed to state that this grant is for the present financial year, ending 31st March, 1890, only, and that the Society will have no claim in consequence of this grant to its future continuance."

Thus was scientific research in agriculture fostered by the authorities in those days!

EXPERIMENTAL FIELD TRIALS AT TATTON.

Being impressed with the value of the Field Experiments which had been started by the Society at Saltney, the late Lord Egerton, of Tatton, the then Chairman of the Council, in 1886 offered to place two fields at Tatton at the disposal of the Council for further experiments and to provide manures, seeds, and labour of cultivation without charge to the Society, the only stipulation being that the crops when finished with for experiments should be his Lordship's property.

One of the fields was an upland meadow of about eight acres, and the other an arable field of about 15 acres in extent, six acres being sown with wheat and the remaining part was ploughed ready to be sown with barley and oats.

MANURIAL EXPERIMENTS ON PERMANENT MEADOW GRASS.

This field, which had for years been regularly mown and manured at intervals with farmyard manure, was very even in character, the soil being strong, though not deep, on a clay subsoil.

Six plots of one acre each were set aside for dressing with different manures, two of them to test the relative advantages of heavy and light dressings of lime, a point which at that time was much under discussion by the farmers of the district.

The eighth plot of one acre was divided into three parts, one of which was dressed with liquid manure, one left without manure, and the third ploughed and sown with permanent grass seeds similar to those used in Plot A in field No. 2.

In 1888 each of the plots was divided into halves, one of which was further treated with manures and the other left with the original manures only. The hay from all plots was carted on the same day, and analyses were made to ascertain the actual food value of the hay. Full tables as to cost and yield are given in the Journal.

The experiments on this field were continued until the harvesting of the hay in 1891, when it was deemed that the lessons to be learnt were practically complete. On examining the reports and tables given in the Journals of the Society for the five years ending 1892, I find that the results recorded indicate that a valuable impetus was given to the knowledge then existing with regard to the treatment of grassland. In these experiments Dr. Voelcker took the keenest interest, and with other members of the Royal Agricultural Society frequently visited the Tatton Experimental Plots.

ENPERIMENTS WITH MINTURES OF GRASS SEEDS AND THE CROPPING OF THE SAME.

This field was originally divided into two equal portions and each half again sub-divided into seven plots, which were sown with different mixtures of grass seeds. Duplicate trials of each mixture of seeds were made, the only difference in treatment being that in one case the seeds were sown with wheat and in the other case with oats.

The Plots G and H seeded in wheat, and E and F seeded in oats were laid down for two years only, and Plots M and N were seeded with the mixture of seeds ordinarily used in the neighbourhood for a three years' ley.

These plots were divided, and each plot was mown and grazed respectively during the four years 1888-1891.

The remaining plots, laid down for permanent pasture and a four years' ley, were subjected to a more complicated treatment in order to determine the effect of: (1) Continuous mowing; (2) continuous grazing; (3) alternate mowing and grazing; and (4) alternate grazing and mowing.

The produce from all the plots was converted into hay and carefully weighed, and subsequently samples of the hay were analysed in order to determine the actual amount of dry matter produced per acre.

Careful details were kept with regard to the weights of the animals used for grazing, and particulars of the time and increase in body weight carefully noted.

In the Journal for 1891 a summary is given of the four years' cropping and the increase of live weight from the grazing, and a balance sheet is given showing the relative monetary returns of the various experiments.

At the time this particular set of experiments was devised there was much divergence of opinion among farmers in the Society's district as to the relative merits of mowing and grazing rewly laid down pastures, and it was because of this divergence that the experiments were initiated. Indeed, I have recollections of some very heated discussions on the point when the disputants, to prove the accuracy of their statements, nearly came to blows!

One result which very clearly emerged from the experiments was that for laying down land for permanent pasture it is necessary to avoid grazing it the first year after the seeds are sown.

As in the case of the Saltney grass seed experiments, the Rostherne experiments attracted a large number of Members and others on the visiting days. Among the keenest of the visitors were the seed merchants who came from the country around and by virtue of their special knowledge were able to appreciate the special lessons which were to be learnt from their own observations and the very able demonstrations of Mr. Holland, who personally conducted the parties at each public inspection

MANURIAL EXPERIMENTS ON PERMANENT GRASS— TATTON PARK.

The Experimental Field No. 1 at Rostherne having yielded practically all the results which had been aimed at when the experiments were initiated, the late Lord Egerton in 1890 generously placed at the disposal of the Society another plot of land of about six acres in Tatton Park for further experiments

The land was in Tatton Park and from time immemorial has been in grass. For many years previous to 1881 the land had received no manure, but in that year a dressing of nitrate of soda was applied. Since that time and until the initiation of the experiments in 1891 no manure of any description had been applied.

The land was surrounded by a substantial iron ferce and was divided into 23 plots of exactly quarter of an acre.

The land had been grazed by young stock for many years and the soil was in an exhausted condition. The herbage was, consequently, in a poor state, but for the purposes of the experiments this tended to accentuate the effects of the manures in renovating worn-out pastures.

The plan adopted was to apply equal quantities of phosphoric acid on the plots receiving phosphates and equal quantities of nitrogen on those receiving nitrogen. Two plots were left without manure, and two dressed with lime at the rate of two and four

The experimer is continued until 1893, when the alteration in the constitution of the Society caused them to be abandoned. The plots are, however, still untouched, and general observation confirms the conclusions at which we arrived from our more scientific control and experiments.

Speaking generally, the use of the more available forms of phosphate and of nitrogen, especially in conjunction with potash, proved highly remunerative, the yield of hay from most of the fully manured plots being over three times the yield of the un-manured plots.

The experiments with lime confirmed those obtained at Rostherne. It was found that not only were more economical results obtained by the use of two tons of lime than by the use of four tons, but that the yield in the case of the smaller quantity was considerably the greater.

EXPERIMENTAL FIELD TRIALS-LANGASTER.

In the spring of 1888 a Committee consisting of Messrs. C. B. Davies, John Lea, and Robert Holland, the Society's botanist, was appointed to select a site and formulate the mixtures of grass seeds to be experimented with in the Northern division of the Society's district. The field selected was on the farm of Mr. Henry Mackereth, at Ashton-with-Stodday, near Lancaster, and was over six acres in extent. It was divided into six plots each of one acre, and sown with different mixtures of grass seeds, two being for one year's ley, two for two years' ley, and two for permanent pasture. There were also 19 plots sown with the most important grass seeds for educational purposes and to familiarise the farmers of the district with the names and habits of the various plants.

These experiments were carried on until 1891, when they were discontinued on account of the unaccessability of the Station and the relative paucity of Members in the district. The work had been carried on admirably by Mr. Mackereth, and especially during the Lancaster Show a considerable number of Members visited the Station, but for the reasons stated above, and the condition of Mr. Holland's health, it was considered expedient to discontinue the experiments.

POTATO EXPERIMENTS.

The Potato Disease having affected the Champion and Magnum Bonum potatoes much more in the general crop in Lancashire and Cheshire in 1886 than in any previous year, the Council of the Society formed the opinion that it would be useful to establish some trials with new kinds of potatoes.

Accordingly when the Saltney experiments were being devised, as already indicated in the summary already given, provision was made for the trials of ten of the most promising varieties of potatoes then being put on the market. The results of the experiments were reported upon by Mr. William Scotson, of Mossley Hill, himself a large potato grower and one of the astutest of farmers that it has been my fortune to meet.

In the Journal for 1888 are reports by Wm. Scotson and John Roberts of Saltney on the experiments with potatoes at Mossley Hill, Tatton and Saltney.

Regular days for visitation of these experimental plots were fixed and duly advertised, and many of the farmers of the neighbourhood availed themselves of the opportunity of inspecting the various plots.

Having regard to the wide differences in yield and in disease resistance, I am satisfied that these experiments gave a distinct incentive to growers to improve the strains of new varieties, and to farmers to be more careful in the selection of their seed.

In addition to the experiments referred to above, a series of trials with 16 varieties of potatoes was carried on at Preston by J. Murray, the land agent of Mr. Lawrence Rawstorne. Mr. J. T. Smith, of Tatton, also drew up two very elaborate reports, giving full particulars of the characters of the potatoes, the amount of diseased tubers and the yield per acre.

In the light of contemporaneous and subsequent research, I venture to think that the Society in instituting and carrying out these experiments was well in the van of scientific enterprise.

DAIRYING ACTIVITIES.

Reference has already been made to the first Working Dairy at Crewe in 1880, and to the two subsequent ones at Blackburn and at Preston during the Guild year.

The activities of the Society in the cause of dairying were not, however, relaxed at this period, but have been continued without interruption at every Show until the present day

From 1880 until 1886, with the exception of the year 1885, when no Show was held owing to the exhibition of the Royal Agricultural Society of England at Preston, the Dairy at the Showyards was used for demonstrations by experts in dairying and in carrying out experiments with centrifugal cream separators, &c., and invariably attracted a large number of visitors.

At the Manchester Show in 1887 the experiment was made of utilising the Working Dairy for Competitions in Butter-making by Employees in Dairy Schools, Factories, Creameries, or Town Dairies. In this Class the first prize was secured by Miss Connell, the instructress at the recently formed Dairy Institute at Worleston.

Prizes were also offered and awarded to Farmers' Wives and Daughters, and to Cottagers or Dairy Maids in private families.

In these competitions, and in all subsequent ones until the reconstruction of the Society, I acted as one of the Judges, and gave at each Show short lectures on various aspects of dairying.

The Judging was done by points, a varying number of marks being awarded to the different stages of the manufacture.

The fears that were entertained by the Council of the Society lest the publicity of operations would deter competitors from entering the contests proved to be without foundation, and the exhibition was one of the chief attractions of the Show.

At the Lancaster Show in the following year the first day's competition, limited to females only, attracted 13 entrants, and on the second day 15 females and four men presented themselves as candidates. From year to year as the Dairy Institutes up and down the country became more and more efficient, the Dairy Competitions at our Shows became more and more popular and the prizes won were regarded as diplomas of much value in commanding posts as teachers or in obtaining lucrative positions in commercial dairy undertakings.

As I cast my mind back to the crude and unskilful methods employed at the Crewe Show in 1880 and the relatively slovenly and unscientific processes employed at the first Dairy Competitions at Manchester in 1887, I am amazed at the rapidity of the spread of practical dairy education which took place within the span of so few years, and I do not think I am exaggerating if I say that by the time I finally finished my official control of these competitions in 1893, the general standard of competency was as high as it is to-day.

The fact is the practical dairy education which to a large extent had its initiative in the fertile brain of Thomas Rigby, and which was insisted upon with a persistency which was characteristic of the man, has done more to improve dairy methods in a few years than the accumulative experience of centuries with its "rule of thumb" methods.

Although this Society was so largely instrumental in initiating and bringing to fruition the ideals of dairy education, the course of events politically much facilitated the development in the country generally.

Owing to the failure of the Government of the day to carry out the proposals for excise purposes, the money was "ear-marked" and placed at the disposal of the County Councils under the Local Taxations (Customs and Excise) Act 1890 to be devoted to the purposes of Technical and Agricultural Education. At first a good deal of the money was frittered away in disjointed lectures and in a manner little conducive to agricultural education, but with experience the defects of administration were rectified and broad and well-conceived schemes evolved. The many colleges and institutes which have been doing such good work are the result of this "whisky" money.

CHESHIRE DAIRY INSTITUTE, WORLESTON.

Although strictly speaking the Cheshire Dairy Institute at Worleston could hardly be said to be a product of the Agricultural Society, it had its origin in the Council Chamber of the Society in Old Ropery, Liverpool. At the time the matter was under discussion Thomas Rigby was the Secretary of the Cheshire Chamber of Agriculture, as well as Secretary of the Agricultural Society, and as the project was more of a National than a private character it was felt that the object in view would be easier obtained by working through the Cheshire County Council and the Cheshire Chamber of Agriculture than through the Agricultural Society with the limited funds at its disposal.

On the 7th August, 1890, the Cheshire County Council made a grant of £1,000 for the acquisition and stocking of a farm, conditional upon the Cheshire Chamber of Agriculture giving £500 for the same purpose.

In addition to the above sums the Board of Agriculture provided £200 towards the general funds of the Institute and £100 for special research in connection with Cheshire Cheese-making, details of which appeared in the Journal of the Agricultural Society and which are set out in the following summary.

A lease was obtained of Aston Hall Farm, Worleston, an occupation of 163 acres from Coloi el Cotton-Jodrell, and in due course the Institute was in working order.

Mr. Joseph Siddorn took the duties of teacher of cheese-making and general farm manager, while Mrs. Simpson taught butter-

The milk of about 35 cows was used daily for cheese-making and that of 10 cows for butter-making. Having regard to the fact that the work done at the Institute had to be done on new lines, the success attained was highly creditable to the maragers and teaching staff.

CHEESE-MAKING EXPERIMENTS AT THE CHESHIRE DAIRY INSTITUTE, WORLESTON, 1891 and 1892.

These experiments were undertaken at the above Institute by the Cheshire Chamber of Agriculture at the instance of the Board of Agriculture and cannot, therefore, strictly speaking be included, in the activities of the Agricultural Society, but they were the natural sequence of the formation of the Worleston Institute, and indirectly at all events our Society can lay claim to some of the credit.

The fact that many difficulties arose in the output of uniform qualities of cheese, not only among farmers generally, but also at the Worleston Institute where the operations were at that time under the direction of a thorough expert, Mr. Joseph Siddorn, son of Mr. Henry Siddorn, of world-wide fame as a Cheshire Cheese-maker.

It fell to my lot to be deputed to carry out the experiments at the Worleston Institute, and to investigate generally the processes employed by farmers in the county.

For the purposes of investigation at the Institute I fitted up a laboratory with the necessary apparatus for the analyses and tests which were necessary, and had a trained assistant resident on the premises to make the necessary analyses and observations on practically every day during the continuance of the experiments.

The first recorded experiment began on August 19th, 1891, and the daily observations were continued until October 23rd, 1891.

some idea of the general scope of the investigation :-

When the evening milk was delivered at the dairy it was accurately weighed and placed in a cheese vat provided with a false bottom, below which hot or cold water could be passed to regulate the temperature of the milk. At 9 o'clock the temperatures of the milk and of the dairy were noted and the direction of the wind ascertained. The acidity of the milk was also estimated. The milk was then set aside until the following morning. At 6 a.m. the temperatures of the dairy and of the milk were again recorded, and the acidity again estimated. The direction of the wind, the weight of the morning milk was taken, the temperature to which the cream was heated, the acidity of the mixed milk before renneting, the temperatures of the milk and the time of renneting and the quantity of rennet added were all duly recorded. The time at which the breaking of the curd commenced, the time occupied during the operation of breaking, the temperature at the commencement of breaking and the acidity of the whey immediately after breaking were in turn ascertained. The temperature of the scald, the time the whey was drawn, and its acidity at time of drawing were next obtained. Then tollowed observations of the time of the first cutting of the curd in the racks and the acidity of the curd: then of the time and acidity of the curd at second cutting: the time of salting and the acidity of the curd at salting. Next the weight of the curd when salted, the quantity of salt used and the weight of the curd when milled were recorded. The time of vatting and the temperature and acidity of the curd at that time were obtained. The maximum and minimum temperature of the dairy during the operations and the outside temperature in the shade were registered. Finally the range of temperature in the cheese oven was noted.

In addition to this long list of observations and tests, analyses of the milk, of the curd and of the whey were made each day and many other chemical tests performed—notably estimations of acidity in the cheese at various stages of the ripening process.

At the end of November, 1891, when the cheeses were ripe, they were inspected and valued by Messrs. Pedley, Bate, H. Siddorn, and Aston, the two first being well-known cheese factors, and the last two the well-known cheese-makers referred to in my report on the Crewe Show of 1880, whose conclusions are given in the report on the experiments. Wide differences are given both as to quality and value, some of which are accounted for by the deviations from the normal during the processes of manufacture.

In 1892 the experiments were continued on similar lines to the previous year, and in the main the results obtained confirmed those already obtained. In this year the experiments extended from September 20th until October 14th.

In addition to the experimental work at Worleston Institute a number of visits were made to farms, chiefly those whose output was unsatisfactory owing to the cheese being "discoloured." In these instances the conclusions I arrived at quite confirmed the results obtained at Worleston. A Mr. Willis claimed to have a secret to prevent "discolouration," but when put to the test at one of what may be termed the "infected" farms his product was no improvement on the cheese manufactured by the home dairymaid.

I even carried the matter further and obtained the co-operation of the dairymaid who had taken the first prize for Cheshire Cheese at the Royal Agricultural Society's Show and many other first prizes. I gave her an absolutely free hand and every facility in the conduct of the work; but when the cheese had ripened and was examined it was found that it was not a whit better than the home-made product. This confirmed me in my opinion previously expressed that much of the inferior cheese is spoilt before the milk reaches the dairy.

LECTURES AND EDUCATIONAL WORK.

Throughout the whole of the period under review lectures were given in the various districts in the Society's area, and for the most part were well attended and did much to foster a spirit of investigation in the members who attended.

Among the lecturers most in demand were Thomas Rigby, the Secretary of the Society, who lectured on many aspects of practical agriculture, and particularly on dairying; Robert Holland, the Society's Consulting Botanist, whose lectures if they had been preserved would have had a useful application to-day; and R. S. Reynolds, the hon. Consulting Veterinary Surgeon, who treated of shoeing and veterinary matters.

I also was pressed into service on many occasions, my first lecture being in 1882 at the City Hall, Liverpool.

At the request of the Council of the Society I lectured for three years in Liverpool under the auspices of the Science and Art Department of South Kensington, the only available machinery then obtainable.

These lectures, 20 in number, were printed in book form in

L'ENVOI.

And now we come upon the parting of the ways. For reasons which need not be discussed the constitution of the Society was altered in 1893, and the area of the Society was confined to Lancashire.

The chief reason given for curtailing the district was that the Government grants could only be applied in the County to which the money was allotted.

It so happened that the whole of the experimental stations were outside of Lancashire, and consequently all the experimental work came automatically to an end.

Since the change in the constitution of the Society the dairy work at the Shows, and experimental field trials and other researches have devolved entirely upon the County Council, and it is satisfactory to know that with the changed conditions the prosperity of the Society and the interests of agriculture have been materially advanced.

PRESTON GUILD CELEBRATIONS, 1922

UNIQUE LANCASHIRE FESTIVAL

By JAMES TAYLOR

THE history of that venerable institution, the Preston Guild Merchant, was succinctly and graphically summarised in the 1922 volume of this journal, so that it is not necessary to travel over the ground again. One may be pardoned, however, for prefacing a review of the 1922 celebrations with a few elucidatory remarks. It is uncertain when Preston was constituted a free borough, or when its Guild Merchant was established, but it was certainly enjoying the double distinction in the latter half of the 12th century. The privileges that the burgesses possessed were very real and substantial, and were preserved to them for centuries by virtue of various Royal Charters for which, being one of the richest boroughs in Lancashire, Preston paid what in those days were good round sums. They were granted at first, among other privileges and i nmunities, the exclusive command of their own markets and free range over the whole country for the disposal of their merchandise. There was gradually formed an invincible system of trade protection and commercial exclusiveness which marched along with a burghal constitution that also secured and held tenaciously many civic prerogatives. But as the ages progressed, means of inter-communication grew apace, more enlightened views prevailed, and the "new industrialism" usurped the old. The Guild—which was no doubt a useful and desirable institution in the beginning-out-lived its usefulness, and as a vital organism practically received its quietus on the passing of the Municipal Corporations Act, 1835.

All the great privileges that were formerly enjoyed by the Freeman have been whittled down to three insignificant possessions, viz.:—The right to sell, free from toll in the Market Place, his own produce or manufacture; the right to pass over old Penwortham Bridge without paying toll at such times when toll is demanded; and the privilege of sending his sons to the Preston Grammar School at the reduced tee of two guineas per year.

But the quaint, historic ceremonies associated with the commemoration of the Guild Merchant are religiously kept up; the Freemen—In-Burgesses and Out-Burgesses—are still admitted at any Guild celebration on payment of the old-established fines. At the present day, burgesses who were on the last Guild Roll are enabled to renew their franchises, and the sons of Guild Burgesses, born since the previous Guild, are admitted on payment of the old customary fees. The rejoicings associated with the testival are vigorously maintained, and these are the attractions for the multitude, and have made the Guild celebrations famous throughout the country for hundreds of years, as is well evidenced by the diaries of illustrious travellers who visited the "Preston Jubilee," as it was popularly called, in the 17th and 18th centuries

The festival was held irregularly in the early days—sometimes at short intervals, sometimes during periods of national disturbance at long intervals—though it says much for its vitality and recuperative power that the very first Guild Merchant of which there is any trustworthy record—the Guild of 1328—was celebrated only six years after Bruce raided Preston, which town, as one old chronicler laconically observes, "he burnt." The houses in those days were almost wholly built of timber, and the Scots could be trusted to make a "big blaze" after thoroughly sifting the town for things worth carrying across the Border. From 1542 the ordinance made in 1328 that "A Gyld Merchant should be sett at every XX year end," or when necessary to confirm Charters, has been rigidly observed in the terms of the first clause. A Guild Merchant has been held every 20 years in unbroken sequence from 1542 down to the present day.

In later times attempts have been made to ignore the institution on the ground that it had outlived its usefulness. But even in days of depression—as during the Cotton Famine in the 'sixties, when great distress prevailed—the festival was held. The plea for its abandonment in 1922 was urged in certain quarters on somewhat the same lines, but the desire to hold fast by the ancient traditions of an ancient town proved unquenchable, and it was decided to concentrate into one glorious week a series of official functions and festal demonstrations illustrating the history of the town and its present social, religious, and industrial status, in a merry, gorgeous cyclorama, the like of which had never before been witnessed.

THE PROCLAMATIONS,

Following the ancient usage three proclamations with blaring trumpets, and all the quaint formalities, as laid down in the official books regulating Guild procedure, were made in the Market Place on the three Saturdays preceding the opening of the Guild Merchant. It has been the established rule since 1562 that the Guild Merchant should commence on the Monday following the Feast of the Decollation of St. John the Baptist (August 29th), so that in 1922 the "appointed day for the opening of the Guild Week was Monday, September 4th. The Guild Mayor (Mr. Henry Astley-Bell, J.P.) after the official proceedings at the final proclamation, referred to the privileges granted by the old Charters—which had been granted at various periods from 1179 to 1828—and to the evident keen desire not only of the inhabitants of the town but of the surrounding districts that the old ceremonies should be kept up with the same splendour that characterised the festivities for hundreds of years back. Provision, he thought, had been made on a more elaborate and splendid scale than ever for the entertainment and enjoyment of the vast numbers of people. The various committees were all striving to make the Guild of 1922 more splendid, memorable, and widespread than any of its predecessors, and he asked the citizens to do all they could to help those who were responsible for carrying out the programme.

THE DECORATIONS.

The following day (Sunday) the citizens of Preston, reinforced by thousands of visitors from all parts of the country, and hundreds of people—Prestonians and descendants of Prestonians from Overseas—were abroad early viewing the decorations of the town, which were now in the full beauty of their efflorescence. adornment of the streets was carried out on a most lavish scale, and with a due regard to the genius loci. The decorators had kept before them two ideas, namely, the representation of the history and character of an ancient town, and the pictorial elucidation of its chief industries. The names of the Guild Mayors, beginning in 1328, when very few people had surnames, with Aubrey, son of Robert, and ending in 1922 with a doubly surnamed Henry Astley-Bell, were inscribed on successive pylons, and there was a wealth of gorgeous curtains across the streets bearing various appropriate legends, and a bewildering network of rainbow-hued streamers. All highways and byeways were brilliantly beflagged. The only decoration which reminded one of the last Guild festivities was the magnificent cotton arch, erected by Messrs. Horrockses, Crewdson & Co., opposite their works in Stanley Street. The value of the cotton used in the construction was set down at £15,000. In 1902 the cost would have been a little over £3,000.

On the Sunday the Guild Mayor paid his state visit to the Parish Church. He was accompanied by gentlemen representing all ranks of the citizenship of Preston, the Mayors of other Lancashire Boroughs, and many other distinguished visitors. The sermon was preached by the Bishop of Manchester (Dr. Temple.)

OPENING OF THE GUILD COURT.

The Burgesses attended on Monday morning at the Guild Court, which was held in the Guild Hall, to renew their claims to Freemanship, and the sons of Freemen who had been born since the previous Guild attended to claim their franchises in propria persona, or by proxy. The children of Freemen are entitled to the franchises wherever born. In the assembly were veterans whose names had been recorded at three previous Guilds, and children of tender years—some just beginning to toddle. The youngest Freeman who was unavoidably absent, was born so late as the 21st August, 1922. He had not as yet received his Christian name. or if he had the Guild Clerk was unable to announce it. He was the latest scion of the Asshetons, whose names appear on the Guild Rolls for centuries back. The very youthful grandson of Sir James de Hoghton answered to his name in a shrill, piping, resonant voice. The Hoghton family, of Hoghton Tower, were represented at the Guild Merchant of 1397, and their names appear on the Rolls of every successive Guild down to the year 1922. Cuthbert de Hoghton represented his father, Sir James, on the present memorable occasion.

THE HOUSE OF STANLEY.

There was, as at the last Guild Merchant, a fine representation of the House of Stanley, with the Right Honourable the Earl of Derby at the head. The Stanleys of Lathom and Knowsley first appear on the Guild Roll in 1542. If the Roll for 1500 were not missing, one would probably be in a position to say that this family was represented at the Guild 15 years after the Battle of Bosworth Field, when Lord Stanley was created first Earl of Derby. But, at any rate, from 1542 down to the present, members of this illustrious house have sought enrolment or the renewal of their franchises as Guild Burgesses.

The third Earl, who heads the Roll of 1542, lived in almost regal splendour. He was held in high repute by Queen Elizabeth. Camden, the historian, said of him, "With the Earl of Derby's death the glory of hospitality seemed to fall asleep." On this Roll, which consists of a large sheet of parchment and is still in good preservation, we are enabled to read his name and those of his three sons:—

Edwardus Comes Derbi.

Henricus Dominus le Strange ejus filius et heres appar'.

Thomas Stanley, frater ejus. Edwardus Stanley, frater ejus.

At the Guild of 1562 the third Earl—then at the very zenith of his fame—occupied the position of honour on the Guild Roll. It may be interesting to give the names of the Stanleys as they were inscribed on the Guild Roll of 1922. The goodly list is as follows:—

Edward George Villiers, Earl of Derby, son of Frederick Arthur, Earl of Derby, deceased.

Edward Montague Cavendish, Lord Stanley his som

Edward John, son of Lord Stanley.

Richard Oliver, another son.

Oliver Frederick George, another son of Edward George Villiers, Earl of Derby.

Michael Charles, his son.

Victor Albert, another son of Frederick Arthur, Earl of Derby.

Arthur, Knight, another son of Frederick Arthur Earl of Derby.

Ferdinand Charles, another son of Frederick Arthur, Earl of Derby.

Frederick Arthur, his son.

John, another son.

Henry Ferdinand, another son.

George Frederick, M.P. for Preston, another son of Frederick Arthur, Earl of Derby.

Algernon Francis, another son of Frederick Arthur, Earl of Derby.

Frederick William, another son of Frederick Arthur, Earl of Derby.

David William, his son.

The proceedings at the Court were opened with the old historic formalities. The Guild Clerk, after a proclamation from the Sergeantat-Mace commanding silence, read a resumé of the Royal Charters and an account of previous Guilds, and strange words from the old Charters fell on the ears of those present, reminiscent of old and forgotten communal laws, such as "soc" and "sac," "infangthef," "hangwit," "bloodwit," "childwit. When those present had all answered to their names, either by themselves or duly qualified sponsors, the Guild Mayor caused the names of the more promit ent Burgesses to be read out, and the Court afterwards adjourned. The Guild Mayor paid another State visit to the Church, attended by the masters and wardens of the various trades. The sermon was preached by his Worship's chaplain, the Rev. Canon Morris. During the morning Pontifical High Mass was sung at the various Roman Catholic Churches. On the return of the procession to the Guild Court, in accordance with a long-honoured custom, a Latin oration was delivered by the head scholar of the Grammar School (John Francis Lockwood) and responded to by the Recorder (Mr. E. W. Wingate-Saul, K.C.), and with this fur ction the official proceedings of the Guild were adjourned till the following Saturday.

PROCESSION OF CHURCH OF ENGLAND SCHOOLS.

The popular festival was opened on the Monday afterroon with the first phase of a cycle of spectacular processiors and demonstrations illustrating the religious, social, and industrial life of the town. This first stage in the panorama was the procession of the Church of England Sunday Schools-twenty in numberno less than 15,000 people taking part. Thirty bands led up the various sections, and over a hundred banners fluttered on the breeze. Tableaux represented the history of the Church and its missions far afield. There was a wealth of realistic detail in this panorama of pictures and processionists, all palpitating with life and energy and aglow with vibrant colour. The children walking in the procession were mostly dressed in costume to illustrate favourite characters in the old familiar nursery rhymes, pages and parables out of the Bible and New Testament history. There were impressive symbolical tableaux, and characters innumerable, secular and sacred. The Guild Merchant was not forgotten. Some of the older scholars in connection with one of the schools were dressed in the garb that prevailed in former Guild periods going far back into the centuries. There was a never-ending succession of spectacular novelties in this huge procession, which took over four hours to cover both sides of the endless chain route that had been mapped out for them in the borough.

PROCESSION OF THE CATHOLIC GUILDS.

The turn of the Catholic Guilds came on the Tuesday. They have more pictorial material at their disposal than the other religious bodies. The late Cardinal Manning was much impressed by the pomp and splendour of the Catholic procession at the Guild of 1882, declaring that he had never seen anything to equal it in Rome, or in any of the cities of the Continent which had an historic reputation for processional opulence. But the processions at the late Guild outclassed altogether the displays of 1882 and 1902. The greatest artists in the world's history have done their principal work for the Church, and therefore we find the banners in the Preston pageant reproductions of masterpieces by Michaelangelo, Raffaele, Coreggio, Murillo, and other great painters. These formed an impressive moving gallery of religious pictures, figures of the saints and martyrs, and illustrations of episodes in their lives. Not only were these depicted on canvas, but they were impersonated by the processionists, who provided a striking array of martyrs, the list including many Lancastrians who suffered on the scaffold for their faith.

THE NONCONFORMISTS.

In the afternoon the Nonconformists occupied the stage, so to speak. They were divided as follows: Congregationalists 1,158, Wesleyans 4,566, Baptists 612, Primitive Methodists 1,095, United Methodists 959, and Salvationists 603. They, too, impressed the spectators by their sheer weight of numbers, but they had also caught very successfully the pageant spirit, and the little children provided some very effective tableaux illustrating nursery tales and scenes from fairyland. The display was a very beautiful one, and the whole procession was highly creditable to the organisers; especially when it is remembered that the Nonconformists of Preston have not had much practice in pageantry art hitherto.

THE TEXTILE TRADES.

In design and execution the pageant of the textile and general trades of Preston (the chief attraction on the Wednesday) was a pictorial masterpiece. It was on a colossal scale. "King Cotton" reigned supreme, and under his imperial sway there was marshalled a succession of magnificent tableaux illustrating the evolution of the cotton industry. The latest and most marvellous developments of machinery used in manufacturing processes were shown in operation, and no expense was spared in fitting into the general scheme of things appropriate decorative adjuncts. The promoters had set out with the idea of producing an object lesson on the scope of cotton products, and they achieved a dramatic success. They had certain principles to inculcate—a new spirit to infuse into the trade. As the Guild Textile Trades observed in their programme: "We have to intensify our activity in new markets to compensate for loss of business in fields where change has arrested demand. We have to consider closely new marketing methods, and apply those having the potentiality of increased sales. We have to recognise the tremendous force exerted by intelligently applied propaganda and use it, at home and abroad, to stabilise demand."

In the long, glittering procession a figure of Peace led the way, with the 51 states comprising the League of Nations acting as her escort. These were represented by a company of young ladies from the Park School and Winckley Square Convent, arrayed in the national costumes, a number of which had been loaned by the Embassies and Legations. The states walked in alphabetical order—the order in which they sit in the assembly of the League in Geneva. A typical tableau in the forefront of the procession was symbolical of Preston-a female figure enthroned on a massive globe and carrying a banner bearing the arms of Preston. She was attended by the chief nations of the eastern and western world linked around the globe. The whole group was carried on a decorated motor lurry furnished on its sides with panels bearing the borough coat of arms. There were allegorical tableaux of the American and Egyptian cotton fields, "Invention," a tableau of homage to the pioneers of the cotton industry—Arkwright, Kaye, Crompton, Cartwright, Hargreaves, and others; "Capital, Labour, and Industry," and "Lancashire," "Cotton the Universal Fabric." To quote the programme, "It (cotton) goes forth in many guises; fine nainsook for the first clothes of new-born babes; stout canvas for the hatchways of ships; tinted with the most delicate hues; full-coloured to match the glamour of the Orient. In palace, prison, counting-house, cottage, hospital, barrack-room is cotton.

. . . It marks the confines of civilisation and aids its progress."

These and other emblematical groups—interspersed with the latest looms and all kinds of appliances used in the spinning and manufacture of cotton—passed before the wondering eyes of thousands upon thousands of people who packed the streets on this brilliant day in September.

DISPLAY BY THE GENERAL TRADES.

The General Trades procession—which followed that representing the textile industry—was equally remarkable as an historical survey. It was especially rich in contrasts. Railway developments, for instance, were illustrated by an array of models dating from the "Rocket" to one of the latest expresses, and transport evolution was exhibited as beginning with a pack-horse and ending with a modern steam waggon and motor charabanc. The stage coach of the 18th century was contrasted with the latest Rolls-Royce. The extraordinary number and diversity of trades had a bewildering effect on the spectators, and no doubt among a few invited comparisons with the sober displays of the shovel-hatted, long-coated, knee-breeched craftsmen—when in their holiday garb—of the 18th century as pictured in the records of the Guild processions of that day—each company headed by a couple of fiddlers and a piper.

It may be worth mentioning here that the tailors in 1822 had a fierce controversy with the gardeners as to who should take precedence. They claimed to be the most ancient trade in the world. Both they and the gardeners traced their origin to the Garden of Eden. The tailors raked up the fig leaf episode, and sought support for their argument in the "Breeches" bible. They refused to walk—though the master tailors were not so particular—and did not relent till 40 years after. The tailors were second in the General Trades Procession this year, and their exhibits included juveniles and adults dressed in the prevailing habits of 1800, 1820, 1840, 1860, and 1870, while a certain number

Among the distinctive tableaux in the procession were the representations of an old village smithy scene and a modern shoeing forge on a lurry; two vehicles showing old and new methods of boot making, including working machinery; printing throughout the centuries, with a group in which Caxton is showing specimens of his printing to King Edward IV and Queen Phillipa; "The Birth of Rubber," representing a scene on a rubber plantation, with groups illustrating the tapping, coagulating, and smoking of rubber, rubber plantation hand-washing machines in operation with attendant coolies; a monster model of Windsor Castle, built and carved in white Windsor soap. The progress of light was symbolised by figures representing early Britons obtaining fire with flint and iron, Sir Isaac Newton writing his treatise on gravitation by the aid of candle light, an Early Victorian leaning against a street gas lamp reading the first number of Pickwick, and a figure typifying electricity. There were many interesting models illustrating the harnessing of electricity, and immediate developments in wireless were foreshadowed by a figure of Britannia communicating with Columbia by wireless telephony. The beginning of the story of the navigation of the Ribble was illustrated by a prehistoric boat actually excavated from the bed of the river, and the present stage in the march of civilisation was represented by a large model of a modern cargo steamer.

In keeping with the spirit of the age, women's work—as a distinct and homogenous department—found a place in the procession—and for the first time in Guild history. The Lancashire Federation of Women's Institutes, which is doing so much to brighten village life (under the chairmanship of Mrs. Assheton, of Clitheroe), massed a large number of the young women from the institutes, who displayed examples of the home-crafts that they practise—hat, toy, lace, and basket making, embroidery, knitting, leather work, &c. A number of land girls walked in front of the lurry.

THE FRIENDLY SOCIETIES.

The Amalgamated Friendly Societies made a brave show on the Thursday morning. At the head of the Orange Procession, in which 1,250 took part, was a mounted man who represented the Prince of Orange. The Rechabites followed with tableaux and regalia, and then came a fine parade of over 1,000 members of the Independent Order of Oddfellows (M.U.) Preston District. Two represented "Friendship, Love, and Truth," and tableaux "England, Scotland, Wales, Ireland, and the Colonies." Twentysix boys and girls formed tableaux of the nationalities, each being dressed in national costume. A third group, which brought up the rear of one of the lodges, symbolised the granting in 1820 by the Duke of York Lodge of a dispensation at Baltimore for the formation of the first American Lodge of Oddfellows. An attractive tableau was that representing the work of the British and Foreign Sailors' Society. On and about a captain's bridge erected on a lurry were characters suggesting the countries whose sailors are able to benefit by the operation of the Society. The Sons of Temperance—each of whom wore a special Guild medal—were 2,000 strong, and the Preston Temperance Society made a pretty display in which the children played the chief parts, representing fairies, characters from nursery rhymes, and favourite personages in romance and history. Members of the Royal Antediluvian Order of Buffaloes (Grand Lodge of England) made an impressive show with their full regalia. The processionists included high officials of the Order from many parts of the country from North-umberland to Worcestershire and Wales. The Good Templars brought up the rear of the procession, and there were one or two effective tableaux designed to illustrate the happiness and comfort that attended a well-regulated practice of the principles of temperance.

THE LADIES' PROCESSION.

It is interesting to note that on this day (Thursday), women's important place in the social scheme was officially recognised. The ladies of the town and district were received by the Guild Mayoress (Mrs. Astley-Bell), at the Guild Hall, in the morning, and afterwards proceeded, headed by the town standard and full regalia, to the Parish Church, where a sermon was preached by the Bishop of Exeter.

It is worth pointing out that the Ladies' Procession is the revival of an old custom, but in former days the processionists were ladies of "high degree," each one of whom was accompanied by a subservient cavalier, while their sisters, who were less favoured by fortune, looked on admiringly, if not enviously. But at the 1922 Guild all were equal. There was a fine democratic aspect about the procession. It appeared as if all the citizenesses of the town had turned out en masse to take part in the parade. Women workers in many social fields rallied round the Mayoress. There was one lady Town Councillor—as yet a department by herself and lady county magistrates-an undreamt of thing at comparatively recent Guilds. There were "lady officials of the Corporation "-also a modern innovation-Girl Guides (with their County Commissioner and Staff), the Matron and Staff of the Royal Infirmary, Lady Superintendent and Staff Nursing Division St. John Ambulance Brigade, and the Assistant Matron and Staff of Moor Park Hospital, an institute necessitated by and created during the war.

THE THREE DAYS' GUILD PAGEANT.

THE STORY OF "PROUD PRESTON."

The high water mark of pageantry was touched on the Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, when over 11,000 children were the actors in a stupendous drama. There was presented in three great divisions the story of Preston—a magnificent trilogy covering the Saxon, Norman, and Tudor periods, and dealing particularly with the formation and fortunes of the Guild Merchant. The teachers and scholars of the Elementary and Secondary Schools had been at work for months on the theme under the Director of Education (Mr. A. J. Berry, M.A.), the Master of the Pageant, who wrote a "Book of Words" which contained not only interesting and appropriate dialogue, but was full of information about the Guild and studded with interesting comments on mediæval customs, local and general. The parents of the children co-operated whole-heartedly, and helped materially to provide the wardrobe necessary for the effective presentation of the drama. The costumes of the various periods were correctly reproduced, and the "properties" were ample and historically accurate down to the minutest detail.

The stage was the amphitheatre of Avenham Park, and there was fine scope for manœuvring the vast army of actors. On the terraced slope in the background were massed many hundreds of children, who were the chorus so to speak. The spacious level greensward in front formed the stage where the action mainly took place; and there was unlimited space for the auditorium in the plain that formed the foreground. Here was a natural theatre enclosed in a framework of forest trees, and a theatre which needed but very few adjuncts of the scenic artist.

In this sheltered vale on a beautiful summer's afternoon the great drama was opened. We are at Ripon on an Easter Eve some centuries ago, and the scene is introduced by the massed choristers singing an evening prayer. Bishop Wilfrid appears with his assistant priests, one of whom, named Boniface, is appointed to head a mission to lands on the banks of the Ribble, where, at Preston, it is intended to build a church. Wilfrid's representative ultimately arrives at Preston with a company of Monks, and finds the people engaged in agricultural pursuits. In the next episode we have an incursion of the Danes, who, after slaying the parish priest and creating much general havoc, retreat to their boats on the Ribble. The next episode represents the formation of the Guild Merchant.

The Norman era is opened with the entry of Roger of Poitou, and later comes the visit of Edward I, who passes through Preston on his way to Scotland. The monarch, already sick unto death, expires at Burgh-on-Sands. Then there is a thrilling scene provided by the invasion of Bruce and the Scots.

The story is resumed on the second day with the annual festival of the Guild. The freemen gather round the festive board, the accounts are checked, a collection is made for the poor, and the loving cup is passed round. Here we are introduced to one of the finest pictures in the whole pageant—a play within a play—and a wonderfully serene production. It is a mystery play, entitled, "The Angels and the Shepherds," and follows in almost every particular the lines of the sacred drama that was actually performed by the Chandlers of York during the 14th and 15th centuries. The procession of the angelic host in shimmering silver and white robes descending the hill was most exquisite.

The story then passes on into the eventful years of the Dissolution, and we have among the incidents connected with the loss of the property of the religious houses, chantries, and guilds, the visit of the Earl of Derby to Preston with a troop of soldiers carrying pikes and halberds. The natural facilities of the Park afforded great scope for a martial display, and the actors made the most of their opportunities. The mounted Earl and his glittering retinue, marching to the rhythmic taps of the drum, made up a fine military spectacle.

In the next episode we are in the "spacious days" of Queen Elizabeth, and amid scenes of dazzling splendour at the palace of the Tudor monarchs at Greenwich, the Mayor of Preston is presented to the Queen. He asks that the privileges that have been granted from time immemorial to the Borough of Preston by her illustrious predecessors may be renewed. Her Majesty graciously consents. In the next scene we are present at the general rejoicings at Preston, to which the Mayor has returned with Queen Elizabeth's Charter. His Worship is also able to present to the townsmen Roger Ascham, Queen Elizabeth's old tutor, as their representative in Parliament.

The story of the Guild practically ends here, and the next scenes which bring a romantic record to a close are devoted to a representation of "Merrie England," and a magificent allegory, entitled, "Pageant of Empire: Past and Present," in which the whole of the histrionic resources of the teachers and school children are brought into play. This gorgeous climax was reached on the Saturday, amid the plaudits of many thousands of spectators.

OTHER INTERESTING EVENTS.

During the week there were many other festal and commemorative events, including a Guild Mayoral Luncheon, the unveiling by Lord Derby of a war memorial in the Parish Church to the Officers, N.C.O.'s and men of the 2nd Batt. (Loyal North Lancs.), an Inaugural Ball, a grand Costume Ball, a Juvenile Fancy Dress Ball, and a miscellaneous Concert given by the Choral Society in the Public Hall, while on the illuminated Market Square every evening and in the smaller Parks bands played for dancing. Friday morning the foundation stone of the extension of the Nurses' Home at the Royal Infirmary was laid by the Guild Mayor, and an electro-massage department was opened by the Guild Mayoress (Mrs. Astley-Bell, J.P.) There was, of course, that great event, the holding of the Royal Lancashire Agricultural Show in Moor Park, which the Guild Mayor visited in state on the Wednesday afternoon. An account of this magnificent exhibition—the most successful ever held in connection with the Royal Lancashire Agricultural Society—appears elsewhere in the present volume.

CLOSING SCENES AT THE GUILD COURT.

On Saturday we were back again in the real historical atmosphere—among scenes which evoked romantic genealogical recollections—when the Guild Court, almost torgotten in the feverish festivities of a glorious week was summoned at the Guild Hall to transact some important business, and to perform the quaint ceremonies connected with the prorogation of the Court for two decades. At noon the Guild Mayor took the Chair. He was accompanied by the three stewards, Aldermen J. C Hamilton, W. E. Ord, and J. Ormrod. Assembled behind were the remaining Aldermen-who, with the officials, constituted the Guild Court—and the whole body of the Councillors of the Borough. The Guild Mayor was also supported by the Recorder (Mr. E. W. Wingate-Saul, KC), the Chaplam (Canon Morris), and several new Guild Burgesses, including the little son of Mr. Cuthbert de Hoghton, whose forbears have their names recorded on every Guild Roll as far back as 1397

On the entrance of the Guild Clerk (Mr. A. Howarth), the Sergeant-at-Mace stepped forward, and ore rotundo delivered himself of the following proclamation: -- "Ovez! Ovez! Ovez! All manner of persons that are Free Burgesses of this Borough of Preston, in the County Palatine of Lancaster, whether inhabitants of the Borough or foreigners [all Freemen living outside Preston were foreigners, 'Burgenses fforinscci'] who have had public summons or notice to appear at this time and place for the more solemn holding and keeping of a Guild Merchant within and for this Borough of Preston, according to the ancient usage and custom thereof, draw near and give your attendance." According to immemorial custom the Guild Mayor exercised his privilege of admitting three in-burgesses by conferring the honour on his three stewards. He then announced, "I do also exercise the privilege attaching to my office as Guild Mayor of this Borough of Preston of admitting some of the nobility or other persons of honour and distinction as in-burgesses of this Borough.

Then followed a list of a dozen or so of persons of local and district personages, including the Bishop of Whalley, representatives of the landed interest, of industry, and men generally esteemed for the value of their public services. The Guild Mayor was himself admitted as an in-burgess by the stewards. Then the Guild Clerk, addressing the assembly as "brethren," asked if they approved of the ordinations which were consonant to the laudable customs of preceding Guilds "So be it!" was the loud and unanimous response of the audience.

Then the Guild Clerk, using a candle, having affixed the seal of the Borough to the book, and the Guild Mayor having appended his signature, held aloft the volume, exclaiming at the time, "Here is your law! God Save the King!" "Amen," responded the burgesses with one voice. The Sergeant-at-Mace again stepped forward, and having made the dramatic proclamation, "The Court is adjourned for 20 years!" the curtain, so to speak, descended on the last act of the historic drama of the Guild of 1922.

The festivities of the week were wound up with a Torchlight Procession on Saturday night. There had been most brilliant weather—indeed, with perhaps the exception of Whit week, the Guild week was the most favoured week, meteorologically, of the whole year—and the crowds, day and night, were enormous. It was estimated that between 600,000 and 700,000 visitors arrived in the town by road and rail. From whatever angle the Guild of 1922 was observed, it beat all previous records.

THE PRESTON GUILD SHOW OF 1922

By HAROLD HOLDERNESS

THATEVER the future may have in store it is practically certain that the Royal Lancashire Show held at Preston during the Guild celebrations of 1922 will stand out as one of the most brilliant in the Society's long history. To visitors, whose numbers were legion, to exhibitors, especially in the trade section, and to those directly and indirectly associated with its promotion, the exhibition leaves memories, and future generations seeing a profit of over £15,000 in the financial records may be expected to turn back the pages of the Journal to enquire what manner of meeting this golden Guild Exhibition must have been. The triumph is the more remarkable the more one cogitates upon the circumstances of The period of artificial trade prosperity had not long been passed, and serious depression was only beginning when, in the summer of 1921, Oldham made the then record contribution to the local fund of £5,505. Stagnation continued in the staple manufacturing industries, and agriculturists in the arable areas were being severely hit by the slump in the prices of produce when the Preston local Committee was formed in 1922, and passed a resolution pledging itself to endeavour to raise at least £5,000, but modestly abstained from making any public declaration to the effect that if Oldham's figures were not surpassed it would not be through lack of effort No Committee entrusted with so formidable a task, at such a period, could have desired more forceful leaders than the Guild Mayor (Alderman H. Astley-Bell, J.P.), and Mr. Alex. Foster, J.P., the Chairman and Vice-Alderman Astley-Bell performed the duties of his high office in an eventful year with the distinction and ability that commanded the admiration of every townsman, and though the visit of the Royal Lancashire was only one amongst many and varied interests engaging his attention, His Worship was most anxious that the hospitality offered to this great spectacular and educational Show should be worthy of the Town and of the occasion. In the determination to give practical expression to this desire, His Worship had an enthusiastic colleague in Mr. Alex. Foster, whose services have been of inestimable value to public institutions that have enlisted his active co-operation. As the result of their personal interviews or written appeals, which supplemented the promises amounting to over £1,000 made at the inaugural meeting, the fund rose with a rapidity rarely if ever equalled Thirty-one subscribers, the majority connected with the staple industry of the town and district, contributed three-figure cheques, and with the smaller sums sent direct to the Town Hall, or gathered by a large body of collectors consisting of members of the local Committee, the officials were soon happy in the knowledge that Preston had not only redeemed its pledge but had beaten all records by raising £7,621.

In connection with this first of a series of triumphs which attended the Show, acknowledgment must be given of the services of the Town Clerk (Mr. Alfred Howarth), the Borough Treasurer (Mr. Alison Davies), Hon. Secretary and Hon. Treasurer respectively, and the members of their staffs The Society's jealously guarded honour—that of Honorary Life Vice-Presidentship was conferred upon the Guild Mayor and Mr. Foster, in the presence of a largely attended General Meeting of Members, who enthusiastically endorsed the action of the Council in choosing this method of recognising eminent services.

The Society's Council and officials on their part took care that in its staging and Stock attractions the exhibition should, if possible, excel its highest traditions and become a sort of pivot in the Guild week attractions—a rendezvous and rallying point for the crowds who, once every twenty years, come to Preston from all parts of the kingdom and also from overseas to witness the celebrations of this centuries-old festival The prize list of over £5,000 was the most handsome the Society has ever offered, and in several important departments the entries set up new figures, notably in cattle, where the total of 454 was 200 more than the previous year and nearly 250 more than at the Guild Show of 1902. Not less noteworthy than these remarkable increases were the changes which two decades had wrought in this department. In the chedule of 1902 there was only one class in which an attempt was made to draw a distinction between the beef and dairy types of Pedigree Shorthorns. While fashion had changed for the better in the case of the former, marked progress had been made in the evolution of the dual purpose animal, indicating the possibility of combining high producing powers with wealth of frame and constitution. A large entry of non-pedigree Dairy Shorthorns reflected the keen rivalry that has sprung up in this section of the Shows in recent years, and the classes for recorded cattle, in which there was a gratifying entry, represented an important movement of comparatively recent origin which is establishing a race of stock with milk pedigrees. Twenty years ago the practice of systematically weighing the yields of dairy cows was limited to isolated stockkeepers, but the milk recording movement is now spreading throughout the land, and hundreds of herds are being checked by societies established in practically every County and operating under the rules of the Ministry of Agriculture. The movement which has long since passed the experimental stage in speeding up the work of eliminating the unprofitable cow, and opening a wide field of research and experiment, especially in the direction of the rationing of cattle.

Four classes were devoted to British Friesians, which were rarely seen or talked about in this county twenty years ago but have been brought into prominence within comparatively recent times by reason of their great dairy force, their successes in show and herd competitions, and the activities of an enterprising breed Light horses were 80 fewer than at the previous Guild Show, but the motor car had not then seriously challenged the Hackney, some of the choicest Studs in the country were established in Lancashire, and the roadmakers had not learned the art of giving a steel-like surface to macadam that renders highways and some of the byc ways unfit for horses to travel on and forces many of the farmers who would be adequately served by the old system of traction to buy motors and to pay heavily in rates for public services necessitated by the modern craze for Shires were only 34 fewer than the record for this section in 1902, a fact worthy of note considering the temporary depression in trade, the cost of transport of stock by rail, and an adverse season for agriculture calculated to damp enthusiasm and detract attention from the work of preparing stock for show. was a record entry of pigs, and in sheep, with the exception of two, the figures were identical with those of the previous Guild Shropshires, Oxford Downs, Herdwicks, and Leicesters or Longwools were then catered for, but none of these breeds had a place in the schedule on the present occasion, thus emphasising once more the changes in tastes and ideas a brief span of years can bring. Goats reappeared in the County Showyard for the first time for a number of years, due to the revival of interest in the breed stimulated in Lancashire, particularly by the formation of a county association which in the first twelve months of its existence has taken practical steps in the direction of improving the breed and in increasing the production of milk of a quality and purity which makes it eminently suitable for children and invalids.

The Show taking place a month later in the season than usual, the Poultry Committee decided to revert to the original plan of limiting all classes to birds born in the current year, and the entry of over 900 was proof that the change had been appreciated and incidentally a reminder of the enormous development that has taken place in the poultry industry. Within the past twenty years the trap nest has aided breeders in evolving the utility fowl On the majority of farms two decades ago the farm yard fowls were nondescripts; there were no definite means of differentiating between the passengers and the producers in the flock, and the owners were apparently satisfied to be able to pick up a few eggs occasionally. To-day there are few holdings without one or more fields dotted with cabins and flecked with fowls of pure utility strains—literally egg machines with a capacity for output undreamt of a quarter of a century ago. In short, poultry keeping, especially in Lancashire, has become an important industry and a considerable source of revenue on farms where thorough and businesslike methods have been adopted.

In accepting the presidency for the year, Mr. R. A. Tatton, J.P., D.L., Cuerden Hall, provided a link between the shows and Guilds of the past, inasmuch as his grandfather, Mr. Robert Townley Parker, was Guild Mayor in 1862, when the Royal North Lancashire, as it was then known, was held in the town, and an earlier representative of his family, Mr. Robert Parker, also of Cuerden, was Guild Mayor in 1762. But more important than sentimental associations was the fact that Mr. Tatton gave a generous lead to the local fund, took the deepest interest in the arrangements, and during the four days the Show was in progress devoted practically the whole of his time to the duties of his office. Mr. Windham E. Hale, C.C. again rendered signal service as Chairman, a position he has filled since 1909, and Lancastrians who have knowledge of the value of Mr. Hale's leadership, in this and other spheres of County agriculture, noted with pleasure that the Council had conferred upon him the Honorary Life Vice-Presidency, at a gathering held subsequent to the brilliant Guild Show.

The Showyard spread over 66 acres of Moor Park, one of the best sites any municipality could offer, being level, conveniently situated, and approached by Tramways from two sides. The area was considerably larger than that occupied on the Society's last visit in 1912, and was double the size of the field which sufficed for the Oldham meeting the previous year. The shedding and stands were well planned, and not the least pleasing feature of the structural arrangements was the large ring, 170 yards long by 70 yards wide, flanked on three sides by grand stands with seating accommodation for about 2,300 persons. The Society again undertook the catering arrangements, and in anticipation of unusual demands upon this service added to the equipment of the kitchens and extended the dining pavilions to hold 2,500 persons at one sitting.

The Guild Week weather was regarded as a wonderful dispensation in a summer which had had few dry intervals. The overhead conditions were unsettled and the outlook dismal until the eve of the Festival when there came a swift and magic change. For several successive days there were Venetian skies which, after the Show and the Carnival were over, clouded just as rapidly as they had cleared, and the rains resumed their work of hampering harvest. It was a happy coincidence that Old Sol should have been in his best mood just for the period of the Carnival, for the settled weather gave such confidence to travellers by road and rail that it was calculated Preston received a million visitors during No wonder that new attendance records were set up. especially on the opening day, Wednesday, September 6th, when the Trades Processions, the most novel and, therefore, the most attractive of the pageants, brought an immense population to the In the afternoon there was an unparalleled invasion of the Show for the first day, 25,296 persons paying the 5s. admission fee, compared with Oldham's record of 8,747 the previous year, and a total of 4,902 at the Preston Guild Show of 1902. three subsequent days the Historical Pageants on Avenham Park were powerful counter attractions, yet a second day record was set up on Thursday when 33,535 persons passed the turnstiles, compared with the average of 11,222 for five shows, and the previous highest total of 29,013 in 1902. Friday's attendance was 31,853, compared with the average of 27,318, and the last Guild Show total of 34,277. Saturday's figures reached 27,473 compared with the average of 30,547 for the five preceding shows and a total of 14,191 on the corresponding day at the 1902 Guild. The total number of people paying for admission on the four days was 118,157, or nearly 1,000 more than the Burnley record of 1913. On that occasion, however, nearly half the total, 53,270, was scored on a popular day, whereas Preston's records were made on the 5s. and 3s. days.

SHORTHORNS

The entries in the classes for beef Shorthorns were more numerous than for several years. Foot-and-mouth disease in some parts of the country accounted for several herds being unrepresented, but the numbers forward were sufficient to make an attractive display. In the open class of bulls, calved in or before 1919, there was a trial of st-ength between Mr. Wm. Richardson's Basing CXXV., and the Earl of Derby's London Dairy Show winner, Knowsley Carol Dolphin. The former, which triumphed, was a handsome roan, possessing a wealth of smooth flesh and very neat line. The white bull from Knowsley had also great substance but was fashioned more on dairy lines. Mr. Oliver W. Porritt, who has built up excellent herds at Helmshore and in the Midlands, commenced a series of successes in two-yearold bulls with a red of his own breeding in Hotchley Rubican, a son of Sanquahat Grand Courtier, which won the championship at the Darlington Royal for Mr. Porritt. In this group he beat Mr. F. B. Wilkinson's Rosewood bull, Basildon Royalist, and the Hon. Mrs. Bruce-Ward's Godinton Grand Duke. Mr. Porritt also secured first and second places in bulls, calved in 1921, with Musbury Magnate and Hotchley Advocate. The former, bred on the heights at Helmshore, was a deep, thick, symmetrical roan, very attractive in colour and conformation, and he was subsequently awarded the Derby Challenge Cup as the best bull in the show bred by the exhibitor, and the "Makant" Challenge Cup for the best bull born in the year prior to the show and bred by the exhibitor resident in the County and a member of the Royal Lancashire.

Cows calved in or before 1918 were led by Mr. Wm. Woof's Rosebud, a wealthy deep and neat dark roan by Smiling Yet, and fitted with a capital bag for a cow bred on beef lines. Another stylish dark roan lollowed in Mr. Harold Mather's Champion Butterfly 4th, by Favourite Rosewood. The Hon. Mrs. Bruce Ward's Bilsington Alexandrina 5th, a well-spread rich roan with a typical headpiece, was decorated with the red rosette in heifers calved in 1919, and the second was Mr. Mather's very pretty but less massive Maid of Strickland. The third, of charming outline, but also handicapped in scale, was Mr. F. W. Wilkinson's Willow Warbler which had something to give away in age.

Heifers born in 1920 brought out the female champion of the Show in Mr. O. W. Porritt's Hotchley Countess, a Sanguhar Grand Courtier roan, which had a distinguished career as a yearling, and has since developed on right lines. She was a well spread heifer of beautiful mould, level in top and underlines, and her gaiety of carriage gave full effect to her physical charms. taking the "Astley-Bell" 25 Guineas Challenge Cup, presented by the Guild Mayor and Mayoress of Preston, for the best cow or heifer in the Show, she enabled her owner to secure all the cup honours in this section. In yearling heifers, the home-bred red, Musbury Graceful, by Mainstay, was placed second to Mr. Jas. Wignall's Notlaw Bellona 26th, a younger heifer, but of exquisite mould and colour. Mr. F. B. Wilkinson's Tuxford Waterloo 4th, by Swinton Lord Broadhooks, was third, and in the reserve position Mr. Porritt had Hotchley Queen 3rd, another of the Sanquher Grand Courtier get.

In the County classes Mr. Porritt', stock again scored heavily, and other prize winners included the Earl of Derby's Knowsley Carol Dolphin, Mr. R. A. Tatton's Royal Guard, a roan by Moresby Stamp, Mr. A. N. Dugdale's Roseman by Royal Stockman, Mr. G. W. Isherwood's Snowdon Blythesome, by Carbon, and Mr. E. P. Bracken's Southley Clipper Star, by Inchfield Clipper King, in bulls; and Mr. G. Cock's Hambleton Sybil, and Hambleton Clara, Mr. A. N. Dugdale's Newland Lady Grey, Mr. R. Cock's Rossall Wild Eyes, Mr. J. R. Lawson's Wesham Marigold, and Wesham Timbrel, and Mr. T. R. Wilkins' Longton Wild Eyes, in the female classes.

PEDIGREE DAIRY SHORTHORNS

The great crowd which followed the judging of the pedigree dairy Shorthorns was indicative of the popularity of this dual purpose and widely spread breed. The male classes compared unfavourably with those for females, the latter excelling both in numbers and general standard of quality. In bulls calved previous to 1921 the Earl of Derby's Knowsley Carol Dolphin had chief honours, and later took Lord Leverhulme's Champion Challenge Cup as the best Lancashire-bred exhibit of either sex in the pedigree dairy Shorthorn classes. In the yearling class there was not a great deal to choose between Mrs. Fitz-Hugh's Lockenham Solus and Major R. W. Cooper's Colescombe Dolphin 2nd, which were placed in the order named The latter had a very smart appearance on parade but was not so massive as the leader. There was a big turnout in the class for cows in milk, calved in or before 1918. "Handsome is as handsome does," and the first two to be pulled up by the judge, gave yields which justified the choice. The winner was Mr. A. R. Fish's Princess May, a sappy, short-legged cow, deep red in colour, with robust level fleshed frame, handsome headpiece, a square vessel and a lot of quality. She had recently calved, and gave 35lb. 4oz. in the ring. Next came Mr. H. H. Owtram's Cockerham Barbara. a roan of Mr. G. B. Nelson's breeding. She was much older than the winner and was not so full of flesh, but she was fitted with a good bag and contributed 31lb. 14oz. in the ring. The Duke of Westminster's Spency Rose 13th, which was third, gave 30lb. 4oz. The Eaton herd, however, triumphed in the next group for cows or heifers calved in 1919, and later stood reserve for Lord Leverhulme's Cup with Bare Rosette, a roan, daughter of Ireby Dandy and bred by Mr. R. Hall, at Torrisholme Hall, Morecambe. this, her show ring debut, she attracted attention for her outstanding dairy qualities. She had been calved a fortnight and her yield was 22lb. 14oz. She had a strong rival in the second, Mr. H. H. Owtram's Newland Poppy 38th, a robust home-bred roan with a capital bag and teat. She gave 22lb. 8oz. Lord Henry Bentinck's Rose of Lorn 14th, a smart cow on lesser lines, was third.

Mr. Owtram's Newland Hall herd provided the first and second prize winners in two-year-old heifers in Newland Barbara and Newland Dainty 9th, both home-bred roans with dairy character. In a good group of cows in calf, born in or before 1918, the winner was Mr. W. L. Lea's Berth 29th, a very sweet Kelmscott-bred cow with an excellent outlook, good top line, an exceptional bag, and the further advantage of youth. Mr. Jas. Ainscough's Fairhurst Hall herd was represented in the second place by Fairy Duchess, a neat smoothly fleshed roan by Hawkrigg Gem, and well hold of a shapely vessel, but she had more age over her head than the leader. The third, one of the youngest in the class, was Messrs R Silcock & Sons' Fylde Valentine 15th, a daughter of Fylde Peer 4th, a bull, with a rare heritage of milk. Mr. Wm. Bateman scored in heifers born in or after 1919 with Clea Primrose 3rd, a grand quality and well ribbed, dark roan by Waterloo Pride, with every promise of making a good bag. The second, also from the same district as the winner, was Mr. J. E. Irving's Lunesdale Crossrigg 3rd, very attractive, and a strong rival.

There were six entries in the class for non-pedigree Shorthorn dairy cows, entered or eligible for entry in the Register of the Dairy Shorthorn Association, but only two came forward. The positions were soon decided and the red rosette was placed on Mr. A. Howarth's Silverton Pride, a nine-year-old red and little white, bred by Mr. J. L. Shirley, and having an immense udder beneath her large frame. Younger and on lesser lines was Mr. J. H. Robinson's Primrose.

MILK RECORDED CATTLE

Those interested in the advancement of milk recording were gratified to see the four classes devoted to stock belonging to members of the Lancashire Milk Recording Society draw 37 entries of cattle of robust type. Both in numbers and quality the show was in marked contrast with those of the two preceding years. The cows entered were to have given over 8,000lbs. in a recording year or an average of 6,500lbs. for two years, and it was stipulated that hei ers were not to have calved their second calf prior to June 1st, 1922, and must have given not less than 5,000lbs. of milk during the first lactation period of 45 consecutive weeks. The smallest group was that for cows in milk where Mr. Nathan Hardman won with Rose, not built on the biggest lines but well equipped with dairying tackle. The Whittingham Hall herd filled the second and third positions with robust dairy Shorthorns. The in-calf cows made a very strong group, and chief honours, all the more to be coveted because of the formidable opposition, went to Messrs. W. Holgate & Son's Sawley Red Roan, a big wealthy seven-year-old cow with lots of tackle to expand on coming into profit. To her was given Dr. Milburn's Challenge Cup for the best animal in the recorded classes. Second in the class was Mr. Jas. Ainscough's Fairy Duchess 14th, which held a corresponding position among the pedigree dairy Shorthorns and was now overpowered by a weightier rival. Mr. George Cock's Hambleton Sybil was third. Her herd companion, Hambleton Dewdrop, a very dairy-like light roan, clean in flesh, came to the top in the class for heifers in milk. Mr. John Almond's Salwick was second, Mr. N. Hardman's home-bred May, third, and the fourth ticket went to Mr. T. Stuart's Sowerby Carnation. Mr. R. Whalley's Lodge Champion, rich in dairy qualities, headed the in-calf heifers and beat Mr. J. H. Porter's Golden Butterfly, a thick short-legged roan by Thornby Golden Rod, Messrs. R. Silcock & Sons' Fylde Valentine 15th was third, and another smart heifer from Mr. Porter's Hambleton herd stood fourth.

The Show marked a forward step in the milk recording movement in the county. The Lancashire Milk Recording Society had an office on the ground, and in the adjoining shed a splendid object lesson as to the value of recording was provided by two dairy cows sent from the Whittingham Hall herd. They had been housed and fed under identical conditions, but while one had a 1,600 gallon yield the other had only 500 The first cow certainly possessed the greater signs of dairy force, but the difference was not so marked as to suggest she had treble the productive capacity of her companion. This exhibit attracted wide attention and comment. It may be safely said that the great disparity in yields would never have been discovered in a large herd but for the use of the tell-tale spring balance The low yielder was a first prizewinner at shows at two important centres of dispersal for dairy stock, and presumably would be selected by the judges because she had "signs" of dairy force as well as a good frame. A cow that stood second to her at one of those exhibitions subsequently passed into the same herd, and her record sheets proved that she had produced quite three times the quantity of milk of the animal that beat her.

DAIRY CATTLE

There was a strong entry of dairy cattle of any age, breed or crossbreed, and keen interest was manifested in the judging which took place in the large ring on the second day. Two of the six groups were open and the remaining four were limited to the County Palatine. Many of the animals had been seen in competition the previous day, and though they now came before a different adjudicator, most of the earlier decisions were confirmed. In a big group of cows in milk, Mr. A. R. Fish's Princess May repeated her triumph of Wednesday when she scored among the pedigree Shorthorns. She again came out in rare bloom and made a real picture on parade. Captain Arnold Wills' Thurnham Queen 3rd, a daughter of Lord Heggle, bred by Messrs. Charnley, near Lancaster, was left well down the line in her class on Wednesday, but she was now looking much fitter, showed herself to better advantage, and finished second. She was a youthful rich roan. beautifully fleshed, and held an exceptionally good bag with correctly placed teats. The third was Mr. N. Hardman's roan Buttercup, a grand dairy type, which was unfortunate in having to meet pedigree dairy Shorthorns of such outstanding merit.

Over a score of animals paraded in the open class for cows to calve within three months, and this assemblage of wealthy, coloury cattle was worth a long journey to see. It was a notable achievement for Mr. Nathan Hardman to provide the first and second prize winners in a company of such size and merit. Mr. Timothy Procter was third. In the County classes chief honours went to Messrs. A. R. Fish, N. Hardman, and T. Procter.

FRIESIANS AND JERSEYS

The deep milking black and whites had a good representation although two or three prospective exhibitors were unable to send their cattle forward owing to foot-and-mouth disease restrictions. The bull class had a notable leader in Mr. G. B. Radcliffe's 3,500 guinea bull Tarvin (Imp.) Mazeppa, a winner at the "Royal" and other shows, and a grandly-modelled and typical representative The second was Commander H. Dewhurst's Sudbourne Bertus 6th, a well-bred bull, descended from directly imported blood, but scarcely so classy as the leader. Only three of the nine entries in the class for cows were forward and two of these proved strong rivals, chief favours eventually going to Mr. Radcliffe's Tarvin Garland, which was second at the "Royal," and champion at several other shows. She was followed by Mr. D. Mossley's Kingswood Gem, a six-year-old cow of Mr. Horace Hale's breeding. There was a good class of heifers calved in 1919 The red rosette was placed on the Longford Farms' Chaddesley Peggy, which was second at the "Royal," and now beat a younger heifer in Mr. Radcliffe's Tarvin (imported) Janke, that commanded a long price at the historic sale of the consignment received from South Africa.

The winning yearling heifer and the recipient of the 50 Guineas Challenge Cup, presented by Mr. John Horridge for the best female in the Friesian classes, was Lt.-Col. W. E. Harrison's Wychnor Lornus, bred by the exhibitor, by Wychor Fritz out of a cow by the noted Terling (imported) Vic. Bertus. Full of character, sweet and symmetrical, and correct in markings, she is a heifer of distinction, and was reserve champion in a much bigger assemblage of her breed at the "Royal." Mr. John Horridge was second in the class with Rhyl Lilac 2nd, a daughter of Wigginton Johan.

The "Blythwood" Bowl, for the best Jersey cow or heifer in milk, was awarded Mrs. Evelyn, of Dorking, for Dahlia 4th, which has had a wonderful show career. She was beautifully fashioned, full of quality, and retained a firm hold of a balanced vessel of great capacity. Reserve for the Cup was Colonel L. G. Gisborne's Somerley Ceres, the winner in the class for heifers calved in 1919 or 1920. Chief honours in bulls went to Mr. A. E. Bond's Italicus, a two-year-old by Xenias Sultan. Mr. Isaac B. Wilson, of Grange-over-Sands, in which district there are several choice herds of these Channel Islands' cattle, received second and third prizes, the former for Broughton General, bred by M1. D P. Maguire, and the latter for Hawthorn, bred by the exhibitor. The same herd also supplied the second prize winner in heifers calved in 1919 or 1920. The other Lancashire exhibitor to receive a prize card was Mr. C. R. Baron, of Broughton, near Pieston, whose home-bred Brookland's Maud was third in yearling heifers.

SHIRE HORSES

Shires produced 98 entries and, even when allowance had been made for a few absentees, the show in this department was the best the Society had furnished for some years Apart from the fact that several studs of repute were within a few miles radius of the showground, there was no doubt that a change in policy had given a fresh stimulus to competition. At Oldham, the previous year, an old problem was revived in an acute form, namely, whether prize winners in the open classes belonging to county residents should be allowed to compete in the Lancashire Farmers' Classes on the closing day of the Show. Some held the opinion that it this rule were relaxed it would have an adverse effect and that those who had succeeded in getting into the prizes in open competition had secured the honour and the advertisement that should compensate for their exclusion from district competition. felt that if there were no restrictions more stalls would be occupied for the whole period of the Show, which would be more advantageous than having a little extra influx on the closing day. At a meeting of the stewards this question was discussed and the outcome was that the Society agreed to remove the ban on prize winners in the open classes in cattle as well as in the heavy horse sections. and there is no doubt that this experiment contributed to the successful displays in both departments.

Stallions foaled in or before 1918 brought out three notable Messrs. Jas. Forshaw & Sons led with Wyresdale Draughtsman, a massive seven-year-old brown by Monnow Drayman out of a Keddington Prince Albert mare and bred by Colonel Ormrod at Wyresdale Park, Scorton. Of great width, depth, and substance with abundant bone and hair of the desired quality and massive feet, he was brought out in rare bloom, and his size, mould, and stallion character filled the eye. Next came a strong rival and another Shire giant in Mr. J. Q. Rowett's Sundridge Nulli Secundus, a four-year-old bay son of Babingley Nulli Secundus, a massive topped and balanced horse of tremendous scope with dressy limbs to match, and liberty of movement. This horse, which was twice junior champion in London, looked very fit after a heavy season with the Great Eccleston Shire Horse Society, by whom he had been again hired for 1923 at a big fee. These positions were unchanged in the contest for Mr. J. W. Kenworthy's 50-gns. cup for the best stallion in the show, Messrs. Forshaw thus repeating their success of the previous year when March King claimed supreme honours for the Carlton stud. Third in the class came Messrs. H. & R. Ainscough's home-bred Burscough Ironclad and the champion stallion of the Bolton Show of 1920 as a three-year-old. This brown son of Claymore has developed into a handsome solid, symmetrical horse on short, classy limbs and wonderful feet, and he is always assured of an appreciative audience, either on the stand or in locomotion. He has always been in the money in London and has twice stood fifth.

First in three year olds came Mr. T. Ewart's powerfullybuilt black Dunsmore Special by Dunsmore High Cross, and the Exors. of H. Stuart sent from the Fylde an extremely weighty and well feathered bay of their own breeding in Mythop King's Choice by King's Choice out of the Bardon Forest Premier mare Ragdale Fcrest Gem, which has been shown with considerable This stallion, which stood fifth at the Cambridge "Royal," subsequently took the £10 prize and the breeders' prize of £5 for the best stallion or entire colt bred by or in the possession of a resident or occupier of agricultural land in the county, being placed in front of Burscough Ironclad for this honour. Mr. J. W. Kenworthy's Delamere Full Back, a blocky, weighty, and wellplanted bay by Champion's Goalkeeper was placed third in threeyear-olds, and Mr. John Anwyl's Brockhurst Gladiator by Primley Gladiator was reserve. Mr. J. M. Belcher's London and Royal winner, Tibberton Blood Royal by Blood Royal 2nd, a very deep wide and short-legged dark bay with a stallion outlook went to the front in two-year-olds, beating Messrs J. H. Appleby & Son's Bradgate Viscount, a brown colt of great substance by Audlam Royalist, and one that has generally stood high in the honours list. Messrs. J. & H. G. Mackereth were third with Wheeler 2nd, a Warton Dray King bay bred by Mr. W. Newhouse at Slyne. begins well at the ground and has a big span of flat bone beneath the knees and hocks, but was not so well furnished in his top as the two in front. Mr. Belcher's Tibberton Leader by Pendley Leader was an easy winner in the yearling colts, having an advantage in scale over Mr. Arthur Lindley's West Riding Masterpiece by Marden Blusterer. The third was Mr. S. Wood's Leyland Coming King, a Whitebread's Woodman bay that has been in the money at several Lancashire shows.

Out of 16 entries in brood mares about a dozen were forward, and several notable animals helped to make this class one of the best ever seen in the county showyard. The judges, Messrs. F. W. Griffin (Boro Fen) and J. R. Jones (Trystllewlyn) could not resist the charms of Mr. F. S. Freckelton's famous Pendley Lady combining the Champion's Goalkeeper and Slipton King bloods. She allies beautiful symmetry with great scale and exquisite limbs of razor-blade bone fringed with silky feather, and turned up a great foot in a long, free, and swinging stride. Another aristocrat followed in Sir Arthur Nicholson's Leek Queen, a double "Royal" champion and a product of Champion's Clansman and Roycroft Forest Queen, both of which won the London championships for Sir Arthur Nicholson's stud in one year. four-year-old bay is another Shire aristocrat, perfectly proportioned and possessing rare quality of limb, but she was not in the feather form and bloom of Pendley Lady. Messrs. Trappes-Lomax and Peel were third with Clayton Mimi, a lofty, big-footed, free-moving chestnut that has been high in the honours list at several Lanca-The Exors. of H. Stuart were reserve with the shire shows. Norbury Menestrel brown Tilton Musical, the county champion last year and cup winner at several other meetings, but she was out of condition on this occasion, and was seen at a great disadvantage.

Some smart foals were paraded. In colts the red rosette was placed on Leek Queen's big-boned brown by Pendley Leader, which had an advantage in age and substance over Mr. T. M. Watson's brown by Normanby Craftsman out of a Boro Draughts-The Exors. of H. Stuart's bay by the same sire out of Tilton Musical was smart and flash on parade, and in placing him before Mr. D. Simpson's Peel Rosewood black the judges reversed the decision at Garstang, where the last named was awarded the foal championship. The winning filly, which came from Salop, was Major G. R. Benson's big, strong bay by Bengy, not just so near the ground as some of the other foals in the class. A very good second was Mr. A. E. Penny's attractive and balanced dark bay Lund Gipsy Love, on classy limbs fringed with silky feather correctly placed. She was by Marden Dictator out of the Warrior Carlton mare Reynes Lady Love 3rd. The third was Mr. Arthur Lindley's Ruler's Forest King bay, a foal of exceptional quality and one that has won at several Lancashire and Yorkshire The reserve was Mr. John Pendlebury's Abbots Royal Blood filly, which had also held more exalted positions at earlier shows.

The Penwortham and Goosnargh champion, Mr. C. R. Baron's Bedingfield Pride, a wealthy bay by Clumber Charles and never looking fitter since she came to Lancashire, was first in barren mares, and beat another well-known but younger mare in Mr. R. T. Cunningham's Maria Monk, a four-year-old bay by Norbury Menestrel. Mr. C. Stones, junr., was third with Marnham Tandridge, a four-year-old bay by Tandridge Coming King, and Mr. Edward L. Law's powerful and big-footed Walgherton Chessie by Eaton Nunsuch was reserve.

In three year olds Mr. J. Moffat's Champion's Goalkeeper filly Pendley Vanity, which cost a very long price at the historic Pendley dispersion, was brought out wonderfully fit. She has a wide, deep, compact frame on exceptional limbs, and the judges considered her good enough to beat Mr. J. Q. Rowett's giantess Princess Childwick of Sundridge, which led her class in London in the spring and represents a fusion of the Childwick Champion and King of Tandridge bloods. Messrs. W. & J. Sumner came third with Hawton Ashleaf, a big, square, massive-limbed brown by the champion stallion of the Show, Wyresdale Draughtsman. She would have been a still more formidable rival had she been more forceful in her hind leverage. At the head of the two-year-olds way placed Messrs. A. H. Clark & Son's Moulton Messenger's Princess, a wealthy, shapely daughter of King's Messenger, with lots of flat timber, a rare grip of the ground, and a capital mover both walking and trotting. In winning here she was adding to a show record of some distinction and held out promise of achieving greater triumphs in still larger fields. Mr. Harry Jackson's Medlar Choice, a weighty, free-moving filly by Champion's Goalkeeper out of the Blythwood Kingmaker mare Medlar Fuchsia, was second, and the third, also in the hands of Lancashire breeders, was Messrs. H. Whittingham & Sons' Throstle Rosette by Warton Mascot.

Yearlings furnished the female champion of the show in Sir Arthur Nicholson's Leek Pearl, a bay by Champion's Goalkeeper out of Leek Destiny by Coronation 7th. She is one of the most remarkable fillies ever seen in the ring at her age, having a towering yet balanced frame, great depth of heart rib, and the wealthy top is carried on limbs which for massive Shire character would put many a colt to shame. At the London show in the spring she was an outstanding winner in her class, and the fact that she was junior champion there and reserve champion at the Royal will convey some idea of her character, size, and quality. These high honours she supplemented at the Preston Guild Show by beating Pendley Lady and Leek Queen for the 50 guineas trophy given by Sir Gilbert Greenall for the best mare or filly. Second in the class was Mr. J. F. Nelson's home-bred Cockerham Princess by Hadlow Prince William out of a Duke's Duplicate mare. This was the Garstang, Pilling, and Lancaster champion endowed with lots of good bone and profuse feather. Mr. J. Moffat's classy-limbed bay Meteor by Babingley Nulli Secundus was third, and the reserve was the Warrington champion, Messrs. H. & R. Ainscough's Burscough Berenice, a rangy bay by Claymore, with rare quality and weight of limb but perhaps not seen at her best.

Only five geldings came forward on the opening day, but the merit of this group may be gathered from the fact that it contained the first and second prize winners at the "Royal" which were placed in the same order here. The towering, beautifully modelled and classy-limbed five-year-old black Alkrington Darkie by Lincoln Dray King was shown in the hands of Mr. Milton Schofield. At Cambridge this horse won under the name of Elma Darkie, and was then exhibited by Mr. Cleminson, a Yorkshire exhibitor, and the price at which he changed hands was officially reported by the Shire Horse Society to have been £500. Mr. W. T. Roberts' Rags, a thick, short-legged, free-moving brown by Boro Future King and winner of numerous prizes, was second. Captain and Prince, two very useful brown geldings, claimed the third and reserve cards for Messrs. G. G. Marsh & Son.

HUNTERS.

The class for Thoroughbred stallions produced four entries. The judges, the Hon. Mr. Justice Wylie, of Dublin, and Captain T. L. Wickham-Boynton, of Burton Agnes, did not hesitate to give the lead to Mr. H. L. Storey's Rathurde, a handsome chestnut by Tredennis, and a supreme champion and super-premium winner on several occasions. This stallion had substance and quality to distinguish him, and he carried his 14 years lightly. The Buxton Lime Firm's Co., Ltd. were second with the 12-year-old bay Fitz Richard by Count Schomberg, and the well-known Tates, now 18 years old and in the possession of Mr. Jas. Plowes, was third. In Brood Mares Mr. W. H. Shiers' 10-year-old bay Clematis added another first to an already very long list of wins. The second, which also qualified for the medal, was Mr. S. Lunt's (Waltonle-Dale) shapely and well-built Ruby, an eight-year-old homebred bay by General Stossel. The third and reserve for the medal was Mr. G. Gunter's Castaway, a chestnut daughter of The Raft. Sunflower, a bay by Sundawn out of Clematis, was the winning foal, with Mr. George Dickinson's Cark Silver Square by Silver Grill or Courtesan II ex The Pullet second, and a young foal by Rathurde out of Mr. S. Lunt's Ruby, was third. In twovear-olds Mr. Morden Rigg's Courtly by Courtesan II beat Mr. George Dickinson's Cark Court Maid by the same sire. One of the most notable animals in the junior classes was Mr. Dickinson's well-grown yearling, Cark Carlton Grill, a son of Silver Grill that had met with considerable success earlier in the season. Shiers' Tinkerbell by Peter Pan was second and Mr. W. F. Witham's Lady Frances by Silver Grill, third.

In the riding class of Hunters capable of carrying 14st. 7lb. or over to hounds, the judges had difficulty in separating Mr. W. J. Straiton's six-year-old chestnut Wilkinstown and Mr. Geoff. Kenyon's White Heart, a chestnut gelding of similar age with a great prize record. The judges rode each horse in turn, and it was the ride that gave the verdict to Wilkinstown, which later won Mr. Geoff. Kenyon's 25 guinea Challenge Cup for the best Hunter mare or gelding. Lightweights were headed by Mr. G. Kenyon's Diana, a big, deep-ribbed chestnut which has the best of manners and pleased the judges very much in her ride. Mr. E. Johnson was second with a four-year-old bay gelding, not yet finished and furnished but full of promise. In the third place came Mr. E. Taylor's All Black, a particularly good galloper. The novice class again saw Wilkinstown in front followed by Diana. The open class for mares or geldings was led by Mr. F. R. Mitchell's chestnut, which is well up to weight and an exceptional mover. Mr. J. Mitchell, another North Country exhibitor, claimed the second prize for Ravencrag, a bay gelding which did not strip so well and wanted a little more time to get in show form.

HACKNEYS IN HAND.

The entries in the Hackney breeding classes were light, but perhaps quite as numerous as could be expected in these days. In stallions three years old and upwards only two were forward, but both were well-known show and stock horses. Mr. Walter Briggs' Adbolton Kingmaker, a triple London champion, was brought out in great form and had no difficulty in making a second claim upon Messrs. H. & R. Ainscough's 50 guineas Challenge Cup for the best Hackney stallion in the Show. The second and reserve champion was Mrs. Fletcher & Sons 11-year-old chestnut, Angram Majesty, whose sire, Flash Cadet, was the first to win the "Ainscough" Cup for Sir Walter Gilbey in 1911. Two-year-old stallions made one of the strongest groups in the section, and there was a trial of strength between Sir Lees Knowles's Salford Doron, a home-bred black by King's Chamberlain out of Slashing Dorothy, and Mr. W. J. Tennant's Fashion of Carleton, a dark chestnut by Carleton Quality, also bred by the exhibitor. In conformation there was not a great deal to choose between the two, but Salford Doron appeared to go better off his hocks, and in giving him the verdict over Fashion of Carleton the judges reversed the Royal and Doncaster decisions. The winning yearling colt was Messrs. H. E. Stubbins & Sons' Hall Garth Statesman, an exceptionally big chestnut by Holborn Statesman, which beat Mr. A. E. Shaw's brown by King of the East.

Sir Lees Knowles' great mare, Slashing Dorothy, found no serious opposition among the matrons, and added one more to her many championships by taking the Royds 50 guineas Challenge Cup for the second successive year and thus winning it outright. Her size, substance, quality, action, and excellent conformation have given her supreme place among the females of her breed for several years. Second in the class was Mr. Theo. Hignett's Marjorie Joan, a seven-year-old chestnut daughter of Beckingham Squire, and the third was Mr. F. A. Waring's Sprightly Clara, a Royal Danegalt chestnut bred by the late Sir Walter Gilbey. Slashing Dorothy's filly by Bertrano showed the way in foals. She is a gem of conformation, but what else could one expect of the product of two of the most distinguished Hackneys of the day?

Mr. Waring's chestnut by Kirkburn Leader was second, and Mr. Hignett's bay by St. Adrian, third. The winning three-year-old and reserve champion was Mr. W. J. Tennant's Beauty of Carleton, a handsome chestnut by Carleton Quality. Mrs. Fletcher & Sons' Angram Express was second, and Mr. Philip Smith's Haddon Easter Egg, a black by King's Chamberlain, third. Mr. J. R. Brown's Roan's Chance, a beautifully moulded chestnut filly by Londesboro Chancellor, that made excellent use of her hocks, was the leader in the two-year-olds. Second came Messrs. W. T. Cartmell & Sons' Wyreside Violet by King of the East, a chestnut filly of great scale, and third was Mr. W. Woodhouse's Balderstone Eclipse by Arley Gentleman. The winning yearling was Mrs. Fletcher & Sons' Angram Birthday, another of the Angram Majesty get, and Eastern Princess, a King of the East filly out of Pious Princess took the second prize for Messrs. R. B. & J. A. Eddleston.

HARNESS CLASSES.

Some of the cracks of the Hackney world were brought together in the harness classes. In the over 15 hands novice group for mares or geldings never having won a first prize at any show (sales excepted) prior to January 1st, 1922, Mr. W. S. Millar's Knight Templar beat Mr. Enoch Glen's Dark Romance, both five-year-old sons of Mathias. The third was Mr. Robert Black's Netherland, a chestnut by His Majesty. Under 14 hands (open) Mr. C. F. Kenyon's Axholme Venus, a brilliant daughter of Southworth Swell, showed the way to Mr. W. S. Miller's Miss Freda by Melbourne Shot, which was also the sire of the third, Mr. S. Houldsworth's Naughty Princess. Only two pairs competed, and the four horses on view were the get of the great sire of harness horses, Mathias. Mr. Miller's Knight Errant and Knight Templar were preferred by the judges to Mr. Glen's Dark Legend and Dark Romance. Mr. Miller's beautifully modelled and rhythmic moving mare, Charm, a five-year-old brown by Harviestown Mahratta, came to the top in the 14 to 15 hands class, followed by Mr. J. Highet's No Trumps, a nine-year-old Mathias brown, and Mr. J. W. Woodhouse's Arley Bother'em, a brown daughter of Withnell Kaiser. In a county class for harness mare or gelding under 14-2 hands, Mr. C. H. Handforth's well-known aged pony First Edition was followed by a young and very promising chestnut gelding shown by Mr. A. R. Fish. Mr. A. E. Shaw's Verdun was third. Mr. Miller's King's Proctor gelding Gondolier took the lead in the open class over 15-2 with Mr. Walter Briggs's Albin Queen Mary by Adbolton Kingmaker second, and Netherland and Angram Bountiful, third and reserve respectively. Albin Queen Mary came to the top in the county class 14-2 hands and over. Mr. A. R. Fish's pretty and balanced brown mare was second, and Mr. Woodhouse's Arley Bother'em third. Mr. Glen's Dark Legend and Dark Romance walked over in tandems. In Friday's contests Dark Legend triumphed over Mr. R. Belcher's Knight Commander after a great fight in the 15 to 15-2 hands class, where Mrs. Fletcher & Sons' Angram Victory was placed third. In the open novice harness class, not exceeding 15 hands, Mr. Highet's gelding No Trumps was first. Mr. J. Wright's Oakwood Beauty by Carlton Quality, second, and Mr. T. Hignet's Capenor Fortsquirely, third. The 50 guineas Champion Challenge Cup, presented by the late Mr. Charles Clark, of whom many readers will cherish fragrant memories, produced the great harness contest of the Show. The fire, force and liberty of Mr. Miller's Charm carried her to the top, and next in order of merit were placed Mr. Glen's Dark Legend, Mr. Kenyon's Axholme Venus, Mr. Briggs's Albin Queen Mary, Mrs. Fletcher & Sons' Angram Bountiful, and Mr. Highet's No Trumps.

PIGS, SHEEP, AND GOATS.

Large and Middle Whites predominated in an excellent show of pigs. The Champion Large White was Mr. Arthur Colegates' Empress of Walton 9th, very deep, lengthy, and level in her lines, and first in the class for sows of any pure breed with litters. The winner in boars farrowed previous to 1921, and subsequently placed reserve to the sow for the championship was Sir Gilbert Greenall's Worsley Jay 43rd, a very level and typical boar with a notable prize record and a son of the celebrated Worsley Jay 35th, which was the champion at four successive "Royals." Another well-known winner in Messrs. C. W. King & Co.'s Bourne Baron 2nd led the way in an excellent group of two-year-olds, and Mr. W. Hallas's Menestrel of Hallastone by Banner of Caldmore and bred by Mr. R. P. Haynes was picked put of a class of 15, beating one of the breeders' entries by the same sire.

In Middle Whites Mr. Hallas had premicr honours with the July, 1920, sow, Helsby Elizabeth by Peene Gunner, thus confirming a similar award at the Cheshire show. Reserve was Mr. W. B. Hill's Prestwood Combination 3rd, a much younger sow by Salopian of Prestwood. Only two Lancashire exhibitors were represented in this breed, which is becoming increasingly popular. The Champion Large Black was Messrs. L. Harrison & Co.'s Coolham Blackey, a January, 1921, boar by Coolham Marvel and the runner-up was Mr. T. Kemp's February, 1921, sow, Cogshall Victory by Burwell Perfection. In Gloucestershire Old Spots chief honours went to the Exors. of A. R. Pilkington, St. Helens, for Windle Prim, an 18 months old daughter of Offley Wonder. She was similarly successful at the Oldham Show, and for the second time won the Hamilton 40 guineas Challenge Cup. Mr. Oliver W. Porritt's January, 1922, sow, Hotchley Bashful, was reserve. Four classes devoted to Cumberlands also attracted a good entry. The champion boar was Mr. John S. Jordan's Parton Height, a son of Tristram Shandy farrowed in February, 1919, and runner-up was Mr. John Stanway's Southley Flash Lord, second in the same class but two year, younger than the winner. The best sow was adjudged to be Mr. Stanway's Silvia 2nd, and this Wigan herd also supplied the reserve champion sow in Sally Glitters by Goldmine, winner in sows farrowed in 1922.

The majority of the sheep were Wensleydales, representing several of the best of northern flocks. Mr. John A. Willis won in two-shear or over rams with Royal Ringleader, and secured the first two places with shearlings, but in ram lambs was beaten by Mr. R. H. Milner, who also received Mr. T. E. Clarke's special prize for the best pair of lambs of either sex eligible for entry in the flock book. Lord Henry Bentinck's Underley flock, which has been dispersed since the Show, supplied the first pair of shearling ewes, and Mr. J. A. Willis was first in ewe lambs. In the four classes limited to the County Palatine, Mr. R. H. Milner took three firsts and Mr. W. T. Milner one first. The latter headed the ram class with a sheep of Dr. Jackson's breeding, and the Borwick Lodge flock was at the top in the remaining classes. The Lonk classes were not very strongly supported. Lieut -Col. W. R. Peel's 5 guineas Challenge Cup for the best ram lamb, the property of a member of the Lonk Sheep Breeders' Association, was awarded to Mr. Jas. Hardisty's Pride of the Flock, with Mr. S. Pickles' Bar None reserve. In the remaining classes first prizes went to Messrs. T. Lord, Jas. Taylor, and H. O. Mitchell. Two classes for Scotch Horned Sheep only produced three entries. There were a few more grey faces, and with the exception of Mr. W. T. Milner's win in lambs all the money prizes went to Mr. W. Richardson, Laverock Bridge.

After an interval of several years the Goat Section was revived with marked success, bringing together many of the very best types in the country. In building up this department of the Show the Royal Lancashire had had a valuable ally in the recently formed Lancashire Goat Society, of which Mr. Harold Jackson, J.P., is president, Mr. Stephen Simpson, chairman, and Mrs C. L. Pickard, hon. secretary. The Society's activities are directed to raising the standard of goats kept in the county, and increasing the production of a milk which has a special value for invalids and children. The champion male goat over one year old, shown by Mis, E. Wearing, Lancaster, was the Anglo-Nulian Swiss, Edenstead Pluck, a Garstang winner. The reserve was the same exhibitor's first-prize buckling Parkfield Leander, which won at Three specials, including the 10 guineas Challenge Cup for the best female Goat over two years old were won by Mr. E. A. Walmisley's Atherstone Faith, a four-year-old black bred from deep milkers and possessing an excellent prize record. Reserve was Mrs. G. M. Soames' Pytchley Cinerella, another black with white points. Miss K. Pelly's Theydon Annette received the certificate as the best Anglo-Nubian female with Mrs. Harold Gladstone's Sadberge Buzzard reserve. Of the opposite sex of this breed the champion was Mrs. Gladstone's buckling Lunesdale Spurious Lartius, a son of Mrs. C. L. Pickard's Edenbreck Hiawatha, which was unopposed in the class for Anglo-Nubian males over 2 years old, and was placed reserve for the championship. First prize in the class for male kids went to Mrs. Pickard's Didgemere Dick, whose grand dam held the milking record for goats up to 1922. A goat with his milky inheritance should help in the development of the dairy force of the next generation.

MILKING TRIALS.

In the milking trials the Duke of Westminster's Illington Lass 2nd led the Pedigree Dairy Shorthorns with a total of 57lb. 14oz. of milk, an average butter fat percentage of 3.19, and total points 70.63. The second was Captain A. S. Wills' Thurnham Queen 3rd, which had been calved a week longer than the winner. Her total yield was 55lb. loz., butter fat average 3.22, and points 67.94. The third, Mr. A. R. Fish's Princess May, gave 52lb. 14oz., with an average of 3.59 butter fat, and her total score was 67.23. In the group for any other animals entered in the cattle section, but not eligible to compete in the class for Pedigree Shorthorns, Messrs. Wm. Holgate & Sons led with the non-pedigree Shorthorn which was the Champion of the recorded classes. She gave 59lb. 14oz. of milk, with a butter fat average of 4.17, and her total score Mr. Nathan Hardman followed with another nonpedigree Shorthorn, which gave 54lb. 8oz., with a butter fat average of 4.72. Her total points were 73.38. The next three places were filled by Jerseys, and the third prize-winner was Mrs. Evelyn's Dahlia 4th, which had been calved since June 4th. She gave 44lb. 14oz., with 3.85 butter fat, and scored 65.87 points.

Two milking competitions were provided for goats. In the quality test for first kidders, the winner, Mr. E. A. Walmisley's Lady Annette, gave morning and evening yields totalling 8lb. 3oz., with fat percentages of 4.10 and 4.30. The second, only three points behind, was Miss E. Wearing's Tip Top Uneda, with a yield of 8lb. 1oz., and fat percentages of 3.40 and 3.70. In the competition for goats not eligible for the previous class, Mr. Walmisley's Atherstone Faith, which began her lactation in April, gave 10lb. 11oz. at the two milkings, with fat percentages of 4.20 and 4.80.

COUNTY COUNCIL STAND.

The varied activities of the County Agricultural Education Committee were again well illustrated at the County Council stand, which was in charge of Mr. J. J. Green, B.Sc., Secretary of Agriculture. Prominence was given to a series of turves taken from a field on the Hutton Farm, where important experiments are in progress as to the effects of various forms of phosphates, and of lime on the herbage of poor pasture. These specimens demonstrated in a striking way the marked improvement following the joint application of lime and phosphatic manures, and the relatively poor results obtained from the use of each separately. In view of the increasing difficulty of obtaining farmyard manure, great interest was taken in a sample of fertiliser from the Rothamstead Experimental Station, prepared from straw without the intervention of animals. It is understood that the manufacture of manure in this form is being widely adopted on a commercial scale in the eastern counties. The outcry against tainted pork and bacon, doubtless due to the injudicious and wasteful use of a valuable feeding stuff or to the employment of fish meals of indifferent quality, lent special interest to the investigations carried out at the County Farm. Samples of lard derived from pigs fed with varying quantities of this food were on view, and these products and the information given concerning them emphasised the importance of excluding fish meal from the ration for some time before slaughter. Specimens of varieties of oats grown on the Hutton experimental plots, of common grasses and fodder crops, and samples of seeds and manures were also on exhibition, and in answering enquiries from agriculturists concerning them Mr. Green was assisted by Mr. C. P. May, M.A., B.Sc., and Mr. C. D. Ross, B.Sc.

The Advisory Department of Manchester University, who are working in collaboration with the County Technical Staff, staged a most comprehensive exhibit illustrating the principal insect and fungoid pests of farm and garden crops. In this department Mr. Holmes Smith and Mr. Kenneth Smith gave valuable information.

In the dairy section, which was in charge of Miss Stubbs, N.D.D., and Miss Prowse, N.D.D., there was a fine display of butter, cheese, and other products, illustrative of the practical and varied character of the training given at Lancashire's most efficient dairy school. Of cheese alone there were no fewer than 20 varieties on view. The poultry section in charge of Mr. C. H. Dobbin and Miss Arthur, proved a very popular feature of the stand, and visitors showed considerable interest in the trussing and cramming demonstrations and the trussing competitions. There is still plenty of need for education in the art of fattening and preparing fowls for market.

To see what the county is doing in the way of horticultural education one had to go to the horticultural pavilion, where Mr. A. G. Sowman, Horticultural Superintendent, and the assistant lecturers, Mr. McPherson and Mr. Steer, had a very fine exhibit.

The possibilities of pot fruit culture were shown in a collection of well laden apple, pear, and plum trees. At the Hutton Horticultural Station, which, by the way, is the admiration of visitors from other counties, investigations have been carried out on mosaic and leaf roll diseases of potatoes, which are responsible for greatly diminished yields, and are engaging the serious attention of scientists. Diseased and healthy plants were exhibited to show the differences in appearances and in the yields. Specimens of immune varieties of potatoes, of various plants affected with fungoid diseases, of wood from fruit trees, showing the effect of bad pruning, spraying materials used in combating garden pests, and bottled fruit also came within the collection. The county authorities in their wisdom have encouraged the development of school gardens, which are a valuable aid in awakening interest in rural life. A collection of nature study work with an horticultural bias from several county elementary schools had a fascinating interest for a large number of visitors

DAIRY PRODUCE.

Most of the best known makers of Lancashire cheese sent samples from their dairies, and there was an entry of 86. Mr. John Shorrock, Stanley Farm, Roseacre, following up successes at carlier shows in the season, carried off the "Elkington" Challenge Cup for the best cheese, with well made, richly flavoured produce of a type that should help to popularise the Lancashire article in the market. The same observations may be applied to the winners in the class for farms of 50 to 100 acres submitted by Mr. F. J. Mason, Barton, who was placed reserve for the championship, the judges having considerable difficulty in separating the two exhibits. Distant competitors claimed the first and second prizes in the open butter classes, but the third places were secured by Mr. W. G. M. Townley, Grange-over-Sands, and Mrs. H. Pendlebury, of Harwood, Bolton. Both the county classes were headed by Mrs. Holden, Four Lane Ends, Bolton.

POULTRY.

The Poultry Committee carried out their duties with characteristic thoroughness. In framing their schedule they again called into consultation representatives of the Lancashire Utility Poultry Society and other Breed Associations, and decided, as the Show was being held later than usual, to revert to the original plan of limiting all classes to birds born in the current year. The splendid entry of over 900 indicated that the change had been appreciated, and the utility section in strength and quality was worthy of an exhibition held in the heart of a district where breeders have been amongst the pioneers in the development of the "egg machine." Six classes of Indian Runner ducks were guaranteed by and judged under the rules of the Indian Runner Duck Club, and there was quite a good display of these prolific layers. Considerable importance being attached to carriage the birds were paraded before the adjudicator in accordance with the Duck Club conditions, and this was the first time such a test has been applied in this section of the County Show. Quite a number of classes in the exhibition section contained between 15 and 20 entries, and in the Utility section three of the classes aggregated 133 entries, that for White Wyandotte pullet containing 58. Reference to the prize list will show that the Lancashire exhibitors were well represented and took a large share of the honours.

HORTICULTURAL DISPLAY.

The Society had the co-operation of the Preston and Fulwood Horticultural Society in building up a show which, as a spectacular feature, surpassed the efforts of previous years, in spite of the cold, sunless summer. It is a long time since there was such a fine collection of roses, carnations, and begonias, but visitors missed the fragrance that was once so noticeable. In developing beauty of form and richness of colour, especially among the roses, scent has been sacrificed, and cultivators are now directing efforts to recapturing the delicious and characteristic perfume of the Queen of Flowers, and adjudicators have been urged to take scent into consideration in making their awards. Many fine exhibits were staged by leading florists, nurserymen, and seedsmen, and the competitive side of the exhibition was well supported by both local and distant growers.

IMPLEMENTS AND MACHINERY.

For many years manufacturers of implements and machinery, and traders whose business is done chiefly with agriculturists, have recognised the importance of securing representation in the Royal Lancashire vard, and in anticipation of great Cosmopolitan crowds, including Overseas visitors, gathering at the Guild exhibition, there was an unprecedented demand for space. Under the head of new inventions there was the record entry of 45, but what innovations were noted were chiefly in the nature of additions to or improvements of implements, machinery and appliances already on the market. The universal application of labour-saving machinery to the many and varied operations of the farm was never better illustrated under the same auspices. There were 18 entries in the class for best single new implement (or new improvement on such implement) designed for labour-saving in connection with agricultural or estate work, the exhibitors also to be the makers. Here the Society's Silver Medal was awarded for a new self-lift spring time tractor harrow, which commended itself to the judges for its mechanical merit and the fact that it covered 12ft, of ground in one stroke. A special Silver Medal was awarded for a self-acting dry pig feeder. A new type of detachable plough, a manure pump, and a fireproof and waterproof motor lurry sheet were highly commended. In the class limited to standholders who are agents for the makers the judges were impressed with an electrically-driven domestic washing machine. For the first time the schedule contained a separate class for the best invention in poultry houses and appliances, and the large entry justified the departure. In the maker's class the Silver Medal went to a new brooder plant of nine chambers, enabling very large numbers of chickens to be dealt with at various stages and at any temperature desired, and making it possible to brood day-old chicks and cool off under one control. There was only one entry in each of the two classes for collections of agricultural implements, but the Society's Gold Medals were awarded and were well merited.

HORSE SHOEING COMPETITIONS.

For the first time for over 20 years horse shoeing competitions were introduced, and were the largest ever held on a showground in the country. The entries numbered 147, Leating the previous British record of 87, established at Ormskirk, and 37 at the R.A.S.E. Show. In making arrangements for these contests valuable assistance was given to the Society by Mr. G. Hardman, A.S.C.L., of Preston. The smiths have never been more perfectly housed and equipped for their tasks at meetings of this character, the conditions approximating to those under which the men perform their daily tasks. There was a spacious covered shed, a sleepered floor, full-sized electrically-blown furnaces, with the best quality fuel at command. Competitors came from places as far apart as Dundee and South Wales, and included the champion of Great Britain, the runner-up at the Royal, and many county champions. The judges described the workmanship as superb, and it was gratifying to note that in this fierce competition the crowning honours were won by Lancashire craftsmen. The "Capewell" Open Championship Challenge Cup for competitors scoring the most points on the first three days was won by Roger Wilson, Moor Lane, Clitheroe, who has been conspicuously successful in competitions of this character. On the opening day he won the first prize and Mr. E. G. Hothersall's Challenge Cup in a class of 47 competitors, who were called upon to shoe one foot and make a hind shoe with heel for horses for agricultural purposes, and on Friday had the first prize and the "Mustad" Challenge Cup in a class of 31 entries, the duties in this case being to make a rocker bar and shoe (patten shoe) for strained tendon. The runner-up was G. Walmsley, Clayton-le-Moors, who was third on Wednesday, and second in the carriage horse class on Thursday, when the first prize and "Dale's" Challenge Cup went to J. Walters, Llanelly.

The County Championship, under the direction of the Lancashire Demonstration Committee, was decided on Saturday. The test was light shoe making, and competitors were limited to members of the N.M.F.A., or workmen's societies situated in Lancashire. Chief honours were gained by D. E. Tuke, Toss Side, Long Preston, who received the "Capewell" Challenge Cup, Gold Medal, and first prize of £3.

LANCASHIRE FARMERS' DAY.

On Saturday the show of Lancashire farmers' stock brought to a fitting conclusion the most brilliant of many notable county shows. The entries in the county classes and those limited to a 12 miles radius of the Preston Town Hall totalled 386, just two more than the previous record for the last day held by Lancaster in 1906, but more gratifying than mere strength of numbers was the fact that the stock displays have never been equalled in point of quality. The fears that the removal of the bar which prevented prize-winners in the open section from competing in the county classes proved groundless. As a matter of fact the new condition appeared to have brought a dual advantage, although it may be argued by those who favoured the old rule that the occasion and the situation of the Show ensured strong support, irrespective of the change. Taking things as they were, and not as they may be at some future meeting, we have to record that more county farmers were represented in the open section than for many years, and the horse and cattle population already on the ground was augmented on Saturday by new arrivals from studs and herds spread over a very wide area. One of the cattle groups, that for dairy cow in calf, alone accounted for 27 entries, and two Shire classes that will long be remembered for strength and merit, were those for matrons with foals at foot and for barren mares. The dog section, which since its introduction has invested the last day's proceedings with a new interest for many visitors not concerned with other forms of live stock, brought 1,200 entries, the largest for several years, but 300 below the Liverpool record in 1914. The attention focussed upon this department may be gauged by the fact that about 6,000 persons paid the extra 6d. charged for admission. The strong stock classes, the general parades, the judging of leapers and turnouts and decorated horses, kept the main rings occupied throughout the day, and the championship competitions of the butter makers and the smiths filled up a programme full of variety and interest.

A big group of Shire mares was led by the Exors. of H. Stuart's Tilton Musical, a lofty, well spread and heavily timbered four-year-old brown by Norbury Menestrel. She came out in much better form than on the opening day of the Show, and beat Messrs. J. B. Jackson & Sons' wide, deep, and powerfully coupled black Bonny Fashion by Lunesdale Kingmaker. The third, also belonging to the Exors. of H Stuart, was Halstead Lady Redlynch by Leek Redlynch. She was the senior cup winner in county competitions at the two preceding shows, and at Oldham beat her stud companion Tilton Musical for the honour. The winning colt foal was Mr. T. M. Watson's well-grown brown by Normanby Craftsman, which beat the Garstang and Pilling champion in Mr. D Simpson's Peel Rosewood black. In fillies, Mr. J. Pendlebury's bay by Abbots Royal Blood, a winner at several shows, went in front of a big, level, rangy bay by Hadlow Prince William, owned and bred by Mr. Wm. Kirby, J.P The latter had grown hard, and wanted more time. In three year olds, Mr. W. Newhouse's lofty, free moving brown filly, by Warton Dray King, went in front of Mr A. D. Butler's very weighty King's Choice chestnut. A daughter of Warrior Carlton also won in two-year-olds for Mr. Newhouse's Ancliffe Hall stud, and the second was Mr. G. Warbrick's wide, solidly built bay filly by Tarnacre Keeper. Yearlings were topped by Mr. J. F. Nelson's heavily timbered and feathered Hadlow Prince William filly, which was followed by Mr. T. M. Watson's brown by Magna Nulli Secundus. Two out of the three prizes for geldings were claimed by Messrs G. G. Marsh & Son with weighty, wearing types of commercial horses, and the third was Mr. Milton Schofield's Alkrington Hero, which was fourth at the Roval.

Barren mares made a remarkably strong class, and gave Mr. Tom Ewart considerable trouble. The red rosette eventually went to Messrs J. Hoggarth & Son for a big, powerful brown by Harboro' Nulli Secundus. The second was Mr. T. H. Sellen's splendidly planted four-year-old bay by Champion's Chancellor, out of Norbury Songstress. Messrs. Waring Bros.' compact, short legged, and wonderfully feathered Nuneham Annette by Friar Tuck was third.

The "John Halsall" Cup for the best mare, three years' old and upwards, was won for the fourth time and for the third successive year by the Exors. of H. Stuart, who triumphed on this occasion with Tilton Musical, to whom Messrs. Hoggarth's Cotestones Betty was reserve. The "Smith Carington" Challenge Cup for Shire fillies not exceeding three years old (won in 1921 by Tilton Musical), was awarded Mr. J. F. Nelson's yearling by Hadlow Prince William, and the reserve was Mr. Newhouse's two-year-old Ancliffe Winnie by Warrior Carlton. The "Hulbert" Challenge Cup for the best draught gelding in the open and county classes went to Mr. Milton Schofield's noted Alkrington Darkie, and Mr. W. T. Roberts's younger bay gelding Rags was reserve, the positions thus being the same as in the open class at the Cambridge "Royal." Messrs. Trappes-Lomax & Peel, who competed in the open but had not entered in the county classes, sent in Clayton Mimi, a lofty chestnut daughter of Mimins Champion, to compete for the Gold Medal for the best mare or filly bred by or in the possession of a resident or occupier of agricultural land in the County Palatine. Her steely limbs, big, open feet, and clever movement appealed to the judge, who placed her in front of Tilton Musical, thus giving her the County Championship distinction as well as the Medal.

The Preston district classes for draught horses brought out quite a number of animals which had not been seen either in open or county competition. Two harness classes were headed by Mr. J. W. Woodhouse's Arley Bother'em, and Mr. A. R. Fish's sparkling and beautifully modelled chestnut gelding by Penwortham Sport. The former took Mrs. A. R. M. Camm's Cup as the best exhibit in the harness classes, and later won in a good group of tradesmen's turnouts over 14-2 hands. In farmers' turnouts, Mr. Wm. Dean added to a long list of successes in competitions of this character.

The cattle section was again splendidly supported, and there was a memorable show of dairy stock. In pedigree Shorthorn bulls, calved in 1921, Mr. W. Kirby had leading honours with a beautifully modelled and mellow handling roan, bred at Hoole by Mr. R. Harrison, the second prize going to Messrs. J. & J. Kay's richly coloured Musbury Courtier. In each of the two classes for cows in calf and cows in milk a score of animals came into the ring, making displays which in strength and quality are rarely equalled. Mr. Nathan Hardman, who had claimed first and second places in open competition, brought out a fresh pair in the in-calf group, and they were ultimately adjudged to be the two best females in They carried off the "John Halsall" Cup for the best cow or heifer, and the "James Edward and Norman Milne Renshaw" Cup for the best non-pedigree dairy cow or heifer. The classes limited to a 12 miles radius of Preston brought together many choice Shorthorns of both pedigree and non-pedigree types.

BUTTER-MAKING CHAMPIONSHIP.

The triumph of present and past pupils of the Lancashire County Council Dairy School in the butter-making championship competition reflected great credit on the efficiency of that Institution. There were 14 competitors, several of whom came from distant parts of the country, and Professor Drummond had some excellent work to adjudicate upon. By scoring the highest number of points Miss Mabel Metcalfe, a County student, whose home is at Kirkby Lonsdale, secured the Preston Guild Commemoration 50 guineas Gold Challenge Cup, the Lancaster County 25 guineas Challenge Cup, and Mr. C. H. Sharp's six guineas cash prize for the best competitor who was the daughter or wife of a bona fide resident farmer in Lancashire, and the first prize of £4. She also had the first prize of £4 in the County contest on the opening day of the Show. Second and reserve for the cups came Miss A. J. Livesey, Tokio Creamery, Garstang, a former pupil of the Hutton School, and winner in the open class on Thursday. Miss Mary Fielding, another Hutton student belonging to Wilpshire, who was first in the County class on Thursday, finished third. Miss Ellen Pennington, of Brindle, who was fourth, had second place in the County class on Wednesday, and was highly commended in open competition on Thursday. The reserve was Miss Nora Fielding, Knowle Farm, Bispham, who was second in the open class on Thursday, and in the v.h.c. list came Miss E. Walker, Myerscough Hall Farm, Myerscough, Miss Cissie Pantall, who has been the runner-up for championship honours on four or five occasions, and Miss Lydia J. Cordiner, of Euxton. Misses Pennington and Cordiner were pupils and Misses Nora Fielding and E. Walker, former students of the County Dairy School. It may be of interest to recall that the Gold Cup was first won at the 1902 Guild by Mr. George Haslem, who is now managing the farm on the Lancashire Agricultural Committee's Hutton and Howick Estate, acquired for land settlement. At that time Mr. Haslem was living at his home at Singleton, in the parish of the late Rev. L. C. Wood, whose pioneer work in the development of technical education as applied to agriculture, steadfastly pursued in face of strong prejudice, will long be gratefully remembered.

THE LATE SIR CHARLES SCARISBRICK, D.L.

Sir Charles Scarisbrick, D.L., of Scarisbrick Lodge, Southport, whose death occurred on January 15th, 1923, in his 84th year, will be recalled to mind as President of the Society in 1904, the occasion of one of its visits to the town in which his chief interests were centred. The traditions of the Presidentship were worthly upheld by Sir Charles, who had the satisfaction when relinquishing office of knowing that complete success had crowned the efforts of the Council and Local Committee. In the Annual Report for 1904, grateful appreciation was recorded of his generous encouragement of the Local Fund, his special contribution towards the General Prize List, and the deep interest he manifested at the large number of meetings over which he presided.

THE LATE MR. WILLIAM DAGGER.

Lancashire Agriculture and the Royal Lancashire Society are distinctly the poorer for the removal by death, on June 6th of this year, of Mr. William Dagger, Marsh House, Elston, Grimsargh. None but the kindliest memories remain with all who formed the wide circle of his acquaintance, as of a man of staunch integrity, well-meaning purpose, and a singular equanimity of temperament.

At the close of 1906 Mr. Dagger was appointed a Representative Member of the Council to fill the vacancy in the Northern Division caused by the death of Mr. Peter Blundell of Ream Hills, and retained the seat until his death. He was first appointed one of the Stewards in the Cattle section at the Manchester Show of 1908, the late Mr. James E. Renshaw, of Toulbrick, Hambleton, being then Senior Steward of the Section being then Senior Steward of the Section

In 1911, following the death of Mr. J. E. Renshaw, Mr. Dagger was appointed to the Senior position, which he held from the Bury Show of that year until the Blackburn Show of 1915.

The following brief particulars of his career are gleaned from

"The Preston Guardian":-

Mr. Dagger, who was in his 85th year, was a native of Inglewhite. For 16 years he was licensee of the Shuttleworth Arms, Broughton, and 40 years ago took Marsh House Farm, Elston, which, under his skilful and industrious direction, gained more than local repute both for the state of the holding and the character of the commercial dairy stock that was housed there. For some years he concentrated upon milk production, holding contracts for public institutions.

While continuing the farm he subsequently developed a considerable business as a cattle dealer, in which capacity he was a welcome visitor to the Northern marts, fairs, and farms as a man of high principles and sterling qualities. A sound and shrewd judge of stock, his advice was valued, and his services as adjudicator were often in request at the shows.

For many years he had been the honoured Chairman of the Preston Christmas Dairy Stock Shows, and until advancing years compelled his retirement he rendered long service on the Preston Board of Guardians and Rural District Council.

In October last year, he relinquished the tenancy of Marsh House and was succeeded by his son, Mr. Wm. Dagger, junior. His remarkably successful dispersal sale, conducted by Mr. E. G. Hothersall, J.P., with whom he had had a close and life-long friendship, was a tribute to the merit of his stock and the character of the man. He had been an active supporter of Goosnargh show, and stewarded the cattle section until within comparatively recent times, when his son, Mr. Wm. Dagger, was appointed in his stead. For 35 years he was a warden at Grimsargh Parish Church, only retiring this spring on leaving the district.

The Chairman made very feeling reference to the recent removal by death of three prominent surporters of the Society. In the late Mr. Thomas A. Crook, of Chesham House, the Council had lost one of their Colleagues whose place it would be difficult to fill. Mr. Crook was regarded as one of the best agriculturists in the Fylde; his association with the Society went back for a long period, and his interest in its work had been manifested in many ways of practical service. The late Sir Harcourt Clare, who had been one of their Vice-Presidents ever since the last Preston Guild, always took a very keen interest, not only in the work of the Society, but in Agriculture generally throughout Lancashire, and his death would be a very great loss to the County. Another Vice-President taken from them recently was Mr. Walter Cunningham, who had formerly been closely identified with the Meetings and Annual Exhibitions of the Society It was fitting that they should convey to the relatives of each of these gentlemen their sympathy with them in their bereavement, and votes of condolence were accordingly passed in silence by the Members present, all standing.

The Secretary reported that on behalf of the Council he had forwarded a telegram of congratulation and good wishes to H.R.H. Princess Mary on the occasion of her marriage, and in reply had received the following message:—
"Princess Mary sends her grateful thanks to the Council and Members for their congratulations which she deeply appreciates.—Dorothy Yorke, Lady-in-Waiting."

MINUTES OF PREVIOUS COUNCIL AND COMMITTEE MEETINGS. Minutes were read and unanimously confirmed for the following Meetings:—(a) Council, 14th December, 1921; (b) Works Committee, 18th January, 1922; (c) Catering Committee, 18th January, 1922; (d) Finance Committee, 18th January, 1922; (e) Showyard and Prize List Committee, 18th January, 1922.

PRIZE LIST FOR THE PRESTON GUILD SHOW. Unanimously resolved that the amount to be offered in prizes at the Preston Guild Show be £449 additional to the sum offered at Oldham the previous year.

There was displayed on the table an exceptionally handsome silver challenge cup, value 50gns, presented to the Society by Mr. John Horridge, J.P., of Bolholt House, Bury, and Plas-Llanfair, Llanfair, P.G., Anglesey. The senior steward of cattle (Mr. S. H. Renshaw) explained that this trophy was to be offered for the best female animal competing in the British Friesian classes at the Society's annual shows, and to be won three times by the same exhibitor before becoming his absolute property. It was also reported that Mrs. Renshaw, of Shard House, Poulton-le-Fylde, had offered to present a challenge cup in memory of her husband, the late Mr. James Ed. Renshaw, and of their son, Norman, to be offered for the best non-pedigree dairy cow or heifer in the Show. Competition would be limited to bonafide farmers, resident in the County Palatine, dependent on farming, and not regularly engaged in any other business or following any other occupation but farming; with a further stipulation that the winning animal should have been in the exhibitor's possession for at least three months prior to the Show. Hearty votes of thanks were passed to the donors of these valuable additions to the Society's list of challenge cups.

The list of special contributions towards the Prize List was read and it was unanimously resolved that the Society's thanks be tendered in each instance.

APPOINTMENT OF SENIOR STEWARD FOR THE GOAT SECTION. In connection with the institution of classes for Goats at the forthcoming Show, it was unani mously decided to request Mr. T. B. Silcock to act as the Senior Steward of the Section.

APPOINTMENT OF CHAIRMAN FOR THE ENSUING YEAR. On the motion of Mr. Platt, seconded by Mr. Hamilton, it was unanimously resolved that Mr. Windham E. Hale be re-appointed Chairman of the Council for the ensuing year. Mr. Hale hereupon took the Chair.

Before the next item on the Agenda was proceeded with, Mr. T. B. Silcock requested permission to address the meeting direct, instead of through the Chair. He had been asked, he explained, to perform what was to him a very pleasing duty, namely, to remind the Council that Mr. Hale had been their Chairman since 1909, and during the intervening period the Society had made great strides, and grown in importance. No one would dispute the fact that to-day it stood higher than ever before in prestige with agriculturists, in financial position and in organisation. For all this a very large share of the credit was due to their Chairman, Mr. Hale. (Hear, hear.) During the 18 years he had held the position Mr. Hale had given his time and energies without stint, and in every possible direction. He had never begrudged any effort he could put forth in order to further their interests. One great requisite in the Chairman of a Society such as theirs was that he should know the County from end to end. He (the speaker) had grounds for believing that there was not a single road in Lancashire which Mr. Hale had not traversed-a record which he fancied few in that room could equal—and this meant a great deal. They all knew that he was a strong Chairman, and indeed what they wanted was a strong Chairman. Whilst ever ready to give careful consideration to all proposals brought forward in a proper manner, he at the same time was firm in his ruling, and kept them to the point. With regard to the Show itself, he could only say that it was one of Mr. Hale's happiest traits that he seemed able to pick up the best men fitted for their work; in every department he had men well qualified to carry out their duties. Mr. Hale was at their beck and call at the time of stress during the Show Week whenever his advice was asked for, but he never interfered and he never dictated—a very happy but rather rare quality in a Chairman. He was confident they would all agree that this service of arduous work ought to be acknowledged in some way, especially after the most successful show in the history of the Society.

In connection with the proposal he was about to submit he would like to remind them that Mr. Hale's father, the late Mr. G. C. Hale (who was Chairman of the (ouncil at the time of the Preston (fuild Show of 1882) had in 1901 been created an Hon. Lie Vice-President. The same honour was conferred after the 1902 Guild Show upon their late (hairman, Mr. John White. Silcock) felt that to bestow the Hon. Life Vice-Presidentship upon Mr. Hale would be a richly-merited compliment. He would like to propose that this should be done, also that they present him with an illuminated address on a suitable occasion.

In concluding, Mr. Silcock remarked that frequently such an honour was conferred upon a man when retiring from office, but he knew he was expressing the opinion of all when he hoped that Mr. Hale would for many years to come continue to preside over their deliberations.

Mr. R. B. Neilson (Liverpool) seconded, and the motion on being put was carried with acclamation.

Mr. Hale, responding with evident feeling, said that he was not going to say a great deal then, but he thanked them very much for the honour they had done him. Following in his father's footsteps, he had, like him, simply tried to do all he could for the Society, and he cherished the hope that his father's labours and his own had not been in vain. To-day they could congratulate themselves on their standing as a Society, and that so far at least as Lancashire was concerned they were filling adequately the position they ought to fill. (Applause.)

APPOINTMENT OF VICE-CHAIRMAN OF COUNCIL FOR THE ENSUING YEAR.

On the motion of Mr. A. S. Robson, seconded by Mr. Hamilton, it was unanimously resolved to appoint Mr. J. W. Kenworthy and Mr. R. B. Neilson jointly as Vice-Chairman of the Council for the ensuing year.

COUNCIL'S REPORT AND BALANCE SHEET.

The adoption of the Annual Report and Balance Sheet, which showed a profit on the year of £15,187, was moved by Mr. Windham Hale, who said he desired to take that opportunity of expressing the appreciation of the Council and the Members of the work of the Guild Mayor and the Local Committee, and of the many gifts of cups and special prizes received for the last Show. The generous support indicated wide public interest in the welfare of the County Society. He desired to point out, however, that although the membership was very largely increased compared with a few years ago, there was still great room for improvement. The majority of the Members were not directly interested in Agriculture, which pointed to the fact that those engaged in the industry should give greater support than at present. Liverpool had invited the Society to visit that city next year, and had placed at their disposal one of the finest Show Grounds in England—The Wavertree Playground—which, like the 1922 site, was one of the most perfect.

Following a reference to the loss the Society had sustained by the death of many Members who had taken a long and keen interest in the work, Mr. Hale directed attention to the Balance Sheet, which showed that they had had a very satisfactory year, enabling them to carry forward a very fine halance. Many people had asked why they required to make money. His reply was that the Society was not always able to hold a Show in a town like Preston, or at a time when such large numbers of reople were gathered, as during Guild Week. In the next few years they would visit towns where there was not the same population to draw upon, and the Society would be faced with serious loss, even if fine weather were assured. He should like to see the time when the Society had $100,000 invested as its capital, and they could go into any town in the County, however small, where good could be done, without feeling they were jeopardising the future usefulness of the Society. (Applause.)

The various paragraphs in the Report were considered seriatim, and concerning the Farm and Chop Competitions Mr. Hale emphasised the indebtedness of the Society to Mr. John Blundell and Mr. W. H. Edge, Members of the Council, for the manner in which they had performed the long and arduous duties of Judges. He added that mention ought to be made of the fact, which had been inadvertently omitted from the list of donors of special prizes, that Mr. E. G. Hothersall presented a cup for the Horse Shoeing Competitions.

Councillor W. N. Wood said that the Preston and Fulwood Horticultural Society co-operated in the effort to make the Guild Show a success, and he appealed to the County Society to make as generous a contribution as possible to help them in re-establishing the Annual Flower Shows, which were important annual features in the town until the war suspended operations.

Mr. E. G. Hothersall, J.P., seconded Mr. Hale's resolution, and the Report and Balance Sheet were adopted.

DATES FOR THE LIVERPOOL SHOW.

Thursday, Friday, Saturday, and Monday, August 2nd, 3rd, 4th, and 6th, the dates recommended by the Council for next year's Show at Liverpool, were approved, on the motion of Mr. T. Eaton Jones, seconded by Mr. Thomas Smith (Bold).

VOTE OF THANKS TO THE RETIRING PRESIDENT.

Mr. S. H. Renshaw, proposing a vote of thanks to the retiring President, said the Society showed a great deal of discretion when they asked Mr. Tatton to undertake the duties of this office for the Guild Show. He was most assiduous, attended the Show every day, was very generous in his gifts, and did everything he possibly could. He (Mr. Renshaw) specially desired to thank Mr. Tatton for his gift of Herdsmen's Prizes, which did a great deal of good and helped the Stewards in getting the very best out of the men who coveted these honours. The fact that the President took a lively interest in those matters went a long way to contribute to the success of the Show.

Mr. E. G. Howsin, in seconding, said that history told them that Mr. Tatton's ancestors acted in a most interesting manner in support of Preston Guild very many years ago, and they would agree that the retiring President had upheld the traditions of his family. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. Tatton, in reply, said the Society did him a great kindness by electing him to the Presidency, and he felt he had got more out of the Show than anything he had done for it. It was certainly the most delightful Show he ever attended. It was a great pleasure to him to have had some official association with the Guild Week, which established a link with the past, inasmuch as his grandfather was Guild Mayor in 1862. That link had been further strengthened by the election of himself and two sons as burgesses of the borough.

VOTE OF THANKS TO THE PRESTON LOCAL COMMITTEE AND HON. OFFICIALS.

In moving a vote of thanks to the Local Committee and Honorary Officials, the retiring President said he could hardly thank them sufficiently. The sum of £7,565 which had been handed over to the Society was a truly noble gift. On behalf of the Society he presented to Ald. Astley-Bell, J.P., and Mr. Alex. Foster, J.P., the engrossed and tramed Resolutions of the Council conferring upon them the Honorary Vice-President Life Membership of the Society "in appreciation of the eminent services which, as Chairman and Vice-Chairman respectively of the Local Committee, they rendered to the Society."

Ald. Astley-Bell said the honour conferred was the more appreciated because it was so closely and jealously guarded. He admitted that when he essayed the task of beating, if possible, the records of Bolton and Oldham, he had serious misgivings, but he met with such wholehearted and enthusiastic support that, so far from his task being difficult, it really became comparatively easy. He and Mr. Foster put on paper the names of 20 individuals whom they knew could afford to give £100 each, and they interviewed every one of them, and finally secured 31 donations of £100 each. He had only one refusal, and that was from a gentleman who had since given him considerably over £1,000 for other objects. While they were able to present a record cheque, the town had every reason to be grateful to the Society for a Show which contributed in a very large degree to the success of the Guild Week. It was one of the features which the people felt bound to see whatever else they attended. The Honorary Life Vice-Presidency of the Society he sincerely appreciated, and to him that presentation would be treasured amongst the memorable functions in a splendid year. (Applause.)

TOWN AND COUNTRY INTERESTS.

Mr. Alex. Foster, who, like the Guild Mayor, had a cordial reception, said it was always very gratifying to be associated with success. Those who undertook the responsibility of raising the local fund knew that if they could get the people of Preston to realise that the honour of the town was involved in the success of the Show, local patriotism and civic pride in the traditions of the town would make the apparently heavy task a comparatively light one. The balance sheet presented that day indicated that the Guild Mayor's confidence in his fellow townsmen was certainly not misplaced. Several factors from a local point of view led up to this success. Firstly, they had a splendid lead from the Guild Mayor. Secondly, their thanks were due to the higher officials of the Preston Corporation, who loyally and most ungrudgingly placed their services, those of their staffs and the resources of the town, at the disposal not only of the Local Committee but of the Society generally, and he was glad to have the public opportunity of acknowledging their very great services. Their thanks were also due to the Society's able Secretary, Mr. Bradbury, for his unfailing courtesy and that notwithstanding the work he had to do in other directions he never failed to respond whenever there was occasion to call upon him for help. aspect of the Society's work was not fully realised in the industrial areas of the County. The Guild Mayor and he often heard it said that the work they were doing was principally for the farming classes only. In his opinion that was a superficial, parochial, and mistaken view. (Hear, hear.) If the Society's work meant anything at all it must result in increased production in the agricultural industry of the County, and however much the gain the farmers received the industrial classes derived infinitely more, especially in these times when it was so frightfully difficult to keep up the export trade by which the payment for imports of foreign food was made. (Hear, hear.) For this reason, amongst others, he hoped it would be possible to maintain the activities of the Society and if possible increase them. Concluding, Mr. Foster observed, "I hope that by conferring this honour upon me it does not mean you are relegating me to a safe and comfortable seat in the House of Lords—(laughter)—but that some time in the future I may be given the opportunity of taking some part in the work which you are doing for all classes in the ('ounty." (Applause.)

ELECTION OF OFFICIALS.

The following officials were unanimously re-elected:—Mr. John Hammill, C.A. (St. Helens), Auditor; Mr. Alfred Smetham, F.C.S., F.I.C. (Liverpool), Analytical Chemist; Mr. J. Stewart Remington, F.L.S., F.R.M.S. (Grange-oversands), Consulting Botanist; and Mr. T. Eaton Jones, F.R.C.V.S. (Liverpool), Hon. Consulting Veterinary Surgeon.

ELECTION OF MEMBERS OF COUNCIL.

In the Eastern Division Messrs. Francis Ellis, T. D. Harrison, Geo. Mather, and J. C. Waddington, and in the Western Division, Messrs. John Almond, Robert Anderson, Jas. Hamilton, and Thos. Smith, all retiring members of the Council, were re-elected without opposition. In the Northern Division there were seven nominations for four seats, namely, Messrs. E. Threlfall, Lancaster, and Edmond Whinnerah, Warton, retiring members; Edward Cock, College Farm, Rossall; Harry Jackson, Bank House, Hambleton; James Stuart, Manor House, Sowerby; John H. Thornton, New House Cottage, Winmarleigh; and T. M. Watson, Whinney Heys, Blackpool. The voting resulted in the election of Messrs. Whinnerah, Cock, Jackson, and Stuart.

The fixing of the approximate sum to be offered in Prizes and the revision of the Rules and Prize List for the next Show were deputed to a Committee.

The President then distributed the Prizes and Diplomas awarded for the best-managed Farms and Crops in the 1922 Competitions. There were 60 winners of prizes and diplomas, nearly all of whom were in attendance.

REPORT OF THE COUNCIL OF THE SOCIETY

To the Annual Meeting of Members, 1922.

Your Council present their usual Annual Report to the members with the gratifying knowledge that the Preston Guild Show has eclipsed all records previously made by the Society, and are able to announce that a most satisfactory profit has been made on the year's working.

Many causes have contributed to this happy result, but in the first place chief recognition must be given to His Worship the Guild Mayor of Preston (Mr. Alderman Henry Astley-Bell, J.P.), and his able and enthusiastic colleague, Mr. Alex. Foster, J.P., for their untiring energy and zeal in sparing no effort to raise a record Local Fund. No less a sum than £7,621 2s. 6d. was collected, of which (owing to the economy practised by the Local Hon. Secretary, Mr. Alfred Howarth, the Town Clerk, and the Local Hon. Treasurer, Mr. Allison Davies, the Borough Treasurer, whose joint services cannot be too highly appreciated), £7,565 11s. 1d. has been handed over to the Society. The Local Committee, formed of gentlemen of the town and district, were extremely enthusiastic in their endeavours to make the Show worthy of such a great occasion as Preston Guild, and the Corporation Officials by their energy and courtesy contributed in no small degree to the successful result attamed.

The Show was favoured with exceptionally and unexpectedly good weather, and this, in conjunction with the fact that it was held during the celebration of the ancient Guild Merchant festival, assured the wonderful success it achieved. Your Council cannot speak too highly of the valuable services rendered by the Police, whose duties were considerably lightened by the splendid demeanour of the crowds who visited the Show in such large numbers.

The venue of the Show was at Moor Park, a portion of which, 66 acres in extent, was loaned to the Society by the Corporation, who also generously undertook the sanitary arrangements, and laid on water and electricity free of charge, in addition to carrying out the floral decorations in front of the bungalows adjoining the Main Entrance.

Mr. R. A. Tatton, D.L., of Cuerden Hall, Preston, was President for the year, and carried out his duties with enthusiasm, visiting the Show each day, and attending the Herdsmen's Supper and Entertainment, at which he presented the Prizes so generously provided by himself.

The decision of your Council to increase the Prize Money and to decrease the Entry Fees proved fully justified, record entries being obtained in many sections. New features in the form of a Goat Section and a Horse Shoeing Competition were introduced, and were very successful.

During the year Prize Competitions were arranged for best-managed (mixed) farms, and for crops of cereals, roots, and potatoes. The entry in most of the classes was very satisfactory, and £91 was awarded in prizes. Towards the cost of these competitions, £28 16s. 9d.—the balance of prize funds raised in 1919 for similar purposes—was kindly handed over by representatives of the late Preston War Agricultural Committee. Messrs. John Blundell and W. H. Edge acted as the adjudicators, and at the Special Meeting of Members in the Preston Showyard, when the results were announced, were accorded a very hearty vote of thanks for their invaluable services.

The Society's thanks are accorded to the following for special contributions to the Guild Show:—

The Guild Mayor and Mayoress of Preston (Mr. and Mrs, H. Astley-Bell), 25gs. Challenge Cup for Best Cow or Heifer in the Show); Mr. John Horridge, J.P., Bury (50gs. Challenge Cup for British Friesian Cattle); Mrs. Renshaw, Poulton-le-Fylde (Challenge Cup for Lancashire Farmers' Dairy Cattle); Col. the Hon. G. F. and Lady Beatrix Stanley (Silver Cup, value 10gs., for Local Turnouts); Mr. and Mrs. A. R. M. Camm (Silver Cup, value 10gs., for Local Harness Horses); Messrs. Wm. Huntington & Sons, Liverpool (£25 towards General Prize List); Mr. T. B. Silcock, J.P., C.C. (£20 Class Prizes for Recorded Heifers in Milk); Mr. John Taylor, Oldham (£15 Class Prizes for Lancashire Farmers' Brood Mares); Messrs. Geo. Toulmin & Sons, Limited (Silver Cup, value £20, for District Shorthorn Heifers); Mr. E. G. Hothersall, J.P., F.A.I. (Silver Challenge Cup for Horse Shoeing Competition); Mr. Alfred Smetham, F.C.S. (£10 10s. towards prizes for Lancashire Cheese); Mr. C. H. Sharp, Preston (£9 9s. Special Prizes in connection with the Working Dairy Competitions); Mrs. Edward Mucklow, Mr. Francis Ellis, F.S.I., and Captain W. O. Smethurst (Prizes for Children's Riding Pony Classes); Mr. G. D. Penny, Garstang (£10 for Mastiffs); Mr. Stanley Eteson (Silver Cup, value 10gs., for Local Decorated Horses); Lt.-Col. W. R. Peel (Silver Challenge Cup for Lonk Sheep); Mr. T. E. Clarke (Special Prize for Wensleydale Lambs); also the Lancashire County Milk Recording Society, and numerous Breed Associations.

The further thanks of your Council are also due to the Preston Gas Co. for valuable services rendered in connection with the laying on of Gas; to Messıs. Waring & Gillow, of Lancaster, for their generosity in decorating and furnishing with such excellence the Chairman's Pavilion; and to Messıs. Little & Ballantyne, and Messıs. Saul, of Preston, for floral decorations on the Showyard.

Your Council also wish to mark their appreciation of the kindness of the Lancashire County Council in again providing cream, &c., for the competitions, for the admirable manner in which the arrangements for the Working Dairy were carried out, and for their generous grant of £25 towards the expenses of the same.

On the second day of the Show a Special Meeting of Members was held on the Showyard, when an influential deputation from the Corporation of Liver ool, headed by the Right Honourable the Lord Mayor of Liverpool (C. H. Rutherford, Esq.), attended and extended a hearty invitation to hold the next Show in that City, and the same was most unanimously accepted. The Show will be held on the Wavertree Playground, which offers many facilities, and is readily accessible by rail or tiam. The Show was last held in Liverpool in 1914, and your Council look forward with pleasurable anticipation to another visit to such an important city.

Your Council greatly regret to have to again announce the decease of several of the Society's members and supporters, including:—

Sir Harcourt Clare, Sir W. H. Tate, Bt., Mr. Charles Clark, Mr. Walter Cunningham (Vice-Presidents); Mr. George Singleton (an Hon. Life Vice-President); Mr. Thos. A. Crook (a Representative Member of Council for the Northern Division); and Lady O'Hagan, Sir Edward Tootal-Broadhurst, and Mr. William Whittaker (Chorley).

The membership of the Society is now 2,810, but your Council would again urge that all steps should be taken to still further increase this number, which is small in proportion to the agricultural position of the County. Thirteen Vice-Presidents, 12 Life Members, and 386 Annual Members have been added during the past year, and 159 Members have been lost through death, resignation, and lapsing.
